'We're Having A Ball,' Trio Reports In Orbiting Apollo

Docking Successful After Easy Launch

COMBINED AP & UPI

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A space veteran and two rookies rode the world's largest manned spacecraft into orbit today on an 11-day adventure that could place America firmly on the path to the moon.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, dressed for the moon in the new bubble-topped lunar suits, hurtled into orbit aboard the 69,000-pound Apollo 7. If the flight goes well, it will end after 63 orbits in 11 days and 4.5 million miles of flight through space.

"We're having a ball," said Schirra, veteran astronaut on his third flight into space. "The windows appear to be almost crystal clear."

Thousands of people lined Atlantic beaches as the Saturn 1B rocket, the most powerful booster ever used for a U.S. manned flight, pressed the spacecraft into orbit, riding a tail of fire the length of a football field.

The eight first stage engines generating 1.6 million pounds of thrust—more power than 100 jet fighter planes—ignited at 8:03 a.m. PDT, roared into the crystal blue sky and curved downrange.

Schirra said shortly after ignition that the ride "was a little bumpy", but six minutes later he said it was "riding like a dream."

Mission control center said the rocket cutoffs "were nearly as perfect as they could be."

Mission Control Center said the mighty booster rocket performed flawlessly during its 10 minutes of powered flight, accelerating the spacecraft to 17,500 miles an hour.

Success of the Apollo 7 flight may open the door for another Apollo crew to orbit the moon in December, a vital step toward landing men on the moon next year.

The three Apollo 7 astronauts succeeded in a docking maneuver vital to a man-to-the-moon flight.

Although no actual link up occurred, they steered Apollo 7 to within 4 or 5 feet of a target circle painted on top of the second stage of their Saturn 1B booster rocket, the single-engine S4B.

"It's absolutely beautiful here," Schirra said as he steered Apollo 7 toward the tar-

Bridge District Vote Gives Marin $60,695 Repayment

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors today voted 9-2 to repay almost $2 million to the six counties in the district.

The repayment, authorized by the 1968 Legislature, is for property tax funds paid to the district from 1929 to 1931 before the bridge was built. Marin will get $60,695, equal to about 1.2 cents on the tax rate.

The board's vote overruled the opinion of the district's own attorney, Jerome B. White. He ruled against the repayment two weeks ago on the ground it would be an unconstitutional gift of public money.

Voting against the motion, made by Director Daniel F. Del Carlo of San Francisco, were directors L. E. Castner of Sonoma County and board chairman John E. Nelson of Mendocino County. Nelson termed the repayment "an immoral raid on our treasury" because it would not go back to the same citizens who paid the taxes.

Immediate repayment was demanded by a delegation of San Francisco officals led by Democratic Assemblyman John F. Foran. San Francisco will receive $1,752,678.

Foran was armed with an opinion from the Legislature's attorney, George H. Murphy, which directly contradicted White's opinion.

"The Legislature has absolute power over the organization, the dissolution, the extent, the powers, and the liabilities" of the bridge district, wrote Murphy.

The repayment "will not be disturbed by the courts so long as it has a reasonable basis,' said Murphy, adding that the repayment definitely would be reasonable.

White raised sudden objections to the repayment at a bridge board meeting last month after a bill authorizing the repayment had easily cleared the Legislature late last spring.

District Auditor Gordon Dahlgren said after the vote today that funds were available to cover the repayment.

However, Dahlgren said, he would consult first with White on whether he faced any liability if a taxpayers' suit were filed against the district.

White said he would have to read Murphy's opinion before he could answer Dahlgren's question.

"He may convince me," White said of Murphy's opinion.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco said such a suit would be "highly remote" because the repayment would benefit all taxpayers in the six counties.

Nine Cubans Nabbed For Terror Acts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nine Cuban exiles were charged today in connection with a nationwide wave of anti-Castro terror activities—bombings and shellings conducted in the name of "Cuban power."

A former Cuban doctor, Orlando Bosch, was among those charged. He was accused of threatening to destroy ships and planes of Great Britain, Mexico and Spain in cablegrams sent June 6 to the heads of government in those countries.

Bosch and two other exiles, Jose Diaz Morejon and Barbaro Balan Garcia, also were charged with the Sept. 16 shelling of the Polish freighter Polanica in Miami harbor. That incident led to apologies by the United States government after protests were published in Iron Curtain newspapers.

All nine are in custody. Others arrested were identified as Aimee Miranda Cruz, 40, the only woman in the group; Marco Rodriquez Ramson, 24; Jorge Luis Gutierrez Ulla, 20; Pauline Gutierrez, 45, father of Jorge; Andrew Jorge Gonzales, 37, and Jesus Dominquez Benitez, 27.

Marin City Plans For Own Future

By FRANK FARRARA

Marin City Council, advocating the right of residents to control their own destiny, last night adopted a broad general slate of immediate and long range programs for Marin City.

To gain control, they agreed that the council should be established as a nonprofit corporation "to promote the social educational, physical and economic development" of Marin City.

In a third step, the council retained Plan of Action for Challenging Times of San Francisco, a private nonprofit corporation, as its consultant on community development.

Council action came after a two-and-a-half hour hearing at the Manzanita Neighborhood Center before about 45 persons.

Dr. Daniel A. Collins of Mill Valley, board chairman of PACT, warned that the task "will be painstaking," but when it comes to "how to run a community . . . the only way is to do it yourself."

The plan is for funds, both governmental and private, to be funneled through the nonprofit corporation to be known as Marin City Council Inc.

Listed among the immediate programs were community controlled law enforcement, home improvement service, construction of an enclosed swimming pool, a beautification program, improved programs for the Manzanita Neighborhood Center, jitney bus service, a local industrial recruitment center, black culture courses, improved health service and improved community communication.

The council bypassed assigning priorities to immediate programs with council member Daniel Hayden Sr. commenting, "I think priorities will be determined

Council Votes To Transfer Project 17

The Mill Valley City Council met this morning and unanimously agreed to transfer its Project 17 acreage to the Mill Valley School District, thus clearing the way for the district's middle school plans.

The council attached five conditions to the transfer. All of them are agreeable to the school district, according to school board member William L. Clark.

The conditions are:

The present community center building will not be moved until next spring.

Existing uses of the six acres north of a creek on the property cannot be changed without city approval until the district needs the area for school development.

The entire area will revert to the city if the district cannot build the school for any reason, such as passage of the Watson amendment limiting property taxes.

The district will pay $1,000 toward an access road and parking lot improvements around the community center.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said the deed transfer will be drawn up today for the signature of Mayor Dean N. Meyer. The school board can formally approve it Monday night, and the document will probably be transferred Tuesday.

The city will get the district's 11-acre Enchanted Knolls site in exchange for the Project 17 acreage.

Balmer said he and School Supt. James A. Collins had agreed that priority development at the school should in-

Former Principal Edwin Wells Dies

EDWIN A. WELLS SR.
Retired educator

Edwin A. Wells Sr., retired principal of San Rafael High School, died yesterday at Marin General Hospital after apparently suffering a heart attack earlier in San Francisco. He was 79.

Wells' wife, Mildred, said she and her husband and a group from Sunny Hills were on a visit to the Youth Guidance Center in San Francisco when he complained of chest pains.

Wells was taken to Park Emergency Hospital and later transferred to Marin General, where he died at 6:30 p.m.

Wells, an educator for 33 years, was principal at San Rafael High School from 1935 until 1956. Before coming to San Rafael, he served as vice principal and principal of schools in Elk Grove, Sacramento County, and Paso Robles, San Luis Obispo County. He was a 1914 graduate of Stanford University.

Wells was a member of the Main County Juvenile Justice Commission, past president of the San Rafael Rotary Club, ex-foreman of the Marin Grand Jury, and belonged to the Commonwealth Club, Stanford Club of Marin and Sons in Retirement, which he also served as membership chairman.

A volunteer worker with the Girl Scouts of America, he was responsible for development of the Treasure Mountain Girl Scout Camp near Sierraville, Sierra County.

Born in San Diego, Wells had lived in Marin since 1935. He and his wife lived at 60 West Seaview Avenue, San Rafael.

Also surviving are two sons, Edwin A. of Portola Valley and Donn J. of Seattle, Wash., and 10 grandchildren.

There will be no funeral. Memorial gifts are preferred to Sunny Hills or the Fred Aubert Memorial Craft Room at Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Rainy Weekend Likely In Marin

Autumn's first rain began to fall today in Marin County and Southern Sonoma as a gentle storm moved into Northern California.

Drizzles were reported throughout the county by noon.

The weatherman said that the chances of rainfall are 80 per cent tomorrow and that winds of 15 to 30 miles per hour are expected.

The snow level was expected to drop to 5,000 feet tomorrow in the Mount Shasta-Siskiyou area and to 6,000 to 8,000 feet in the Sierra Nevadas.

Three Years Probation For Gregory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Marin County theological student today was sentenced to three years probation at work of national importance for refusing military induction.

Henry Duval Gregory IV, a 25-year-old student at San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo, could have received a maximum five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

Before sentence was imposed U.S. Dist. Judge Stanley A. Weigle refused to listen to any suggestion from government prosecutor Paul Sloan on the terms of Gregory's punishment.

The type of work he will be assigned will be determined by federal probation officers, but appeal procedures are expected to delay this decision for possibly a year.

Gregory, married and the father of an 8-month-old son, refused to seek deferment as a clergy student because he said such action for him would have been an act of hypocrisy.

Speaking in court before the sentencing, Gregory said: "I have sympathy for all of us who cannot immediately put in

Deputies Vote Funds To Aid Travis' Case

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos's dismissal of popular deputy Weldon C. Travis will be fought through funds allocated by the Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association.

Association members last night voted to give Travis, their president until he was fired last Friday, their entire bankroll to pay legal fees and the costs of being out of work.

The action by the deputy sheriffs last night puts at Travis' disposal $3,700. Part of that money was to be given today to David R. Baty, attorney for the deputy, as a retainer.

In a resolution unanimously approved by the 30 per cent of the association members present, the deputies told Travis they support him 100 per cent and offer as much of their money as he needs.

STOCKPILE RUMOR

President Gets Gun Control Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The President's commission on violence heard testimony this week that fearful Americans are stockpiling guns and ammunition at a frightening rate.

Today President Johnson had on his desk for signature legislation banning interstate mail order sales of all guns and ammunition and limiting over-the-counter sales to qualified purchasers.

It was just over six months ago Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot to death in Memphis, and just over four months ago Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was gunned down in a hotel in Los Angeles.

The public outcry for stringent gun control legislation in the wake of the shocking assassinations was enormous.

But despite pleadings by Johnson and the hundreds of sacks of mail that deluged congress from across the nation, lawmakers rejected stiffer proposals to add registration of guns and licensing of their owners.

The final bill passed 160-129 by the House yesterday, though, was still the strongest antigun legislation ever enacted.

Approved was a compromise that for the most part contained the more stringent features of a different version passed earlier by the House and Senate.

And Lyndon Johnson, though disappointed, will certainly sign it.

The measure expands limited hand gun controls enacted last summer to cover, for the first time, rifles, shotguns and ammunition. The combined package takes effect Dec. 16, representing the first new gun controls since curbs were placed on "gangster" weapons three decades ago.

Under the new bill coupled with the hand gun law, an over-the-counter gun buyer will have to be a resident of the state or —if laws of both states permit— of a neighboring state.

He also will have to be at least 21 to buy handguns, and 18 to buy long guns, and will have to have a record clear of felony convictions, drug addicition or findings of mental incompetence.

Dealers will have to keep records of all sales.

Within his state or an adjoining state, a buyer may order a gun or ammunition by mail. But he will have to file an affidavit of his eligibility and wait seven days for it to be checked.

Ammunition sales generally will be restricted to types fitting guns which the purchaser is eligible to buy.

The bill will not make it impossible for a buyer to get a firearm from an out-of-state specialty store or other source, but it will require him to obtain the weapon through his local dealer.

Pro-Czechs Get Stiff Sentences

MOSCOW (UPI)—A guarded court today convicted five Russians of defaming the Soviet Union by demonstrating in Red Square against the invasion of Czechoslovakia. They sentenced them to banishment from Moscow or terms in labor camps.

About 100 uniformed police surrounded the courthouse where Dr. Pavel Litvinov, 28-year-old grandson of the late Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov, and four others were convicted and sentenced after a three-day trial.

Litvinvov was sentenced to five years banishment from Moscow. Mrs. Larissa Daniel, wife of imprisoned dissident writer Yuli Daniel, was sent into "internal exile" for four years. Literary critic Konstantin Babitsky got three years banishment.

Laborer Vladimir Dremliuga, 27, who had joined the waving banners reading "Shame on the Invaders," was given three years in a labor camp. The court sentenced ex-student Vadim Delone, 21, to two years and 10 months in a labor camp. disturbing the peace.

Uranium King Faces Bankruptcy

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Charles Steen, whose uranium bonanza in a desolate Utah mountain range made him a millionaire, is now fighting creditors, taxmen and a bankruptcy ruling.

His vast mining, oil and land holdings were threatened today by debts estimated at $6 million.

Steen listed more than 130 creditors—including the Internal Revenue Service — when he asked the federal bankruptcy referee in May for time to liquidate some of his assets listed as $11,738,676 to pay the debts.

"It appeared to the court that I must adjudicate Mr. Steen bankrupt," referee Bert Goldwater said yesterday.

Goldwater said a majority of Steen's creditors had rejected the payment plan worked out by Steen including the IRS, which says Steen owes $1.8 million in individual income taxes.

Steen's assets — including oil and gas wells in Texas, Utah and Wyoming, mines in Colorado and his $1-million home and an Arabian horse ranch in Washoe Valley—were placed in the court's control. Goldwater said Steen has 10 days to appeal the ruling and ordered him to appear Oct. 17.

In 1952, just before he struck it rich, Steen was an oil geologist living on beans, tea and potatoes in a tar-paper shack with his wife and four sons south of Moab, Utah.

In 1962, as a Utah state senator, Steen told a fellow legislator: "I'm a multimillionaire."

Guards For Jackie

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to provide Mrs. John F. Kennedy with Secret Service protection until her death or she remarries.

The action, subject to House approval, would extend the same protection to her children until they reach the age of 16.

Existing law calls for Secret Service protection for the widow of a president for four years after he dies in office. The four years expired in Mrs. Kennedy's case November 1967. Protection since then has been on a year to year basis.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A suspected North Korean agent was shot and killed by crewmen of a patrol boat of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division yesterday as he tried to swim across the Imjin River into South Korea on the western front, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The man's body vanished in the water but the Americn crewmen found a waterproof bag containing a Soviet-made pistol, North Korean foodstuffs and other supplies normally carried by infiltrators, the spokesman said.

Negro Burial Barred

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A Negro baby was refused burial in the St. Croix cemetery near Windsor, N.S., because of a bylaw passed in 1907, the president of the Nova Scotia Association for the Advancement of Colored People, H. A. J. Wedderburn, said yesterday.

The NSAACP is demanding that responsible persons apologize to the parents of the child for the refusal about a month ago, that the bylaw be rescinded and that the provincial government take steps to make such discriminatory bylaws illegal.

The 1907 bylaw reads: "Not any Negro or colored person nor any Indian shall be buried in St. Croix cemetery."

French School Bill

PARIS (AP) — The French National Assembly approved today an education reform program which grew out of last spring's student disturbances.

The vote was 441-0, with 39 abstentions. Most of the abstentions were by the Communists who said parts of the reform bill were reactionary.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, basically provides for decentralization of the French higher education system, giving more control of individual schools to teachers and students. The bill also attempts to modernize instruction to adapt students to modern-day job demands.

Helicopter-Riding GIs Intercept 400-Man Red Unit Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Helicopter-riding U.S. infantrymen intercepted a 400-man Communist battalion yesterday northwest of Saigon and reported killing 26 guerrillas in fighting that extended into today.

American headquarters said U.S. losses were "light" while Red casualties should rise sharply in the second major battle this week near Trang Bang, 25 miles northwest of the capital.

The fighting erupted on the heels of massive U.S. B52 bomb strikes northwest of Saigon and the discovery of enough hidden Communist arms around the city to supply a 150-man Viet Cong attack.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said the alert had been cut back by 50 per cent. They did not explain exactly what it meant.

Thieu told a nationwide television audience yesterday that there had been no attempt to overthrow his government and no arrests made by antigovernment platters — cilivilians or military.

Meanwhile hundreds of American infantrymen leaped out of their helicopters into the midst of Communist soldiers on the move near Trang Bang. Many of the same U.S. soldiers killed 147 Reds on the same battlefield three days ago.

Spokesmen said the Americans were tipped to the Communists' move by "reconnaissance reports." It was the biggest action reported in the day's war communiques.

Battlefield reports said the U.S. infantrymen tried to surround the Communists but that some of the Reds had slipped through the trap. It was believed the guerrillas were from the 101st North Vietnamese Army Regiment, the same unit caught earlier near Trang Bang.

U.S. military headquarters said North Vietnamese soldiers shelled the Green Beret outpost at Thuong Duc Wednesday with 80 rounds and followed up with ground probes that were turned back. Seventeen Reds were reported killed and nine American Special Forces wounded.

The B52 raids northwest of Saigon were the second heavy strikes there in two days. Four flights of America's biggest bombers dumped 500-and 750-pound bombs onto infiltration routes 31 and 60 miles from the city, military spokesmen said.

Marin City Buys Self-Destiny Plan

by the availability of funds."

The programs will be listed in an application for funds from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. The council plans to submit its application by Nov. 2.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., council chairman, said, "there should be some medical facility in the community," and "we will do the utmost to see facilities upcoming."

Recalling injuries in a recent car crash in the Marin City area, Banks also said he was concerned "about getting the ambulance, fire department and California Highway Patrol on the scene and the injured to the hospital."

One resident compained about men gambling in front of the store and using the area for a "rest room with no decency whatsoever," and urged some action to halt this.

He also said the council shouldn't overlook that people getting off the bus in Marin City at night are robbed, and he complained about drag racers in the streets. "You should give police authority," he said.

Banks said the proposed community law enforcement program would be designed to meet these problems. "We're going to develop a community to be proud of," he said.

One proposal is to give a police program which would involve residents, who could work in teams with sheriff's deputies and receive pay and training.

Another suggestion is to develop an internship and police aide program whereby high school seniors would get training in law enforcement.

The long range program would cover a wide range of conditions, physical, social, cultural and economic, according to the council.

Listed for possible development under the long range program were a shopping complex, bank, medium industry, housing, College of Marin campus, restaurant, entertainment, specialty shop building, restaurant, black arts, services and clothing shops.

Council member Ronald Foster said that Development Corporation of Marin City is planning to have a groundbreaking in December for a grocery store, medical facility and cleaners.

Banks noted that the council wants to coordinate and cooperate with any efforts within the community so there is united effort for development.

Emory C. Curtis, director of PACT's technical and planning staff, said the council will have to get the Marin County Board of Supervisors to delegate some functions to it, possibly planning.

He said as a nonprofit organization the council could help anyone in the development of Marin City and would have a wide latitude.

The corporation can act as a receiver and dispenser not only of governmental funds, but also of contributions from foundations or residents of Marin who want to help in the development of Marin City.

The council's contract with PACT to undertake studies will be at no cost to the community, but PACT's fees will be included in the grant. PACT representatives said they would have an estimate of their bill when the grant application comes before the council Oct. 24.

On planning, Banks noted that the Marin County Planning Department would be willing to offer its advice if invited. On a proposal by the Marin Council for Civic Affairs to have the Marin City Community Services District board expanded, said "I don't object to the MCCA but do object when they attempt to say what happens in Marin City with disregard to citizens of Marin City."

The council scheduled a special session at 7 p.m. Monday to complete corporation bylaws. The corporation will have 13 directors elected by residents of Marin City for one year, but the present council will serve as directors until their current terms end.

The motions to approve the immediate and long range programs and to adopt the articles of incorporation were made by Hayden.

Council member Ephorn Freeman Jr. was absent.

Although not a condition in the city's resolution, agreement apparently was reached on the multi-purpose building at the middle school. The city has been asking that the building include more extensive gymnasium facilities with a 24-foot ceiling for basketball.

Clark said at least four school board members now agree that they want "a real gymnasium," not the less expensive multipurpose building proposed in architect's plans which would have a 16-foot ceiling.

The reason the council has "dragged its feet," Robinson said, was to "make certain something was on record as to what would be done. . . Now we know what we can expect . . . rather than basing our action on some nebulous hope."

The middle school is to include extensive recreation facilities for joint city and school use.

The council and district agreed last April on the land exchange for the project, but last month the council delayed approving the swap to work out specific points of recreation development.

and future, goes along with our financial support," the association said in a letter to Travis today.

Robert F. Richmond, acting president of the association, said he informed Sheriff Mountanos this morning of the organization's actions.

Baty said Travis' formal appeal of his dismissal was to be filed with the Marin County Personnel Commission today. The deputy will request an open hearing, he said.

The attorney revealed that he and Travis were close yesterday to winning back the deputy's job without going through a formal hearing, "but the whole thing blew sky high."

Mountanos was almost ready to place the deputy back on duty, but changed his mind for some unknown reason, Baty said. The sheriff has declined to discuss the case on the advice of county counsel.

"We will continue our efforts in that direction," he said. "I don't think either side has anything to gain from a further airing of this thing."

Cancels Session

The Sausalito Library board will not meet Monday as scheduled because of a lack of quorum, but will meet instead Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Johnson To Senate: Pass Nuclear Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today adoption of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty is important to the security of the nation and declared he will "seriously consider calling the Senate into special session" unless it ratifies the document.

Without ratification, Johnson saw stark omens ahead. He said new nuclear powers might come into being and this could force a dilemma upon the United States:

"Either withdrawing our influence and commitment from areas of the world which are vital to our interests; or

"Having other nations trigger a nuclear conflict which could involve us."

Then with a not too veiled reference to Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Johnson added:

"Those who now argue for postponing ratification of the treaty must assume the grave responsibility for its failure—and for presenting our country with that dilemma."

Under the treaty, nuclear powers would agree not to give away nuclear information and non-nuclear nations would agree not to seek to become producers of atomic weapons.

practice what we would like to see in practice.

"We must live inside a procedure in which we have lost faith and must wait for it to renew itself," he said.

Gregory, a University of Virginia graduate, was called for induction by his Roanoke, Va., draft board after he turned in his draft card during a demonstration outside the San Francisco federal building.

His attorney, Aubrey Grossman, said he would appeal the conviction.

Gregory told a news conference that he and his seminary classmates wanted to affirm their appreciation of Weigel's humanity.

Grossman said San Francisco federal courts have established a standard of three years of probation as a penalty for conscientious refusal to submit to selective service.

"In this respect, San Francisco is an island," he said.

In other areas, prison terms of three to five years are common.

Las Gallinas Creek Job Voted

Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District directors last night approved plans for widening of Las Gallinas Creek and relocating a sewer line, adjacent to Vendola Drive near Mabry Way, Santa Venetia.

The work will be done by the county. Robert Pedroncelli, engineer for the county Department of Public Works, said the cost will be about $30,000, to be paid from funds of an assessment district formed in 1965.

Lelia Sayers, district secretary, said the rest of the meeting last night was routine, such as payment of bills and report on the maintenance of the treatment plant at 300 Smith Ranch Road.

The simulated docking maneuver occurred shortly after 11 a.m. PDT after the astronauts separated Apollo 7 from the second stage, called the S4B, to which they had been attached for two orbits of the globe after their 11:03 a.m. (EDT) blastoff from Cape Kennedy.

Commander Schirra fired small jets to scoot Apollo 7 about 50 feet ahead, then turned around to face the 58-foot-long S4B. He gingerly pulsed his thrusters to jockey his ship to within 4 or 5 feet of the target as both vehicles raced along at 17,500 miles an hour more than 150 miles above the earth.

On an actual moon mission the Apollo craft will separate from the S4B, turn around as Apollo 7 did today, and dock with the Lunar Module stowed atop the stage. The module is the vehicle which two astronauts will ride to the surface of the moon.

Before the separation from the stage, the astronauts were flying a massive spaceship which measured 113 feet, 3 inches long and weighed 69,034 pounds. After separation, the Apollo 7 ship was reduced to 33,389 pounds and a height of 33 feet, 4 inches, still four times heavier than any previous U.S. manned space vehicle and about two tons heavier than Russia's largest.

After conducting the simulated docking, Schirra gave his jets a short burst of power to place Apollo 7 in a slightly different orbit calculated to move the astronauts out about 83 miles in front of the S4B by tomorrow.

Then the pilots will conduct a series of maneuvers intended to bring about a rendezvous of the two vehicles about 2 p.m. PDT tomorrow.

Among those watching the spectacular liftoff of America's first manned flight in nearly two years was Cunningham's wife, Lo Ella. She and their two children, Brian, 8, and Kimberly, 5, watched from a boat floating on a river near Cape Kennedy.

The families of Schirra and Eisele watched on television at their homes near the Manned Spacecraft in Houston, Tex.

The countdown to launch of the marathon flight was near flawless. A brief hold was called at 6:15 before liftoff to permit proper chill down of the second stage rocket engines, but the problem was quickly corrected.

Schirra was qualifying as perhaps the nation's coolest astronaut—at least in terms of heartbeat. Mission Control reported the commander's heart was beating 87 times a minute at liftoff—the lowest by several beats ever recorded at that point.

It reached its high point—100 beats per minute—when the first stage fell away.

Apollo 7 went into an orbit ranging from 140 to 174 miles high—a near perfect orbit. The planned orbit had been from 142 to 176 miles.

The rocket, burning 720 gallons of fuel a second, rose ponderously from the earth, gaining speed gradually until it shattered the sound barrier a mile high.

Schirra observed that the gravity forces thrust on the crew by the accelerating rocket were light—"just great."

Schirra, the 45-year-old veteran of the first two generations of American manned spaceflights, expects to retire from the space piloting business after the flight of Apollo 7. Eisele, 38, and Cunningham, 36, expect to fly again, hopefully to the moon.

Although Apollo 7 is to stay up for 11 days, mission director William Schneider said yesterday there was "a distinct possibility we may have to make a decision to shorten it." He said most mission objectives could be achieved in three days.

Apollo's 7's flight comes nearly 20 months after the first of the moonships to be manned —Apollo 1—was to have been launched. Its pilots, Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee, were killed Jan. 27, 1967, when fire swept their cabin during a launch pad test.

The 16-ton Apollo 7 is a much improved spacecraft. It has been extensively fireproofed, has stronger wiring and plumbing and is equipped with a quick opening hatch for launch pad escapes.

On its return from earth orbit, Apollo 7 will dive back into earth's atmosphere at about 17,500 miles per hour.

If all goes according to plan, the scorched command capsule will be lowered by three orange and white striped parachutes into the Atlantic Ocean Oct. 22. about 690 miles east of the Cape.

The aircraft carrier Essex will be on hand to pick up the crew and its spacecraft.

Deputies List Five Burglaries In Rural Marin

Marin sheriff's deputies today reported five burglaries which occurred in the unincorporated areas of Marin County. They were:

The theft of two color television sets and two fur coats from the home of Grace Lister at 27 Ichabod Court, Sleepy Hollow, Tuesday.

Theft of $540 worth of stereophonic and short wave radio equipment from John Brosen's home at 345 Laverne Avenue, Homestead Valley, Wednesday.

Theft of a $90 television set from Michael J. Schultz's home at the Bar B Ranch in Nicasio Sept. 29 or 30.

Russ Cosmos Aloft

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched another unmanned earth satellite in its Cosmos series. A brief announcement on the launching of Cosmos 247 did not, as usual, give its specific mission but said only that it would continue space exploration. It was the fourth Cosmos launched in 10 days.

Suspect In Check Ring Escapes

A bad check artist, believed to be part of a ring passing stolen payroll checks in the Bay Area escaped on foot last night after failing to cash a check at a San Rafael liquor store, San Rafael police reported today.

Identification Officer David L. Vargo said the same man had successfully passed stolen checks in recent weeks in Tiburon and Novato.

The suspect, using the name Raymond Maes and a false address of 120 Linden Lane, San Rafael, passed $79 checks last week at Warden's Liquors in Novato and Sept. 21 at the Corner Market in Tiburon, Vargo said.

Last night, his mistake was in trying to cash a check at 7:40 p.m. at Original Fourth Street Liquors, 701 Fourth Street, San Rafael. The store is a member of the same chain as Warden's Liquors.

Clerk Marin C. Beebe recognized the check as identical to the one passed in Novato, refused to cash it and demanded $79 from the suspect for the Novato check.

Vargo said the checks are part of 300 checks on United Associates Fork Lift Service of San Francisco, stolen in a burglary last month.

The man passing checks here was described as Caucasian, in his late 20s, five feet, nine inches tall, with medium build, black hair and dark complexion.

Budget Copies Are Available

About 650 copies of the 462-page budget were printed by Salin Printing and Advertising Inc. of San Rafael. A separate budget for the Marin County Transit District is also available.

Anyone who wants a copy of the final budget should contact the auditor-controller's office on the second floor of the Civic Center, said Mitchell.

Colonial-Style Pole Wins Nod

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. submitted various designs to the board. The new poles will be installed in connection with undergrounding of utilities.

The board also asked for cost estimates of installing four poles on Broadway between Bank Street and Bolinas Road.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Nov. 7 in the women's club.

The measure would limit property tax levies to 1 per cent of market value and eliminate the use of property tax revenues to support schools and welfare.

Nine Found Guilty Of Burning Draft Files

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Seven men and two women, all Roman Catholics, have been convicted of burning draft board records with homemade napalm.

A jury deliberated one hour and 20 minutes yesterday in U.S. District Court, and after the foreman read the guilty verdict to a hushed, crowded courtroom a spectator shouted:

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ordered the courtroom cleared. Spectators moved into the halls, where they began singing, "We Shall Overcome." Outside the building they continued singing and held lighted candles as several dozen helmeted policemen looked on.

The defendants are the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 45, of Baltimore; his brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 47, formerly an instructor at Cornell University; Thomas P. Lewis, 27, a Baltimore artist, David Darst, 26, a Christian Brothers teacher in St. Louis Mo.; John Hogan, 33, a former Maryknoll brother; Thomas Melville, 38, a former Maryknoll priest, and his wife Marjorie, 38, a former nun; George Mische, 31, a peace organizer from Washington, D.C., and Mary Moylan, 32, a nurse.

They were convicted of mutilating and destroying government records, hindering administration of the Selective Service Act and causing injury to government property. The charges stemmed from an incident May 17 at nearby Catonsville, Md.

They had pleaded innocent, and throughout the four-day trial defense attorneys sought to introduce testimony to show that the actions of the defendants were intended as a public protest against the war in Vietnam.

Each defendant could receive a maximum of 18 years in jail and fines of $17,000 on the three counts of the indictment. The judge ordered the cases submitted to a federal probation department for a report before setting a sentencing date. Seven of the nine were freed on bail.

Father Philip Berrigan and Lewis, who are presently serving six-year sentences for pouring blood on draft card records a year ago in Baltimore, were returned to the federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa.

After the judge dismissed the jury the defendants asked for permission to speak. They all said they should not be judged on the acts they committed but on their motives and were trying to call to the attention of the people of the United States what they considered the government's immoral activities in Vietnam.

Judge Thomsen said these were not the issues but added:

"To me as a man, I would be a funny sort of person if I were not moved by your views. I have not attempted to cut your discussion short.

"I frankly say that I am as anxious to terminate the war as the average man, even more, maybe. But people can't take the law into their own hands."

$60,000 Suit Charges Dogbites

A Mill Valley father, who says his two sons were each bitten twice by a neighbor's dog, has asked for $60,000 from that neighbor in a suit filed in Marin Superior Court.

The action was brought yesterday by William R. Kaes of 208 Morningson Avenue on behalf of his sons, William, 14, and Stephen, 12. Named as defendant was Donald E. Scarf of 246 Morningsun Avenue, owner of the German shepherd dog.

The action claims the dog bit William on the arm and foot as he rode his bicycle in the neighborhood. Kaes claims Stephen was bitten in the back and arm as he delivered newspapers. The alleged attacks occurred over the past three years, according to the suit.

The action asks $15,000 for each incident, plus medical and court costs.

Nurse Licensed

Christine M. Groth of 101 Martens Boulevard, San Rafael, has been granted a license as a registered nurse, Michael R. Buggy, executive secretary of the state Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration, announced today.

Board Clears Up Afro-American Teacher Status

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The state Board of Education has agreed to permit persons with two years of college to teach Afro-American courses in California's high schools.

But it decided, at a meeting here yesterday, that the provisional credentials will be granted only to those with special ytraining in the field and on the condition they promise to complete their education and get regular teaching credentials.

The board also voted to seek legislation that would eliminate distinction between academic and nonacademic teacher training.

This would involve amendment of the 1961 Fisher Bill which prevents persons who did not major in certain academic subjects from taking administrative posts. Under the Fisher Bill, athletic coaches cannot become principals.

In another action, the board voted to increase teacher credential fees for one year by $5 to $20 to make up a $100,000 deficit in administering the credentials system.

Coyotes normally run in family groups.

BART Sells $70 Million More Bonds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The sale of $70 million in general obligations bonds was announced yesterday by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The bonds were purchased by a syndicate headed by the First National Bank of Chicago and including Wells Fargo Bank.

BART director of finance John Pierce said the latest sale left $142 million of bonds still unsold out of the original $792 million approved by the voters.

Pierce said the bonds sold yesterday went at a slightly higher cost because of the large number of bond offerings in California at the present time. He explained the offerings have increased in anticipation of the possible passage of proposition 9 in the November general election.

Proposition 9 would establish lower debt limitations in all levels of California government, thus restricting bond sales.

In yesterday's sale the syndicate submitted a low bid of 4.701 per cent average interest. Total accrued interest on the 30-year issue will come to $68,064,465, almost the total of the sale itself.

Women Oppose Missile Base

The Sausalito Woman's Club has passed a resolution requesting the Army not to use either Angel Island or a proposed site on Wolfback Ridge for an antimissile missile base.

The club said that Angel Island and Wolfback Ridge should be preserved as natural outdoor areas.

The Army has announced that both sites were being considered in its search for a Bay Area site for its Sentinel missile program, designed as a thin defense against small missiles.

Youth Feels Guilt, Psychiatrist Says

SAN JOSE (UPI) —Leonard Maine, one of two Washington state youths on trial for the slaying of a Ukiah teen-ager and the wounding of a girl, considers himself a dead man with no hope of recovering from his guilt feelings.

Dr. Wilson Van Dusen, chief psychologist at Mendocino State Hospital, made the statement yesterday at the trial of Maine and Thomas E. Braun, co-defendants in the slaying of Timothy Luce and the critical wounding of his girl friend, Susan Bartolomei.

Van Dusen said Maine was the victim of frequent nightmares and vivid dreams involving guilt feelings stemming from a three state crime spree that left two other persons dead.

In earlier testimony, Maine implicated himself and Braun, both 19 and from Ritzville, Wash., in the killing of a Washington housewife and a Portland, Ore., salesman. Maine, however, told the court he did not shoot any of the victims.

Both have pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

In yesterday's testimony, Van Dusen said Maine had an IQ of 84 which was on "the borderline of mental retardation." And the defendant's IQ level tends to drop even lower when he is put in a condition of "stress," he added.

Van Dusen said the defendant was the type of person who is dependent upon others, especially his mother and father, and preferred to be "a follower of people who were good talkers."

Since the shooting, Van Dusen said Maine had not slept well because of the bad dreams he had in which he "hears Braun's gun go off" and "is plagued by his inability to help the girl."

"Maine has been kicking himself for some months for not doing anything to help the girl," the psychologist said. "He feels he should have done something to stop Braun."

"In my opinion, Maine is not psychotic, nor was he at the time of the alleged offense," Van Dusen said.

Class Selection Wins Support Of Stanford Faculty

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University faculty representatives have voice support for colleagues at the University of California Berkeley campus involved in controversy over content of courses.

By a 33-10 vote yesterday the Stanford Academic Senate deplored "any kind of political coercion on faculty members which tends to stifle the expression of unpopular ideas in university curricula."

They also expressed general support for the Berkeley faculty in "efforts to pursue knowledge and to educate students in ways they deem effective."

The group specifically supported actions taken by the Berkeley Academic Senate Oct. 3 when it decided to go ahead with plans to hold a course Social Analysis 139X in which Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver would give 10 lectures.

Oak View Parents To Study Prop. 9

Oak View Parents Association will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at Oak View School in San Rafael Park to discuss Proposition 9. (The Watson Amendment.) President David Linde will preside at the meeting.

Prososition 9, on the Nov. 5 Ballot, would eliminate property taxes as a source of funds for schools, welfare and other "people-related" services, but it does not specify how schools and welfare will be supported.

So smooth we patented it.

Want to cash in on California's growth?

Buy a piece of it – land values can appreciate 8 to 16% a year.

This is the state that never stops growing.

We're gaining just under 10,000 people every week, on the average. Or more than the next three states (Texas, New York, Florida) combined.

You may not cheer at the news, but our present 20 million population is supposed to hit 27 million by 1980. And 40 million at century's end.

Somehow all this population will have to live, work, relax, shop and find a place to park on the same 100 million acres that make up California today.

Doubling our population is bound to increase the value of this acreage. Along with the value of anything on the land: a house, an apartment building, a store, cafe or office building.

The way real estate has been performing should be a valid preview of its future in the Golden State. Here's part of its track record:

In Southern California, urban real estate has gained 3 to 5% annually in recent years. Rural land close to the suburbs has gone up faster: 5 to 9%. And land a bit farther out has done still better: 8 to 16%.

California's land value overall increased 60% from 1960 to 1965. Hard to believe? Well, then, consider this. In the same period, the value of many carefully chosen investment land parcels positively soared – up 100 to 300%.

As for houses, you know how their prices have been escalating. Many authorities estimate it's about 5% a year. With no end in sight.

Does all this make you want to cash in on California's growth? Fine – just so you keep your cool, and look before you move.

Buying real estate is like buying stock market securities. Even when the trend is up, it's the informed, selective investor who does best.

There's no guarantee of big profits. Or of profits. You may hear about the man who makes a killing. But the investors who lose do very little talking.

A home, if well located and priced right, is a prime investment. Most families will never do better. But you should plan to live in it 5 to 10 years or more, to offset selling costs and give it a chance to grow.

Buying land as an investment takes some specialized knowledge. The same is true of apartment or store buildings, houses to rent, and other commercial property.

Factors to consider include:

Is there a local oversupply of housing and commercial buildings? Which direction is the population growth moving? Can you invest in a promising area before everybody else does? Are zoning laws about to change? Where are new highways going in? Will they help or hurt the value of available real estate?

These are just starter questions to keep in mind. But they do suggest how right you are to consult well-qualified real estate specialists before you sign on any dotted lines. They can tell you the other questions to ask. And come up with the answers.

You may know a Realtor or broker who has served you well before, and is active in the investment area. Then there are real estate syndicates and investment trusts. These make it possible to diversify your holdings, much as in a mutual stock fund.

Right in your own community, there are many property investment opportunities. California is still the Golden State – more so, perhaps, than ever before. As a Californian, shouldn't you have a real stake in its future?

A Transatlantic Call Links Kiwanis Clubs

By ALAN JONES

Chianti bottles lined the tables, mandolin music filled the air and canelloni lined the stomachs of San Rafael Kiwanis Club members yesterday as they celebrated Columbus Day ahead of time with a transatlantic telephone chat with Milan.

The occasion was the first anniversary of the Milano Centro Kiwanis Club, founded with the aid of eight local Kiwanis members who were in Milan a year ago to assist with charter ceremonies. It was the first time an American club has sponsored a European Kiwanis club, George J. Silvestri said yesterday.

Silvestri, a former president of the San Rafael club, was one of the eight Marinites in Milan and was in charge of yesterday's program.

Through an advance telephone hookup, the Milan connection came through three minutes early as club members here polished off the last of their chicken cacciatore and spumoni ice cream.

Silvestri picked up the red telephone and said "Pronto," which is Italian for hello on the phone.

Not much happened for a couple of minutes but some instersellar electronic sounds, then an operator came on with "Ready with your call to Milan."

"Pronto, pronto," Silvestri said. The voice of Walter Fruh, president of the Milan club, faded in from space.

After a few greetings in Italian, Fruh and Silvestri switched to English but the telephone circuit faded out and Silvestri had to call the operator again for a new connection.

After three minutes that seemed longer, Fruh's voice came on again. Speaking not with an Italian but with a slight German accent, he thanked the Marin Kiwanis for its help during the year and for the club newsletter sent to Milan, which he said had provided the new club several good ideas.

"We're looking forward to expanding the Milano Centro Kiwanis and doing still more," Fruh said. "We can get some good ideas from you."

Much of his message, though loud enough on the conference broadcast system set up, was muffled and difficult to understand, like an astronaut reporting from the far side of the globe.

He passed on greetings to the eight who had been in Milan, Silvestri, Clarence A. DeLong, William T. Eckhoff, John Hourihan, Joseph E. Saccone, Frank D. George, William Sweet and Mark Aiken.

Silvestri in turn greeted the Milanese Kiwanis, asked after several men the Marin group met last year, and closed with a burst of voluble Italian.

"They're picking up the ball from reading our bulletin and seeing what we do," Silvestri told the Marin club. Such international ties "could do a lot more toward world peace than some of these hippies."

The program must have been a success. Not one of the 50 men present, not even the non-Italian ones, so much as stepped outside to learn the final World Series score. That's Italian power.

Antipornography Tactics Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office has abandoned censorship as a weapon in the war against smut and is training its guns only on dealers who mail pornography to people who complain.

Main goal of this new strategy, says Chief Postal Inspector Harry B. Montague, is to keep advertisements for smut out of the hands of children and young people.

Rafferty Backers

Justine Lucas, Dominican College student, and Ross Parlette, College of Marin student, have been named cochairmen of the Marin County Students for Rafferty by James A. Rowen, county chairman of Rafferty for U.S. Senator.

Second Deck Commuter Poll Shelved

A proposed poll of commuters to get their opinions on a second deck for Golden Gate Bridge was temporarily shelved today by bridge and highway district directors.

Meeting as the district's public relations committee at the toll plaza offices, the five directors unanimously rejected the proposal by Dan E. London of San Francisco. London made the suggestion several months ago, and the district staff today reported the poll would cost up to $15,000.

London said, "The poor public hasn't had a chance to express itself on a second deck." Opposition to a second deck last year "mostly came from organized groups," he said.

The committee agreed, however, to reconsider London's proposal after the 90-day trial of a one-way toll system, to begin Oct. 19.

Also shelved, but permanently, was a proposal by Painters' Union Local 4 that a plaque in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. be placed on the bridge. Director William D. Hadeler of San Francisco objected that approval would set a precedent "for all kinds of plaques out there."

The committee voted 4-1 to reject the proposal, Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco dissenting, "I don't see that it would hurt the bridge at all."

Synanon Buying 12-Story Building In Mid-Oakland

Synanon is buying a $750,000 12-story building in the older part of downtown Oakland and plans to close its San Diego center, according to officials of the foundation which treats drug addicts and alcoholics.

Al Adler, assistant manager of Synanon House in San Diego said yesterday that the center there which has housed as many as 250 persons, will be closed and the residents and staff moved to Oakland where the block square Athens Club is being purchased.

Earlier this year Synanon abandoned plans to buy the Uplands Apartments in Corte Madera after protests by neighbors. The Marshall facility in West Marin has also been changed this year from a large residence treatment center into a research center with fewer residents.

Adler said that Synanon will be "trying to help people with anti-social attitudes, racial problems and victims of poverty as well as those with drug problems" in Oakland.

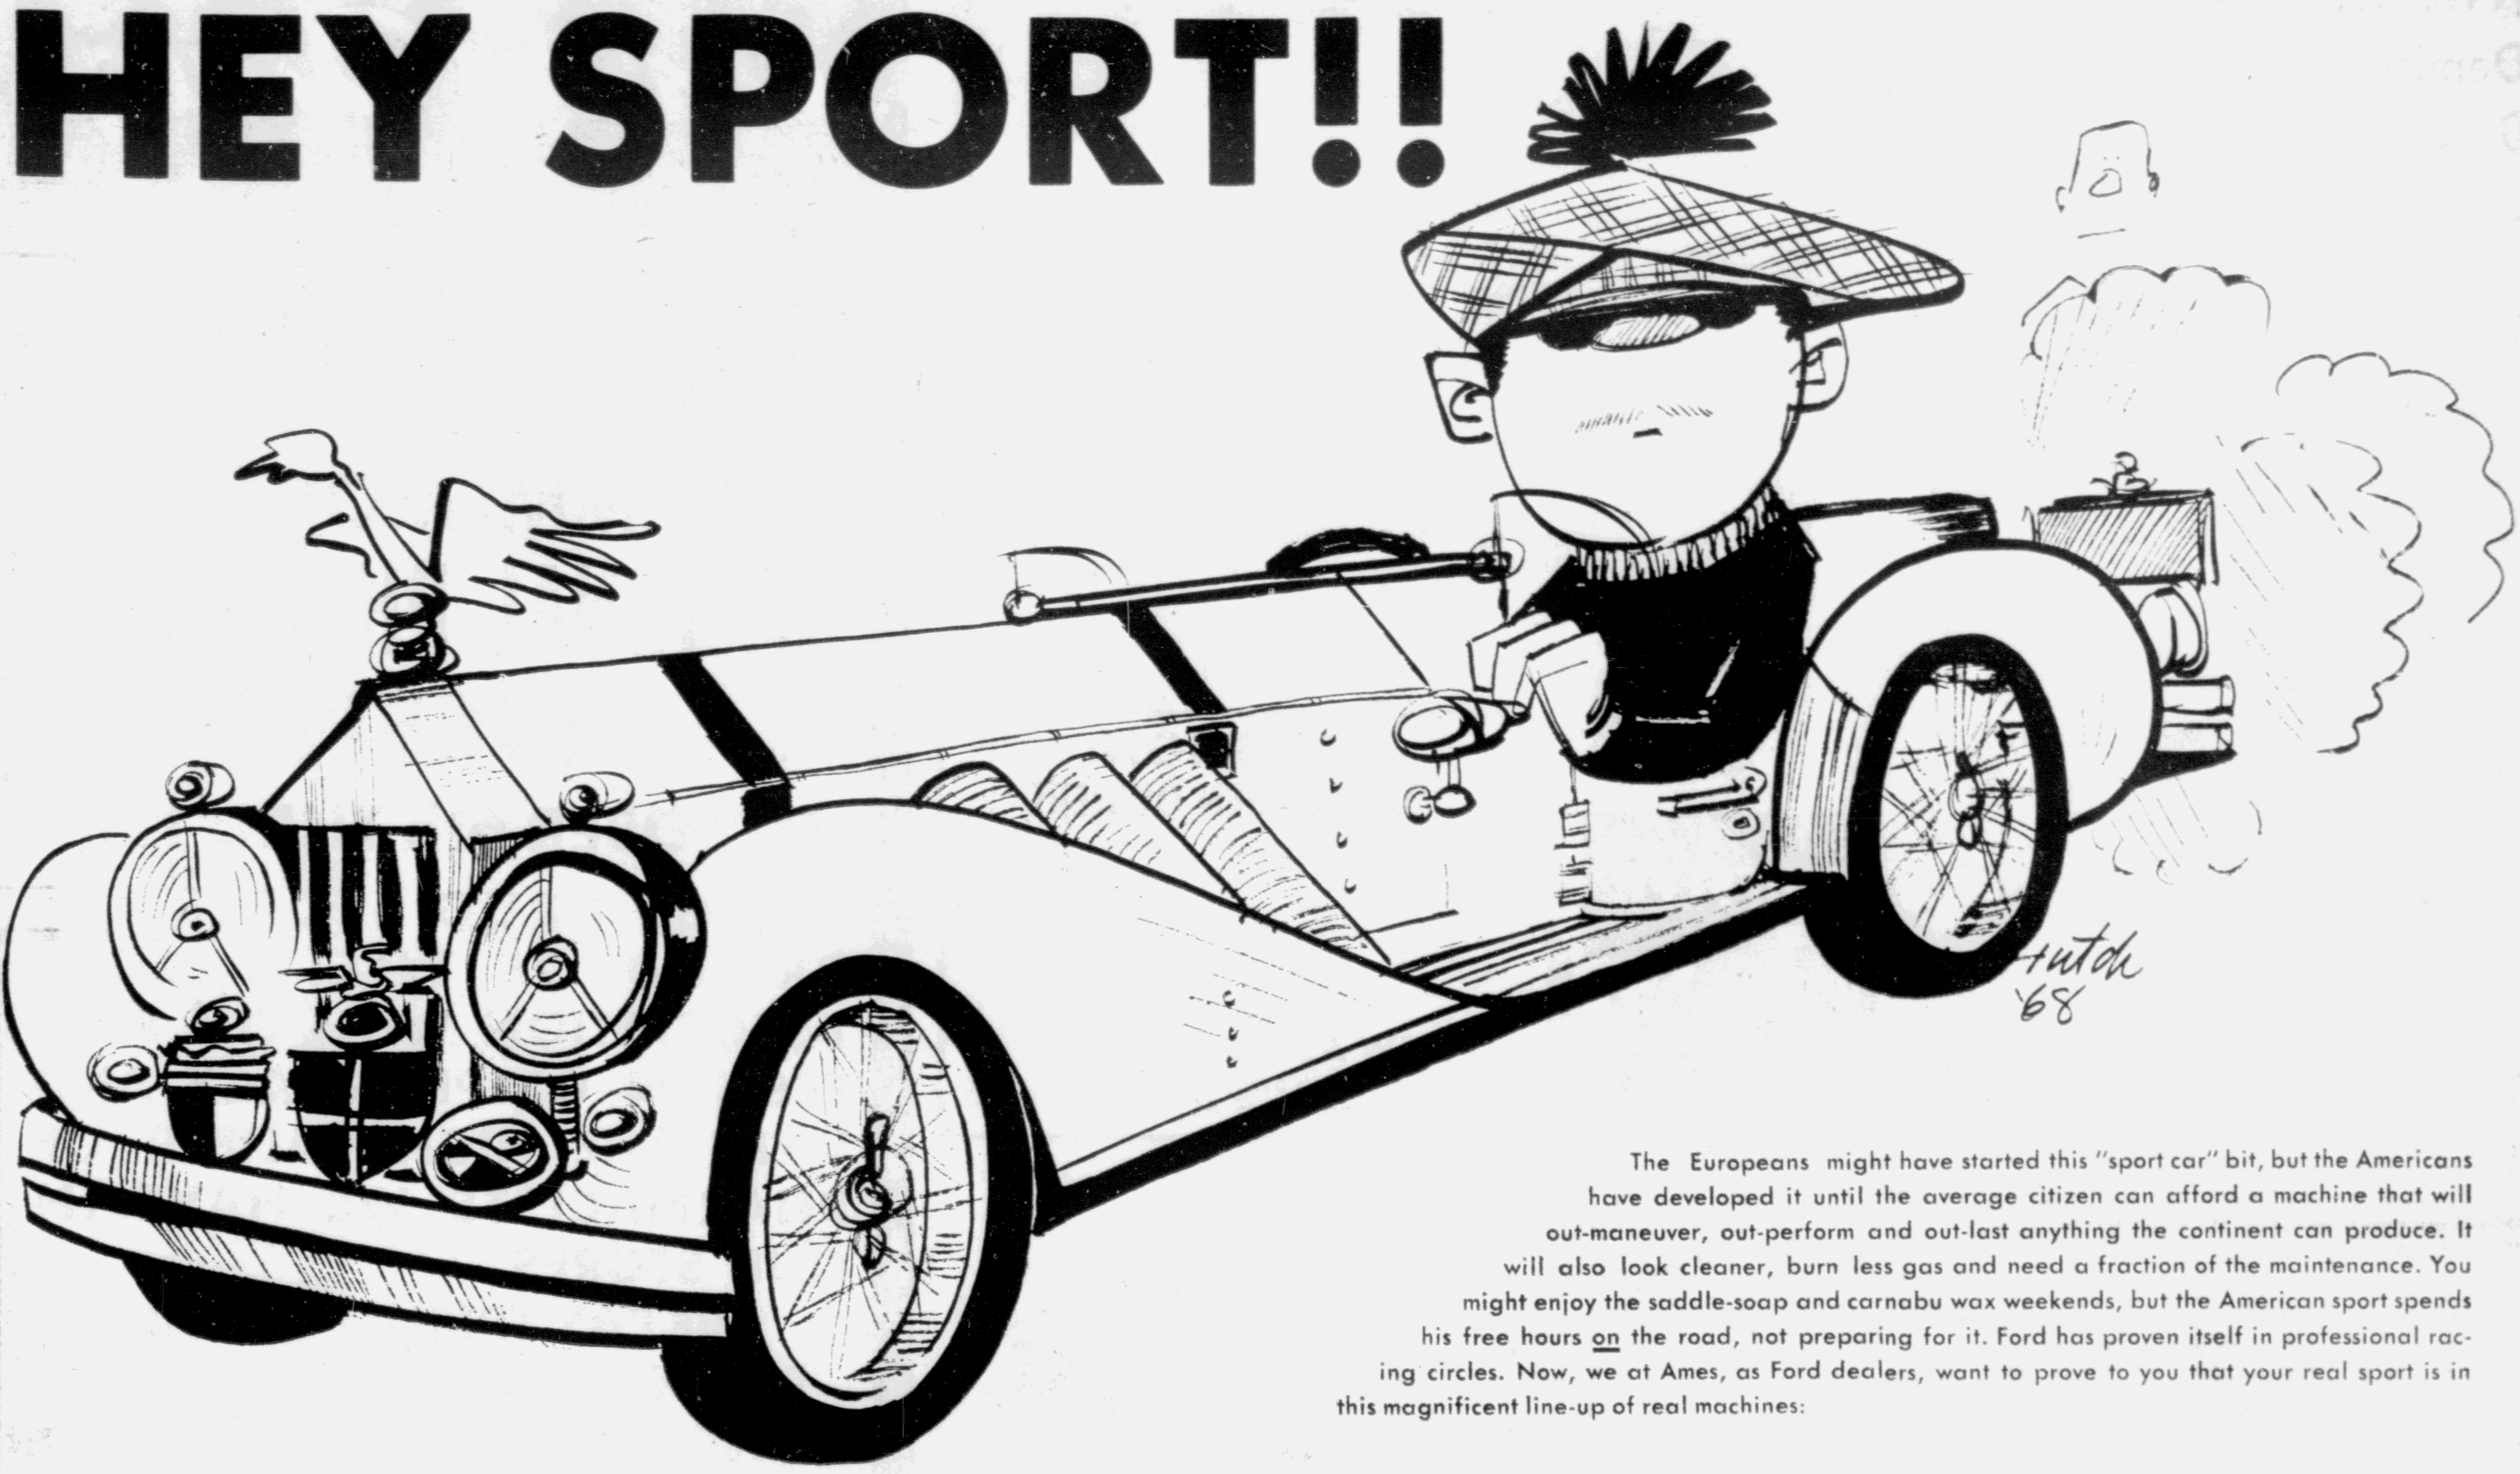
HEY SPORT!!



The Europeans might have started this "sport car" bit, but the Americans have developed it until the average citizen can afford a machine that will out-maneuver, out-perform and out-last anything the continent can produce. It will also look cleaner, burn less gas and need a fraction of the maintenance. You might enjoy the saddle-soap and carnabu wax weekends, but the American sport spends his free hours on the road, not preparing for it. Ford has proven itself in professional racing circles. Now, we at Ames, as Ford dealers, want to prove to you that your real sport is in this magnificent line-up of real machines:

NWP Link's Demise Hit By Council

The Marin City-County Planning Council last night added its voice of opposition to the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's application for abandonment of the Sausalito branch line, the 7.5-mile stretch from south of Greenbrae to Sausalito.

Seymour Kashin, general manager of the Marin County Transit District, reported that cities and shipping interests want the line retained because industries depend on the rail service.

A motion to oppose the abandonment of the line, made by Adelaide P. Wilson of Fairfax, passed with only one dissent, from Rodric L. Robinson of Mill Valley.

Both Marin County supervisors and transit district directors are already on record as opposed to the abandonment.

Hugh Dougherty of Stinson Beach presided last night in the absence of chairman Douglas M. Merrill of Novato.

The City-County Planning Council also:

BALANCED TRANSPORTATION—Approved a joint agreement with the state Division of Highways to conduct phase 1 of the balanced transportation study, with the state contributing $10,000.

TECHNICAL COMMITTEE — Authorized chairman Merrill to appoint members of the balanced transportation technical committee.

Tiburon Owners Urge Harbor Plan Caution

The Tiburon Property Owners Association board unanimously agreed last night to request all city commissions and the city council to study the Tiburon harbor and lagoon plan thoroughly before any plan for the city is adopted.

The harbor plan was prepared by Backen, Arrigoni and Ross, a San Francisco architectural firm.

According to association president Gerry E. Coles the plan calls for dredging a portion of the railroad property and creating a boat harbor, two town squares, an open water concept, underground parking lots in the commercial area, and a downtown that would be pedestrian-oriented.

The Tiburon City Council has set a public hearing on the Gatter downtown plan, approved by the planning commission, for Thursday.

The plan was prepared by designer Charles Warren Callister and modified by planning consultant George Gatter.

Architect and planner Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, candidate for Marin County supervisor from the Third District, spoke on planning and advocated the harbor plan and an open water concept, Coles said.

The board unsnimously voted to ask the city council to oppose aggressively a missile site in Southern Marin.

It also voted to request the city council to see if something can be done about the intensity of the street lights which interfere with night views.

More Than 100 Attend Meeting

A typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal made it appear that "more than 10 persons" attended Wednesday's meeting of the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee.

Actually, more than 100 persons attended the meeting at which state Division of Highway officials and others spoke on the future of Tiburon and particularly of the far-in-the-future expansion of Tiburon Boulevard to a four-lane highway.

Operational College Costs Are Related

An organizational meeting of a citizens' committee to review Marin Junior College District finances and planning last night heard a brief history of state junior colleges and their growing operational costs.

The 13 attending members of the 15-member group named Rex T. Silvernale of San Rafael committee chairman.

They also heard Theodore C. Wellman, district board president, note that although junior colleges have moved into the higher education field, they still must be financed 65 per cent by local property taxes.

Dr. William K. Ramstad, last year's college president who has resigned under pressure but is serving as executive secretary for the committee, discussed operation costs.

Peter Forni, a College of Marin student, has been named by the Student Executive Council to be its liaison member on the committee, Wellman said. He said the next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Bank of Marin in San Rafael to study the district's capital outlay program including the controversial campus proposed in Novato and construction at the Kentfield campus.

Social Studies Class Open House Slated

The social studies department at Sir Francis Drake High School, San Anselmo, will have an open house at 8 p.m. Oct. 30 in Room 219 at the school.

Richardson Bay High-Rise Fill Request Postponed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Bay Conservation and Development Commission's staff has postponed indefinitely Sausalito Associates' application to fill almost 17 acres in Richardson Bay for a $25 million high-rise project.

The postponement was requested this week by the developers' attorney, Albert Bianchi of San Rafael, a BCDC spokesman reported. Questions raised by commissioners Oct. 3 when they heard the application prompted the developers to seek the postponement so they can prepare answers to the questions, the spokesman said.

The commissioners wanted to know how the project related to other proposed development in Richardson Bay, how much mud will have to be disposed of when Saucelito Canal is dredged, and how objections by an adjacent property owner affect the project.

The commission was to vote on the application Oct. 18, but BCDC observers — and the developers — felt there was little chance of its getting the necessary 13 votes for approval.

The postponement also will mean that the application for a fill permit may have a chance to be heard along with a separate request due from the Marin County Board of Supervisors to dredge Saucelito Canal and dispose of the spoils.

Coordination Of Manpower Services Hit

There are 21 agencies involved in manpower services, training and job placement for unemployed, but overall coordination is unsatisfactory, Marin Human Rights commissioners decided last night.

On a motion by Rev. Francis Geddes, commissioners passed a resolution asking the Marin County Board of Supervisors to get the 21 agencies to coordinate manpower services.

Mrs. Bella Aaron presided last night in the absence of James Quiett, chairman.

The Marin County Human Rights Commission also:

BUS TRANSPORT — Decided to help in any way possible to have bus transportation between Marin City and Tamalpais High School continued beyond Dec. 6. Tamalpais Union High School District trustees have announced that funds for the project will run out Dec. 6.

GRIEVANCES — Asked Austin J. Thompson, executive director, to submit a package of all grievances, such as alleged discrimination in housing or employment, at next month's meeting on Nov. 14 so that the workload can be divided up among the various commissioners. Thompson said he has received more than 25 grievances, mostly on housing.

Cyclist, 11, Hurt In San Anselmo

An 11-year-old bicyclist, Jay Todd Sweeney, suffered abdominal bruises yesterday when struck by a car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Spaulding Street, San Anselmo police reported.

The youth, son of Edwin P. Sweeney of 115 Oak Springs Drive, San Anselmo, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

San Anselmo police said Philip L. Stagg, 24, of 23 Forrest Terrace, Fairfax, told them he had just picked up a hitchhiker and was driving slowly, moving west on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, when the youth crossed northward on his bicycle into Stagg's path.

Officers said the youth was not crossing in an authorized zone and no citation was issued to Stagg. Stagg was uninjured.

Special Guest

Betty Furness, special assistant to President Johnson for consumer affairs, will attend a fund raising cocktail party and old-fashioned buffet for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey at the home of John L. Novak at 50 Rica Vista, Novato, at 7 p.m. Thursday, according to Mrs. William Carpenter and Mrs. James Lenhart, co-chairmen of the Marin County Women for Humphrey Committee.

Tomales High Board Approves Class Shifting

The Tomales High School District board last night approved Tomales Elementary School plans to hold sixth, seventh and eighth grade classes at the high school, according to secretary Louise Bordessa.

The high school offers classes in French, shop, sewing and music to the upper grades of the elementary school, she said.

The Tomales High School District Board also:

TRANSFER — Approved the transfer of three homes from the Harmony District to the Bodega Bay District in Sonoma County. This would automatically put those parcels of land in the Tomales High School District.

REPORT CARDS — Approved a new form of report card which is an eight-by-10-inch sheet of paper in triplicate for parents and school records, covering each eight-week period, and available oftener to parents of a student neglecting school.

PROJECT — Heard a report from Supt. Anthony Matulich that the shop project of constructing two houses has progressed to where the district is ready to divide the land and drill for water.

ACCREDITATION — Heard a report from Neal Fenton, faculty head of the accreditation committee, that its report should be completed by Dec. 15 for board approval. The school's accreditation must be renewed by June 30 of next year.

BONDS — Authorized the sale of $46,000 in bonds.

ADJOURNED —Adjourned to 8 p.m., Nov. 14 at the Tomales High School.

Youth's Arm Is Broken In Fall

A 12-year-old San Francisco boy suffered a broken arm and injured his back when he fell down a slope at Boot Jack Camp, Mount Tamalpais, yesterday, sheriff's officers said.

Jorge Duarte, traveling by bus with a tour, was transferred from Marin General to Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco after treatment, deputies said.

Witnesses told officers the boy started walking down a slope, then ran and finally fell and rolled down the hill until he hit a tree.

50 San Anselmans Attend Save-The-Hub Conclave

More than 50 San Anselmans turned out last night for the first meeting of a committee planning to pull the city's downtown section by its bootstraps out of financial stagnation.

City Councilman James F. Reed, who is chairman of the committee forming the San Anselmo Business and Economic Redevelopment Corp., was enthusiastic about the turnout last night.

"We feel now we have sufficient interest to proceed," he said.

The corporation when formed would attempt to revitalize the downtown area by obtaining federal Small Business Administration loans for individual merchants. Also planned is acquisition of property from indifferent and absentee owners by the corporation which would refurbish it and then lease or sell it.

The corporation can serve as a catalyst to merchants, showing them it is good business to upgrade property, John F. West, chairman of the city's planning commission, said last night.

Another member of the committee, Mrs. Martin Stuart, said pride in the community and faith in the downtown area should be sufficient motives for seeking success in the venture.

Reed said the 13-member committee will meet again soon to discuss further steps necessary to form the corporation.

Call For Purchase Of Tidelands Made Again

Mary Summers, Marin conservationist and former county planning director, has issued a call for Marin conservationists to buy Richardson Bay tidelands to save the area from fill and development.

Speaking before the Mill Valley unit of the Marin Conservation League Wednesday night, Mrs. Summers told conservationists that this might be their "last chance" to save Richardson Bay and keep an open gateway to Marin County, unit member Clifford Hanssen reported.

Mrs. Summers' statement came after a presentation by Thomas Nowell on his proposed convention center and fill development for the bay tidelands just north of Kappas Yacht Harbor. The Nowell plan has been endorsed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors and submitted to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission for approval.

Mrs. Summers repeated objections she raised at the last BCDC meeting and said the tidelands are is the "wrong place for this development."

In a related discussion on Richardson Bay development, Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said he is opposed to filling the bay but has been directed by the supervisors to see how much fill the tidelands property owners can absorb rather than how little they would be satisfied with, Hanssen said.

Zucker said the fill problem is related to the dilemma the Saucelito Canal assessment district faces in disposing of its dredging spoils. The assessment district wants to dredge a channel in Richardson Bay to open up the area for small craft boating.

Joseph Bodovitz, BCDC executive director, asked conservationists to ask themselves how much it is worth to have a boat channel into Mill Valley, Hanssen said.

If the channel is dredged it may mean much of the tidelands near Waldo Point will be filled while if it is not dredged, development of the area will be at a standstill, Bodovitz told the group of more than 50 persons.

He said the answer may be to wait until less expensive methods of barging spoils to sea have been developed and noted that the Army Corps of Engineers have barged fill material out to sea in projects in East Coast harbors.

Francis L. Newton, representing the assessment district, agreed with Bodovitz, according to Hanssen, in saying that disposal of the spoils by filling the Bay "is not the answer."

Unit members agreed to meet again at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Mill Valley Library to discuss what action conservationists can take to save Richardson Bay, Hanssen said.

Glen Parks To Get Railroad's Award

Glen Parks, a Tomales High School senior and one of 17 Future Farmers of America in California selected to receive an achievement award from funds provided by the Santa Fe Railway, will be presented with the award at 1 p.m. Monday at a special meeting of his FFA chapter.

Parks, who is president of the FFA North Coast Region, will also receive a certificate of merit signed by Donald E. Wilson, chief of the California State Bureau of Agricultural Education.

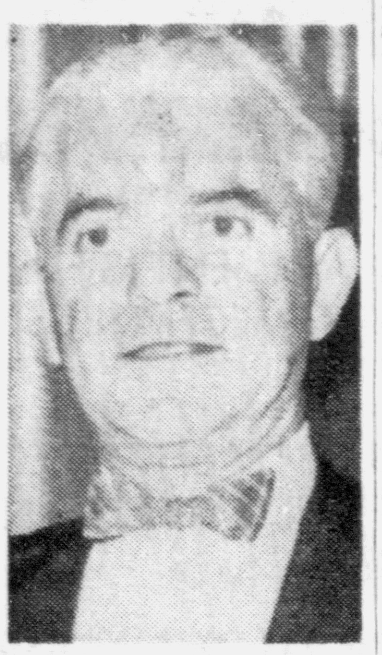
'Scandals' Producer George White Dies



GEORGE WHITE
'Tease a maiden aunt'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George White, one-time theatrical producer whose "Scandais" were leading Broadway shows, died yesterday in Mount Sinai Hospital. He was 74.

A spokesman said White died of leukemia after a month in the hospital.

White produced about two dozen successful Broadway musicals. His "Scandals" glorified many an up-and-coming young showgirl.

He produced, directed and appeared in the films "George White's Scandals of 1934," and "George White's Scandals of 1935" for 20th Century-Fox.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

White once said he set no standards for the girls he chose for his reviews: "They're all pretty—blondes, brunettes and redheads." But his girls often had an extra something that carried them to stardom.

Helen Morgan sang in her first and last show for George White.

Alice Faye debuted in the scandals, as did Eleanor Powell, Ann Miller, Dolores Costello, Ethel Merman and Kate Smith. Rudy Vallee was one of the Scandal's early stars.

Once White was asked how he chose the name for his reviews. Wryly, he said he had done it "to tease a maiden aunt." In the 1920s, George White's Scandals, with their scantily clad girls, were considered risque.

Born in Toronto, Ont., White moved to New York a a youngster and tried to be an actor. He was also a dance director before he hit on the idea of the scandals and found success as a producer.

In the 1930s he went to Hollywood, complaining that the movies were stealing all his Broadway starlets. He transferred his Scandals into a movie hit for which he produced, directed and arranged dance ensembles.

Soviets To Withdraw All But 23,500 Prague Troops

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has agreed to withdraw all but about 23,500 of its occupation forces from Czechoslovakia by Oct. 28, diplomatic sources said today.

Oct. 28 is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Czechoslovak Republic which was invaded by armies of five Warsaw Pact powers the night of Aug. 21-22.

The diplomatic sources said the occupying forces are estimated at 235,000 men and that 90 per cent would be withdrawn before the Czechoslovak holiday, leaving about 23,500 indefinitely.

The 23,500 will have to remain until the Russians are satisfied that conditions in Czechoslovakia are "normalized" and the country has only one "guiding force"—the Communist Party.

The presence of the small force would be legalized by a treaty which Premier Oldrich Cernik is to sign shortly.

If the reports of the agreement are true in detail, both the size of the original invading forces and those to remain in Czechoslovakia appear to have been greatly exaggerated in the West where the size of the occupation force was estimated as high as 600,000.

As consideration for the withdrawal Dubcek pledged to "take every measure to ensure the fulfillment of the Moscow agreement." The document concluded Aug. 26 and reaffirmed Oct. 4 provided for measures to tighten Communist Party control of the political life in Czechoslovakia and particularly "to take the necessary measures to place all the media of mass information at the service of Socialism."

Although the basic lines of the Dubcek administration are to be continued and there is to be no return to the pre-January regime of Stalinist Antonin Novotny, many of the reformist measures werek clearly to be halted.

Novatan Fair From Collision Of Five Autos

A 52-year-old Novato man was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and neck sprain suffered last evening in a five-car collision on Highway 101 near the Lucas Valley overpass.

The victim, Marvin Dahlquist of 1005 Calle Empinado, was the driver of the third of the five cars, the California Highway Patrol reported. The accident happened at 7:15 p.m. in the northbound lanes.

The other drivers were Lester Olsen, 49, of 31 Juanita Court, Novato; Myron Banfield, 57, of 543 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo; Giacomo Gallia, 72, of Healdsburg, and Eugene Canata, 19, of 11 Jefferson Avenue, Santa Venetia, the highway patrol said.

Air Force Pays Victim's Family

LOS ANGELE S(AP) — A $250,000 award by the Air Force to the family of a man killed when his private plane and a jet trainer collided near Phoenix, Ariz., has been approved by Superior Court Commissioner Florence M. South.

Lloyd W. Crabtree, 43, a federal aviation control officer, and his three passengers were killed May 30, 1967. The pilot and copilot of the Air Force plane landed safely.

The settlement went to Jacqulyn M. Crabtree, 42, of Manhattan Beach (Los Angeles County) and her three children Mark, 19, John 14, and Cheryl, 9.

Elected To Post On National Panel

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mrs. Donald P. Krotz of Orinda, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the National Association of State Boards of Education.

At its meeting yesterday, the association urged states to set up procedures for keeping children in school and personnel on the job during negotiations prompted by teacher disputes.

The 200 delegates also called for a cabinet level Department of Education to handle all federally funded education programs and setting of policies to recognize the first-year teachers' special problems and needs.

Students At NYU Protesting Negro Instructor's Ouster

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 100 students at New York University, protesting the dismissal of a Negro educator who called Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon "racist bastards," occupied two campus buildings from dawn to noontime today.

The students marched voluntarily out of the building shortly before noon, holding their hands high in V-for-victory signs, chanting that they had won their fight with the university.

Earlier, Dr. Lewis Hyde, provost of the 42,000-student school, had summoned New York City police to the edge of the Bronx campus, saying he would take "whatever steps necessary" to clear the buildings.

The demonstrators said that Hatchett had been named dean of black students, but a university spokesman said he had not been rehired.

Several hundred other students gathered in front of the library building.

The seizure was reminiscent of the campus disorders at Columbia University last spring, when student activists and revolutionaries crippled that Ivy League school after occupying five campus buildings.

Entrances to the two NYU buildings were barricaded. A group, was spearheading the library was described by students as mostly white, while a group in Gould Student Center was described as predominantly Negro.

Hester said the principal reason Hatchett, who is 37, was being dismissed was because he "has proved to be increasingly ineffective in performing his duties because of the incompatibility of many of his actions and public statements with the requirements of his position in the university."

Hatchett said after his dismissal that University Senate proceedings were "a sham which violated every principle of academic freedom and freedom of speech.

Councilman's Wife Convicted

SANTA ANA (AP)—The wife of a Costa Mesa city councilman was convicted yesterday of second-degree murder in the knife slaying of a neighbor.

Irene Tucker, wife of Councilman George Tucker, was found guilty by Superior Court Judge Ronald Crookshank who set Oct. 30 for sentencing.

Mrs. Tucker, 37, had been charged with the death last June 28 of Harriet Westphal, 68, outside her Costa Mesa (Orange County) home.

Three court-appointed psychiatrists testified that Mrs. Tucker was mentally ill but "not to such a degree that she is not responsible for her acts," they agreed.

Judge Crookshank said Mrs. Tucker would be sent to prison but would first undergo mental treatment.

Pool Hours Cut

The Petaluma municipal pool on Washington Street, will be open weekends only after this week, Richard W. Shollenberger, director of parks and recreation announced yesterday. Hours will be noon to 6 p.m. The pool will be closed for the winter on Nov. 3.

Differences On AntiWar March Leaves

Hamilton Air Force Base officials said today they are making no special assignments to keep airmen from participating in an antiwar march tomorrow in San Francisco.

One of the reservists who plans to join the peace march, slated to start at 11 a.m. at the Golden Gate Park panhandle and proceed to San Francisco's Civic Center, said yesterday, that this is not true.

Airman 1/C Michael Locks, 25, told a Los Angeles press conference that officers at Hamilton "are now trying to call inspections . . . to prevent the military from coming to the march."

Locks and Airman 1/C John R. Bright, 24, who have been instrumental in planning the march in which servicemen will appear in uniform to protest the Vietnam War, were in Los Angeles for news interviews at the invitation of three peace groups.

Maj. Donald Brill of the public information office for the 349th Military Airlift Wing, to which Locks and Bright belong, said, however, that "there is nothing scheduled that would keep the men on the base."

Locks and Bright and other servicemen were turned down yesterday in their request to the federal District Court of Appeals in San Francisco for orders to military commanders in the Bay Area to keep them from holding men on their bases tomorrow.

The court refused to hear the case, according to the airmen's attorney, Norman Leonard of San Francisco. He said that papers for the case have been sent to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas in Washington, D. C., asking him for an injunction.

The planned march has been the center of legal action for weeks, as Locks and Bright as well as Second Lt. Hugh F. Smith of Hamilton Air Force Base claimed they were being transferred to other areas to get them out of the Bay Area before tomorrow.

Locks and Bright, who had been scheduled to go to Utah, have since asked for dismissal from the Air Force and are to remain at Hamilton until their case is decided.

The march will culminate in a rally at 2 p.m. at the Civic Center at which Robert McAfee Brown, Stanford theologian, Lieutenant Smith, and Army Gen. Hugh Hester are scheduled to speak.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Tom Paine' Is Powerful, Electrifying Production

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — "And today red paint is splashed on his statue in a small town in a country which is getting smaller . . . and smaller . . . and smaller." The speaker is Tom Paine, the statue he refers to is his own, and ours is the country.

The line is spoken in the most electrifying piece of theater to hit San Francisco in many a moon — "Tom Paine," by Paul Foster, which had its West Coast premiere last night at the Interplayers.

David Lindeman has staged this production of the play (which is still an off-Broadway hit) with such powerful involvement that the audience leaves the theater emotionally drained.

Foster's play can be classified as "new theater," for want of a better description. It lacks formal plot structure, skips about freely in both time and locale, intermixes Paine's writings with Foster's dialogue and songs by Tom O'Horgan, who directed the New York production.

Paine is not glorified, although the fire of his "Common Sense," "The Rights of Man," and "The Age of Reason" shine throughout the script. Paine himself spends much of his time groveling under abuse, his voice pleading "Give me a drink." At one point he says piteously "Am I a revolutionary or just a refugee?"

In the Luxembourg dungeon, he cracks under fear of the guillotine, a scene done particularly well by Jack Nance, who plays Paine with almost terrifying fervor, and a wealth of variety.

He is haunted by his "reputation," played by Bruce O. Bishop, who goads him through his weak moments. And he is cast aside by the common men for whom his writings plead.

The play is an attack upon the senses, using heavy volume of chorus, direct approaches to the audience, and numerous startling visual effects in an effort to achieve total communication.

Michael Burns is the designer of the straw-cluttered set, which depends more on props than on sets. Particularly effective are the gravy ladle rocking boat, and the stormy waves manufactured by company members undulating beneath a huge blue drapery.

Lindeman weaves the choreography of Karin Maufres and O'Horgan's music under the direction of Don Weiss into patterns of infinite variety. His actors play with a driving intensity seldom seen in either professional or non-pro companies. Since many of the cast members were part of Lindeman's highly commendable "Three Penny Opera" at the beginning of this year, here is promise of a skilled repertory unit in the making.

Fine ensemble makes it difficult to single out actors, but a few deserve special mention in addition to Nance, whose performance is outstanding. Jefferson M. Bailey, seen in numerous roles, does a gem of a Louis XVI. He and Raymond Walsh as George III are showstoppers in their "gluttony" scene, gobbling huge quantities of gourmet food as their starving subjects scream for bread. Eron Tabor is excellent as the Majordomo, a running narrator, and V. Phipps-Wilson tops the distaff side. Brantley Kearns with a huge nose-mask and an LBJ accent is hysterical in one of his many fine characterizations.

Costumes by Regan Kirby vary from beggars' rags to elaborate wigs and crowns, and are always in harmony, while Jim Dickson's lighting seems just right — even in the scene in which most of the cast is naked except for diaphonous black chiffon.

This is a team effort, and all its components tie together to make rarely exciting theatricality —but to the team captain, Lindeman, must go the kudos for a must-see production. It plays Thursdays and Fridays at 8:30 p.m. and Saturdays at 7:30 and 10:30 p.m., and is scheduled to run through November.

Poverty War Seeks Teachers

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council is seeking volunteer typing and shorthand teachers for a secretarial course to be offered in Marin City.

The EOC office said it has received gifts of typewriters, but still needs teachers for the six-month course for girls who wish to improve their skills.

Classes will be limited to 10 students and will be held twice a week at the Manzanita Center in Marin City from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Anyone interested in teaching a class can call the EOC office in Marin City.

IN EAST AFRICA

A Widescreen Animal Land

Fourth of a series on a return trip to East Africa.

By BARBARA HOSMER

Everything vibrated as the six-seater Cessna roared off the charter air strip and circled Nairobi. The English pilot grinned and his passengers squealed in relief as the small craft righted itself and headed north toward animal country.

Samburu — the very name conjures up the romantic Africa of spear-carrying warriors, giraffe and zebra roaming freely over the landscape, lions at play with their young, deadly crocodiles stretched along riverbanks waiting for prey. This beyond all else that the amazing country has to offer is the widescreen image of Kenya projected to Americans in travelogue, film and television serial. Is it true?

As we watched, the shadow of the plane move across the rich wheat and tea fields which sprawl over the green hillsides and stream-filled valleys of the Kenya Highlands. We could see large European-owned farms giving way to the patchwork fields of the African shambas, their thatched-roof rondavels clustered along the ridges. The story of the government's policy to buy out the large farmers and aportion the land to Africans in smaller parcels was graphically spelled out below.

Then the winged shadow rippled and was caught by the dry folds of a mountain range. Hot currents reached up and bobbled the little craft and lap straps. Ahead stretched the arid bush country of the Samburu tribesmen.

Dipping beyond the mountains, now north of Mt. Kenya, the plane swooped over a line of trees marking a river and made for the windsock and strip of cleared bushland. Buzzing the area once to clear it of wild game, the pilot deftly settled the craft to earth, and we waited inside for the dust to clear.

After hellos from two men in a waiting land rover, we transferred bags from plane to car, jumped in, and bounced over the few miles of dirt track to Samburu Game Lodge.

LIKE ALICE THROUGH the looking glass we suddenly found ourselves in a widescreen land quite the reverse of the lush green coast and fog-shrouded suburbs of Nairobi. The desert air held no moisture and little puffs of dust errupted from every footstep. A faultless blue sky reached across to mountains on every side, interrupted only by spectacular clouds piled above the peaks and an occasional bird.

Following the African along the riverbank, we inspected the cabin as he settled the luggage — plank walls, concrete flooring and lofty thatched roof, mosquito netting tied up to be spread at dusk, roomy bath area.

Vervet monkeys played across the lodge roof as we rejoined the others later for tea and orange drinks on the veranda. All seemed placid as the river moved by just below, then slowly on the far bank the eye picked out muted brown flanks of a waterbuck from the shadows of the trees, then two, three. And upstream gray backs of elephants could be made out as they cropped the deep grass and bushes some 200 yards off.

"The river is so high this year after later rains than usual the banks are steeper for the animals to reach the water," we were told. And the little mid-river islands where crocodiles were usually seen were mostly covered. "Where were they, then?" we wondered apprehensively, thinking of the cabins lying only a short distance from the river and restraning an impulse to lift our feet.

"There," came the reply. In the muddy water a gray log floated. As we watched the log-like object raised itself enough to reveal the crest of its reptilian head and eye-sockets and ducked below the surface again. Later we were to see other three or four foot long gray "logs" lying along the grassy tufts in the shallows and at river's edge — a deadly flotsam.

As we sat peacefully having tea, the monkeys crept down from the trees and moved closer.

"Look out, look out," the African waiters shouted — but a tiny dark paw reached for the metal sugar bowl and a vervet swooped off with it, stopping a few yards down the bank and cramming his face with handfuls of the stuff before anyone could stop it.

"They do that all the time. Don't let them come in here," we were told sternly, as the monkey sat eyeing us warily, sugar crystals spread across his furry face. Two more stolen pots later we, too, became less amused.

THEN WE ARE off landrovering through the bush in search of game, following rutted tire tracks with a firm grip on the car and a mouthful of dust. Fat guinea fowl strut along the way, unhurried before the tires. Off to the sides gerenuk spread their long necks and bound away in herds of five to 10 on dainty hooves, the sun glistening from their deep tan coats. Delicately sculptured heads top the extended necks of this rare antelope seen only in the Samburu country.

Farther along standing majestically between palm and thorn trees with a backdrop of blue-distant mountains, are the reticulated giraffe, distinguished from their cousins in zoos and the Southern plains by rich-brown patches patterned with cream-colored lines. These rare animals, too exist only in certain East African areas such as this.

Off across the river a herd of elephants crashes through the bushes and out into the open. A lone vehicle on the other side has somehow found itself separating the herd, creating a situation that elephants find threatening. Trumpeting and angry wheeling keeps the other car still and us watching breathless, to see if they will flip it over in anger. After several minutes the elephants turn and stride past it, their huge ears flopping as the tusked, multitonned beasts move on. The dust settles again, and the endangered car meekly creeps away.

"He should not get in there between a herd," the ranger with us comments. "Could turn over the car." The object lesson is clear.

THE LAND ROVER creeps on slowly along the riverbank, looking for lion on the shady banks of the late afternoon. And yes, there by the log, a lioness walks in the grass and flops down. We move closer and within about 20 feet spot three more lazing in the sun and shadows by the water. No cubs or males in sight. It's a tranquil time of day for these animals who sleep away most of the sunny hours and hunt at dusk or nighttime.

On to the sunny plains where gazelles and the rare Grevy zebras crop the grass and then skitter away as we come close. The year has been a wet one with late rains and the animals appear sleek and well fed.

The equatorial sun begins to drop, and off to the south the light plays on the mountains rising sharply from the plains one behind the other until the vague peak of Mt. Kenya stands above all the rest.

A fabulous Secretary bird beside the land rover lifts its feet and puts them down carefully in the bushland and suddenly soars aloft, displaying its fine wingspan and black and white markings. The long feathers hang behind the head like writing quills stuck in his hair — a handsome scribe indeed.

Buzzards, eagles, bee-catchers, Superb starlings, barabets, weavers of all kinds wheel and float in the dry air while mongooses burrow and flash across the bushland almost faster than the eye can follow.

THEN BACK TO the lodge to scrub away the dust and gather in the open-air dining room for a five-course meal. Elephants were working clumps of bushes into their mouths across the stream, and the bush bucks cropped short grass among the trees. The vervets came down to play across the porch and when they heard the coffee things set out, to make the grand play for the sugar bowl. The weaver birds continued their flights from ground to tree with dry grass streaming from their beaks, busy nest-building.

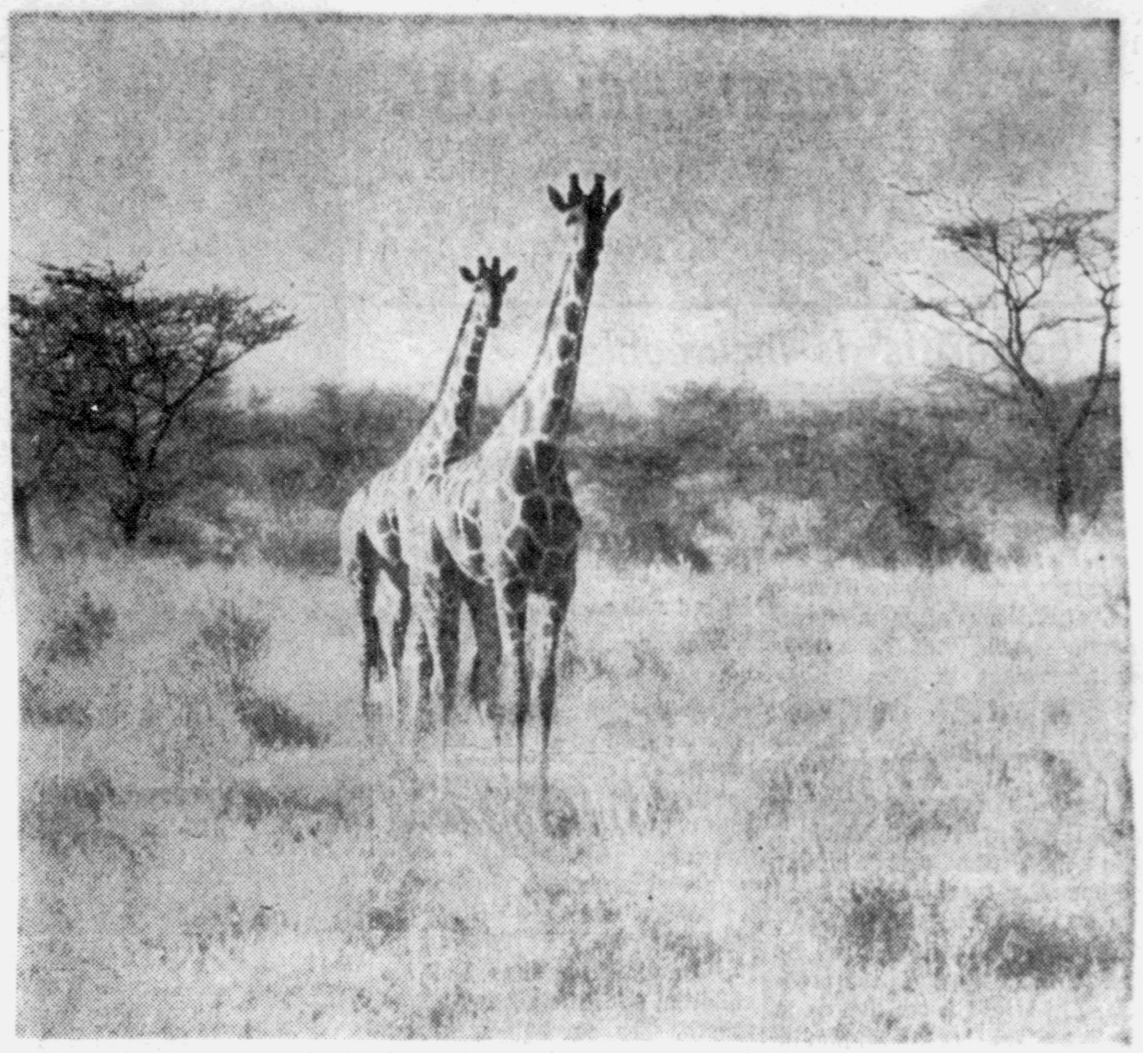
You wonder what the following day may bring—a swim in the rock sculptured pool and lazing in the desert sun, a glimpse of cheetahs moving off across the plain after feasting on a gazelle kill marked by circling buzzards, a look at a magnificent red-painted Samburu warrior with six-foot spear while his tribesmen and women gossip at the dukas in dusty Archer's Post.

Continued below

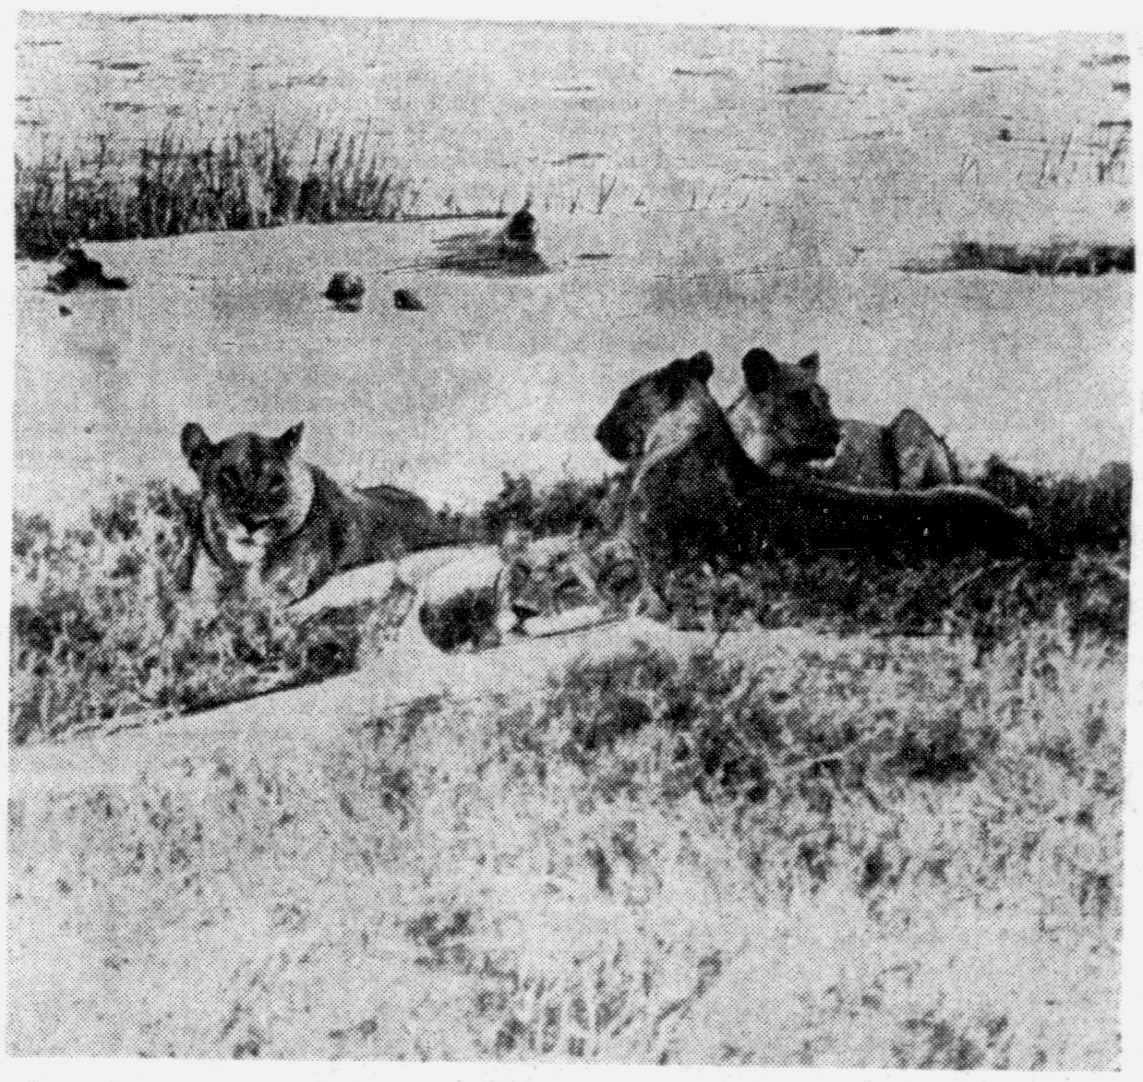
Talk moves to the "shifta" —rustlers who shift across the border north with herds of stolen cattle from the Samburu and who have caused the Kenya soldiers to erect stone lookout posts to patrol against the marauders.

Stars glitter in the inky desert skies and little pricklers stab through the socks as you walk the dark trail to the cabin, knowing that somewhere out there, quite close, are the animals.

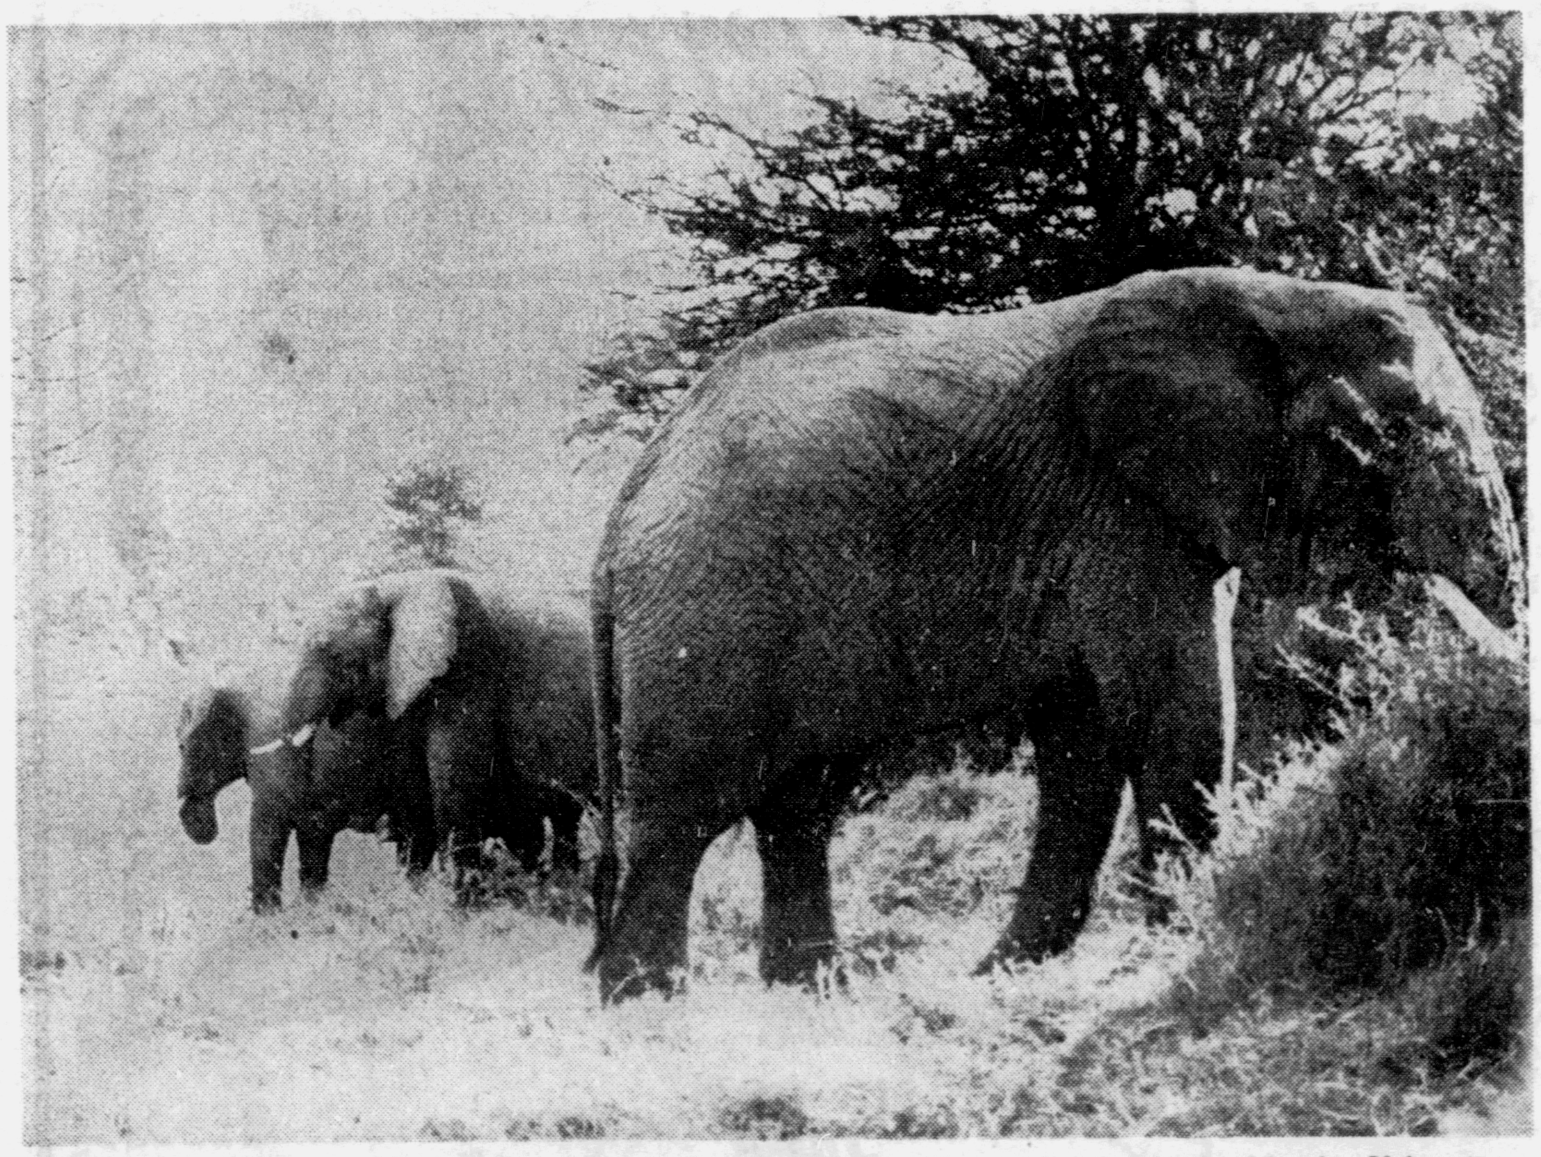
'BORN FREE' LAND—the country of the Samburu, near Archer's Post and Isiolo in north central Kenya is where Joy Adamson's adventures with the now world famous lioness Elsa took place when her husband, George, was senior game warden for the northern district. Today the vast plainsland of the game reserve is populous with animals and birds ranging from eagles to Secretary birds to tiny bee-catchers. Flocks of fat Guinea fowl often wander across the road almost under the wheels of a stopped landrover.



FRAMED BY the flat-topped thorn trees on which they feed, this pair of the rare reticulated giraffe are distinguishable from their more common cousins seen in other parts of Africa and in zoos by the wider and deeper brown patches of their markings. Shy creatures, they bound away from an approaching vehicle after taking a curious look.



LATE AFTERNOON was resting time for four lionesses, who lounged in the grass beside the river in Samburu. The dry bush country is ideal for prides of lion who thrive on the herds of gazelles and zebras supported by the grassland and streams.



HERDS OF elephants are common in East Africa wherever water is sufficient and civilization has not encroached upon their territory. Unlike Indian elephants, they are untamable for work or circuses and live free, cropping the bushes and tearing down trees in the bushland. If he stays in the landrover and is watchful the visitor can get quite close as long as the elephant feels no threat. When angered the big tuskers can flip over cars with ease.

Super Finishes For Hardwoods

CHICAGO (UPI)—Something new has been added to our drip dry, easy care world—wash and wear furniture.

At least the Fine Hardwood Association reports new super finishes for hardwoods make the furniture wash and wear. Just wash off spills from alcohol, foods and even household chemicals such as bleach, cleaning fluid, ink, glue, nail polish and remover. Such things can't mar the finish.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Barthritis' Is Incureable Without Cooperation Says Helen

DEAR HELEN:

He drinks too much. That's his only fault. It doesn't interfere with his work except on a few mornings, and he slows down in the afternoons after a three-martini lunch. But he spends most evenings in bars. That's his entertainment. He likes to meet people there. And he gets smashed almost every night.

I know I'll never meet another man I love as much. Should I take a chance and marry him in the hope that marriage will keep him away from booze? He won't make any promises, as he doesn't think liquor is his problem. I'm afraid it will be, as in the five years I've known him he has been squiffed or hungover more than sober. Am I a fool? — HOOKED ON A BAR-HABITUATE

DEAR HOOKED:

"Barthritis" (stiff in the joints) can't be cured — or arrested — until the "sufferer" realizes he has a disease. When a man enjoys getting drunk there isn't much hope or chance. A wife's "reform program" might turn him into a real alcoholic.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

In the column about illegitimate births, it was mentioned that a possible explanation for this increase was, "Among poorer people, a new baby means a bigger welfare check."

This is a charge commonly leveled at ADC (Aid to Dependent Children). The uninformed accuse the program of giving an incentive for more babies in the form of increased payments.

True, the welfare check gets bigger with each child, but hardly big enough to adequately feed, clothe and support a human being according to prevailing standards of living. In our state, one of the most generous, a pregnant woman with one child receiving welfare assistance gets $148 per month for herself and child, plus $20 for the unborn. Upon the birth of the baby, she receives $172 a month. By the time she has had six children, she'll be getting $330 a month. Try to support a big family on that! — SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR HELEN:

"Kept Under Wraps" couldn't understand why people were shocked at nakedness, and accused them of having depraved thoughts. At the risk of being labeled depraved, I must take exception. He said he wanted to be "as God made us." He gets this inside information from the Bible, for it says in Genesis that God made man naked.

There are at least four conclusions to be drawn from the Biblical record: 1. Before man disobeyed God, he did not recognize he was naked; 2. When man disobeyed God, he knew, and covered himself; 3. God gave him a more permanent covering; 4. Nudity, morals, clothes, and disobedience to God have a relationship to each other. — A "DEPRAVED" MINISTER

THE LOCAL chapter of the Cheer for Beer Society has issued invitations for a picnic Saturday on Angel Island.

The invitations read, "Tho it's called Columbus Day, and our due respects we pay, let us celebrate, 20 years since '48 . . . bridge the gap of 20 years, come join us again in Cheers for Beer."

Twenty years ago the society was formed by a group of young married and single people who had monthly beach parties and an annual costume party. The Cheer for Beer Society disappeared from the scene for awhile, but last year several of the members got together and the group was reorganized.

Boats will begin to depart at 10 a.m. Saturday and continue every hour on the hour from The Dock at 21 Main Street in Tiburon.

THE WEDDING of Hope Alexander and Paul Willis, both cast members of the Marin Shakespeare Festival's production of "Comedy of Errors," will take place Sunday, 2 p.m., at Swedenborgian Church in San Francisco.

Serving as best man will be Robert Feero, "Antipholus" in "Comedy," while maid of honor will be Pat Boyette who played the first witch in "MacBeth," both with the Shakespeare Festival. Matron of honor will be Holly Tolson.

The couple did not meet until they appeared together in "Comedy of Errors" earlier this season.

Girl Scouts To Hold Dedication Of New Shelter In Briones Park

Marin County Girl Scouts and Girl Scouts from the other Bay Area counties have been invited to attend the dedication of a new Girl Scout camping shelter in Briones Regional Park in Contra Costa County at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The ceremony, entitled "Bless this House" will be performed by the Girl Scouts for the guests, who will include regional park officials, recreation department directors, representatives of youth organizations and directors and staff of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council.

The new building to serve the camping needs of Bay Area youth groups is the gift, in part, of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council. The Girl Scout groups will have exclusive use of it for six weeks in the summer and on every other weekend throughout the year, but at other times it will be available to any organized youth group on a reservation basis.

The shelter is a six-sided redwood and concrete structure featuring a raised fireplace in the center and a gently pitched roof with translucent plastic skylights. Open on two sides, it is situated to provide maximum protection from prevailing winds without sacrificing the feeling of camping out-of-doors.

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association Wednesday night heard board member Howard C. Harvey report on a Sept. 28 tour of possible Corte Madera sites for a county regional library.

TV Quiz Shows Deny Any Prompting Of Celebrities

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A producer of two television quiz shows denies charges by the Federal Communications Commission that some guest celebrities were provided the questions and answers before they went onstage.

Merrill Heater, a partner in Heater Quigley production of Sherman Oaks, which runs "Hollywood Squares" and "PDQ" said in one case the allegations may be due to a misunderstanding.

"No contestant or guest celebrity on either show is ever given the questions or answers," Heater said. "Hollywood Squares is conducted precisely as we say on the air it is."

Celebrities on the show must give the right answer to a question or bluff a contestant into thinking he gave the right answer.

"We brief the celebrities on the general area of the questions so they will be prepared to make their bluff. We never give them the exact questions or answers," Heater said.

"Some of the celebrities may be under the impression that they were given answers, or of the hundreds of questions asked in the briefing session and on the show one or two may have been repeat."

None of the 46 guest celebrities interviewed by the FCC were available for comment.

Regarding the other show, Heater said: "I have no idea what their complaint is against PDQ. It's a word game. There are no questions or answers given to the celebrities and there is no advance briefing."

A Fourth TV Network May Emerge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Metromedia Inc. and the Transamerica Corp. have announced agreement in principle to merge, giving rise to speculation of establishment a fourth television network.

John W. Kluge, chairman and president of Metromedia, said yesterday at a news conference, "the joint resources of both organizations could provide Metromedia the capability for an alternative program service for television stations lacking network affiliations."

NO DETAILS

Kluge, as well as John R. Beckett, president and chief executive officer of Transamerica, who was also present at the news conference, declined to elaborate on the statement.

"All we will say is what is in our statement," Beckett said. Both men, however, would not deny the possibility a fourth network could be created.

Kluge told the news conference the Federal Communications Commission would have to approve the merger before it Metromedia directors and stockholders.

MANY INTERESTS

Transamerica is a diversified service organization with major interest in insurance, finance, land and business services and entertainment. Among its holdings is United Artists.

Metromedia is a communications and marketing complex with interests in television and radio, outdoor and transit advertising, direct mail marketing, publishing and entertainment.

Under the proposed merger, Kluge said, Transanerica would exchange three-quarters of a share of its common stock for media common stock. He said the transaction would be worth about $300 million.

Teens Seeking Center Room For A Coffee House

Chairman John A. Colistra named Elroy S. Munson, a director; Lem Stephenson, recreation supervisor, and Jacqueline O'Dwyer, general manager-secretary, as the committee to investigate and bring in a recommendation.

Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors also:

PARK HOURS — Set closing hours for all parks in the district as 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. Up to now, the parks were closed "from two hours after sunset until sunrise."

Sausalito Seeks Ideas For Anniversary Clock

In celebration of Sausalito's 75th year, the Sausalito Foundation will award a $100 prize for the design of a town clock to be placed on the east side of Bridgeway near the Gazebo.

Foundation president Dr. Edward E. Shev made the announcement and named Dr. Joel J. Kudler, Donald J. Duncan Jr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenblum to the contest committee.

Dr. Shev said designs should be sent to Sausalito P.O. Box 567 postmarked before Nov. 15.

Drawings should be in black and white, not over 20 by 30 inches or under eight and a half by 11 inches; the scale should be shown, and no models or photographs will be accepted.

The name and address of the designer is to be placed in a sealed envelope attached to the back of the drawing.

The winning design, said Dr. Shev, will be selected with regard to appropriateness to the site, feasibility of construction, originality and general appropriateness.

The winner will be announced at an annual foundation night dance Dec. 7 in the Sausalito Woman's Club.

The dance theme will be "time on your hands" and prizes will be given for the outstanding historical, contemporary and futuristic costumes.

Mrs. Manuel Pasquinucci is ticket chairman.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from California and National PTA magazines and the "Film Report" of the Film Estimate Board

FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

"Inspector Clouseau" — Internationally renowned detective of French Surete is assigned to Scotland Yard to trap a gang of bank robbers. Bumbling Frenchman becomes victim of every trap set for him . . . amusing.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Battle Beneath the Earth" — Science fiction tale in which Chinese terrorist group has constructed a network of tunnels in the U.S. complete with strategically placed atom bombs.

"Day of the Evil Gun" — Good action-packed western. Apaches have abducted white women whose men vie for position in effecting their rescue. An unholy alliance develops through each man's requirements for survival.

"Five Card Stud" — Involved story of western vengeance is played by a name cast. Some of the dialogue is quite suggestive.

"Heart Is a Lonely Hunter" — A rather sad story about a deaf-mute who in his loneliness touches the lives of many. Compassionate tale is tenderly told and played with rare perception.

"Hot Millions" — Laugh provoking comedy of an embezzler who is aided by the computer in making his millions . . . surprise ending.

"In Like Flint" — Complicated spoof as James Coburn, as Flint, is again summoned to save the world. His leathel punch, karate and astonishing gadgets provide plenty of violence and excitement.

"No Way to Treat a Lady" — Farcical melodrama about a woman strangler, showcasing the multiple talents of Rod Steiger as an impersonator. It moves along at a tense clip and is well supplied with macabre humor.

"Salt and Pepper" — With emphasis on violence, spoofing all the spy spoofs, this farce makes ample use of escape gadgets, comic sleuthing, broad gags and casual bedroom activity.

BORDERLINE

(Some say Adults Only)

"Dark of the Sun" — Set in the Congo, this adventure tale is so filled with blood and gore that the plot is lost in violence. Repeated scenes of torture, rape and gore reach the saturation point. This picture is not for children nor youth.

"The Graduate" — This satirical comedy is subject to various interpretations. Young man from colllege becomes involved in a torrid affair . . . scenes of night club entertainer distasteful.

"Stranger Returns''' — Italian-made bloody Western satire. A violent picture. About 30 individual murders clearly depicted are so frequent, so predictable, so pointless that they often fail to shock . . . may prove a bit disturbing.

ADULTS ONLY

"The Fox" — Based on novel by D. H. Lawrence. Lesbian theme handled tastefully but scenes of passion are explicit.

"Secrets of an American Wife" — Satirical farce about sex life of 34 year old mother before and after marriage. Nudity, risque dialogue and adultery are casually presented.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Two San Rafael Restaurants Getting New Proprietors

Changes are being made at two San Rafael restaurants. One has already taken place. The other will go into effect on Monday.

COUNTRY BOY at Bermuda Palms has been taken over from Joe Satterfield by motel owner Irwin (Whitey) Litchfield. He has brought in chef Jim Davidson to run it. The "all you can eat" menu at $1.15 for lunch and $1.65 for dinner continues. On Sunday it's all day from noon at $1.65.

Early breakfast service from 2 to about 6 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday mornings starts this weekend. The dining room has been remodeled and new equipment is being brought in. There may be more changes later.

AFTER SUNDAY, the Hickory Pit at 1707 Fourth Street will change ownership and operate under the new name of Fabbri's. Angelo and Vera Camporeale have sold through Harry Abras of William Timmer Realty and are moving to Antioch where they own property. After a vacation they may go into business again.

New owners are Robert and Lucille Fabbri from Las Vegas where he was general manager for Royal Crown Cola. Previously he was Pepsi Cola manager in Reno.

Bob's family has been in the restaurant business for years, so he adjusts to it naturally. Both he and his wife will be active in the San Rafael restaurant.

Barbecued items will continue on the menu but there will be a gradual addition of Italian dishes. Contemplated schedule is to remain open from 10 a.m. to 10 or 11 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays for lunches and dinners and close on Sundays.

MAN HAS BEEN EATING since his creation, but it took the French to give it finesse.

Actually the Gallic reputation for good cooking goes back to the Middle Ages. The Greeks and Romans may have originated the lavish feast, but the French early adopted it as if were their own idea. Louis XIV laid down some ground rules in the 1600s; the French word "restaurant," denoting a place to eat out, originated in 1765; and by the early 19th Century the great gourmet Brillat-Savarin started putting everything down in writing.

The world has associated France with the preparation of fine food ever since.

A good French restaurant has all the natural advantages for becoming a successful operation. A classic example in Marin is La Petit Auberge, San Rafael. More than one restaurateur has used it as a model and yardstick for his own dinery.

The average diner-out usually has his own particular reasons for placing La Petite high on his preferred list of preferred locations — but they generally fall into a pattern. Ask one of these aficionados and he may tell you he likes the cosmopolitan atmosphere that is devoid of all "snob appeal." Or if he's a stickler for French cooking, you can bet it's chef Roger Poli's doing in the kitchen. Another has simply been made to feel welcome and comfortable by Paul Devaux or Pierre Grigaut.

Whatever the reason it's quite a remarkable place. If you are new in Marin and haven't discovered this by now, you should.

FOR THE NAVE STAFF at Nero's Room, Ignacio, Columbus Day is celebrated on the Monday closest to Oct. 12. This year makes the fete Oct. 14 instead of tomorrow.

Ordinarily closed on Mondays, the dining room will be devoted to observing the Naves' sixth annual Festivale Italiano. It will turn out more varieties of Italian food than is served in Napoli, Roma and Genoa combined — something like 35 different recipes. Headliner chef for all this will be Bill Nave Sr., who never loses an opportunity to show what he can do on this October occasion.

POPULAR AT RANCHO NICASIO

Johnny Vendigni at the drums and accordionist Sam Franco, teamed as The Buddies, play for dancing and entertainment Friday and Saturday nights in Rancho Nicasio's dining room.

Attendance is large and the evening has to be scheduled in three dinner periods — 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. For all you can eat, with wine, music and singing, the tab is $3.50 per person. Make reservations.

GUSTAV PERSSON of Mill Valley has joined chef Benny Veideland's kitchen staff at the Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo. Recently sous chef at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, Gus has long plied his profession in Marin — from opening the old Zarro's in 1946 to serving at Taberna in San Rafael. In between he was at Valhalla, Sabella's Alta Mira Hotel, the Buckeye, Hilltop and Rubini's.

POTPOURRI: Did you ever see such huge double-deck sandwiches as are served at the new Red Fox Grill, 1013 B Street, San Rafael? Reasonable, too. . . . Dori Green is now the featured entertainer at Bob's of Marin on weekends. . . . A meal in itself is the potato pancakes (there are no finer) served with applesauce and sour cream with link sausages at Eugene's Country Club Restaurant, San Rafael. . . . Penny Decota at Taberna is never quite sure until the day it's to be served what her specialite du jour will be. Most just ask for "Penny's goop-goop."

CONTINUING with last week's account of some of the Sonoma County dineries — if you travel over Mark West Road from Santa Rosa to Calistoga, you'll come to a sign indicating Mountain Home Ranch Road. Follow this for a mile and you'll discover the Triple S ranch, a resort and restaurant open from April 1 until the end of the year.

The Triple S is owned by Henry and May Schellenger. As the parked cars indicate, it's a popular place featuring a large bar and dining room. It has good steaks — and, previously recommended to me, some very excellent prawns. I concur in that judgment. It's a comfortable place to stay, with cabins, a swimming pool, trails to hike, and the deer come down at night to visit you. If you should keep your cabin door open they'll walk in.

Since it's only a few miles from Calistoga it has a Calistoga address. But it's on the Sonoma side of the Napa-Sonoma County line.

PETALUMA TIPS: Vocal and organ duo now appearing at Diamond Lil's, 208 Petaluma Boulevard North, on Friday and Saturday nights is Doddi Hansen and Skippy Johnson. There's a choice of French cuisine or broiler items here. . . . Suggested by Albert Sollini of Novato: Al Beltrametti's Octopus Fresh Fish Grotto, 7335 Red Hill, Petaluma. He recommends the fresh little Louisiana pearl oysters, not often found so tasty.

AT EL VERANO, in the Valley of the Moon, the place for any Marinite to go is Juanita's. If not for dinner, then for breakfast or lunch. We went for breakfast.

This is a time you'll probably find Juanita Musson doing her own cooking. And in the early hours of the day her temper, always unpredictable, can usually be safely predicted to be rough around the edges, and frequently in the middle.

No matter — that's always been par for this course. And there was never any question about Juanita's cooking talents and fussiness. I never realized that scrambled eggs could be such an achievement — especially accompanied by a huge ham steak, dollar hotcakes, hash fries and muffins.

Robert Taylor's Lung Removed

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Doctors who removed actor Robert Taylor's right lung say he should be able to return home from the hospital "within two weeks."

The 57-year-old actor was reported "doing very well" in the intensive care unit of St. John's Hospital where he underwent the surgery Tuesday.

The star of the television series "The Detectives" was admitted last Sunday suffering from a fungus infection commonly known as "valley fever," but referred to medically as "coccidioidomycosis."

Jesse James-Style Train Robbery Pulled

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Two masked bandits pulled off a Jesse James-style train robbery here early today.

Sheriff's deputies said the armed robbers hopped onto the caboose of a slow-moving freight train on the city's west side, relieved the startled conductor of $65, and hopped off the moving train.

Talks Tuesday

Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher will speak to the Belveron Association at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Del Mar School.

San Francisco Sets Zoo Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's recreation and park Commission has voted a 25-cent admission charge for Fleischhacker Zoo, for those older than 16 and younger than 65.

The action, taken yesterday, was conditioned on the board of supervisors putting the revenues into the zoo fund, rather than the general fund.

When commissioners considered a 50-cent fee for the previously free zoo, there were protests from Negro organizations that it was a slap at the black community.

Commissioners hope the fee will raise $224,700 a year to be added to the zoo's $670,000 annual budget.

Children's Center Funds Alloted By State Board

The state Allocation Board in Sacramento yesterday approved $4,500 in state funds for children's center construction in Marin County on a 50-50 matching fund basis.

Joseph Denhart, director of the children's center and preschool program for the Marin County School office, said he hoped for a greater allocation since there is $40,000 in local matching funds available.

There is a chance to get more funds if other agencies aren't prepared in 60 days to use their allocations, Denhart said.

Unused allotments are then available for redistribution, and if there are some available Marin can then request use of them, he said.

701 Program

Mill Valley Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon will outline the city's 701 planning program at a meeting of the Mill Valley Lions Club at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Joint Effort Produces Three Drug Suspects

Narcotics officers and San Anselmo police, armed with an arrest warrant yesterday, picked up two young men and a woman and confiscated several parcels containing what they believed to be marijuana, hashish and LSD.

Booked in Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs, for investigation of possession of marijuana with intent to sell, and on a warrant for selling marijuana was Jeffrey Lynn Evans, 20, of 91 Redwood Road, San Anselmo. He remained in jail today in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Carolyn Lucille Emmons, 21, of the same address, was booked for investigation of having marijuana with intent to sell and possession of dangerous drugs. She posted $1,250 bail and was released.

Mitchell Sink, 23, of 204 Resaca Street, Forest Knolls, was booked for investigation of possession of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia. He was released on $1,250 bail. All three were scheduled for appearance in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Officers said one state narcotics officer, two Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau agents, and one San Anselmo officer went to the Redwood Road address about 4:30 p.m. They said Sink, who was visiting, admitted them, that Evans attempted to leave by a back door but halted when ordered to.

An estimated eight pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana was found in various plastic sacks in and near a living room buffet, officers said. They said a small quantity of what is believed to be LSD was also found, and Sink had what was thought to be hashish in his possession.

Officers described the trio as hippie types and said Sink had about $530 cash in is possession when arrested.

Larkspur Votes Go-Ahead For Launching Ramp

The Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission Wednesday night authorized preliminary work toward construction of a small craft launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek beneath the Greenbrae underpass of Highway 101.

Robert C. Bundy, parks and recreation director, said he will now seek approval from the state Division of Highways, since the state owns the land, and the state Small Craft Harbor Commission.

Details of the ramp have not been determined, he said.

The commission expressed concern that city-owned Eastman Hall at 200 Williams Avenue and used for recreational purposes, is delapidated and agreed to examine it and consider whether it should be repaired or demolished. The commission also elected Robert V. Golden as new chairman, replacing Joseph Picetti; James Lienkaemper, vice chairman; and David Scott, secretary.

New Notary Public

Nancy L. Wisnia of 236 Laurel Place, Apt. 1, San Rafael, has been issued a notary public commission, Secretary of State Frank J. Jordan announced today.

Policeman To Jail In Bail Dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Municipal Court's presiding judge predicts that the question of bail for a policeman charged with murder will not come up again until after his preliminary hearing.

Judge Joseph Kennedy made his prediction yesterday after Judge Walter F. Calcagno overruled Judge S. Lee Vavuris and sent Michael O'Brien, 27, to jail, saying he did so because the patrolmen is charged with a capital crime.

Calcagno took the action after the case, first assigned to Vavuris, came before him as defense attorney Edward Dullea sought a continuance. Vavuris had previously released the patrolman.

After taking his action, Calcagno turned the case over to Kennedy. The presiding judge told reporters that Judge Albert A. Axelrod will handle the next part of the case.

O'Brien, a white policeman, is charged with killing a Negro, George Baskett, 28, on Sept. 29 during a dispute that followed a minor traffic accident. O'Brien was off duty at the time.

Another policeman, Raymond D. Main, was charged yesterday with discharging a firearm within the city limits.

The complaint was signed by Mrs. Kah Fong Pastrano, a neighbor who was hit by a bullet from a pistol Main said he fired at a howling cat in his back yard Sept. 7.

Main has been suspended for 45 days because of the incident.

Discharging a pistol within the city limits is a misdemeanor, punishable by six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Novato Council Sets Later Meeting Hour

ART REVIEW

Weaving, Sculpture Worth A Close Look

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Two weavers and a sculptor with three very personal outlooks combine in an exhibit through Nov. 2, at the Unitarian Church, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael.

It's a small show but the kind you like to linger over, mainly because there are so many things in it that grow in beauty and importance the longer you devote to them.

Certainly this kind of increasing enjoyment comes from Carole Beadle's weaving. Although the pieces she shows here have been exhibited before, they are even better the second time. Their electric colors mixed with the shades of weathered wood, their intricate forms and their changing textures, have the sort of quiet complexity that continue to provide new discovery.

As weaving art, Barbara Showcroft's work is also absorbing, with strong tones and patterns broken by holes and dripping braids. With Miss Showcroft, however, the fascination is more with her ideas which extend from a long, tapering, multicolored "Banner," to an enormous, rug-like wall hanging of free-form shapes in purple, gold and red.

From these, she goes three-dimensional with a "Tibetan Death Mask," a doll-like Indian god and a marvelous thing she calls simply, "Lump." Schmoo-like, the latter is, dangling hair-tufted, huge and fat and trailing tangles of wirey braids.

To all this, Ralph O'Neill's sculpture is a soothing balance. Small, cool and serene, it dwells on simple bending shapes of stone and wood, cut open rarely more than once, if at all, and smoothed and polished without adornment. The clean, natural planes and curves give his work a deep sense of spiritual tranquility, and the contrast to the more complex weaving is a meaningful one. It adds dimension to this thoughtful little show that is full of things to study and appreciate.

Garages Held Not Responsible For Car Safety

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An automobile owner cannot hold a garage or service station responsible for the safe operating condition of his car, the State Supreme Court has ruled.

The court Wednesday ordered new trials of two suits in which car owners had been found free of liability for damages stemming from accidents due to brake failure. Hydraulic hoses ruptured in both cases.

A San Francisco Superior Court had denied damages against Ramona M. Rath on her claim that her brakes had been overhauled three months before the crash.

A Los Angeles Superior Court refused damages against Bobo Djiabas. He claimed his brakes were overhauled six months before his crash and inspected and adjusted just five weeks earlier.

Pope May Clarify Authority Stand

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI may soon issue an encyclical reminding Roman Catholics of the church teaching that Christ founded the papacy in St. Peter and that He meant for Popes to have final authority, Vatican informants said today.

It is believed the document would be aimed at halting disobedience and dissent over Pope Paul's continuance of a ban on contraceptives for Catholics and on other doctrinal and disciplinary issues.

But Pope Paul may also seek to assure Catholics that he will hear their problems with a symphatic ear, the sources said.

With the encyclical, said a theologian, the pontiff would try "to set the chaos in the church in order."

Since the Vatican Ecumenical Council defined the principle of collegial rule—the world's bishops conferring with the Pope on decisions for the church—there has been a growing split over the nature of ecclesiastical authority.

Pope Paul has followed the concept of supreme authority vested in the Pope, who may share it with his bishops as he chooses. But some theologians such as Revs. Hans Kung and Edward Schillebeeckx view church authority as stemming from the whole community of the faithful.

In recent weeks Pope Paul has been lamenting the lack of obedience among Catholics to his encyclical Humanae Vitae (of human life), which prohibited artificial birth control.

At his general audience Wednesday, he spoke on the exercise of authority of a Pope and his bishops, but he presented a gentle concept of authority.

"The duty to serve is inherent in authority," he said, "and the higher the authority, the greater the duty to serve."

Two recent articles by Vatican theologians in the Vatican daily newspaper L'Osservatore Romano seem to point to a papal statement on authority.

Judges Toss Out Tickets On Turn

Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen complained last night that Marin Municipal Court judges were dismissing many of the traffic tickets issued last month in a crackdown on errant turns.

POINTLESS
Sign draws fire

The mayor said commuters halted for making illegal left turns at Bolinas Avenue and Shady Lane were taking pictures of a traffic sign they believed too small and ill-placed, submitting the pictures to judges and winning dismissal of the summonses.

Allen was unaware how many tickets had been thrown out, but said, "It is dispiriting to police to write tickets and then have them turned down."

Councilman W. James Dawson said, "I would like to chastise the courts for not having contacted the town, the police or the town council before throwing out these cases, which were in strict violation of the law. I believe the courts should be censured."

Councilmen said motorists had ample warning that left turns from Bolinas Avenue onto Shady Lane would be prohibited during the morning rush hour and that a sign would be erected.

Edward W. Bullard, a resident on Shady Lane, wrote to the council saying that the crackdown had done much to improve traffic safety in the area, and criticizing Councilman Jack Carney for raising concern as to whether the crackdown was being used as a money-raising scheme.

Carney said last night the issuance of tickets had not forced traffic off local streets and back onto Sir Francis Drake Boulevard because he had observed motorists proceeding past Shady Lane, turning around in driveways on Bolinas Avenue and coming back to make a right turn on Shady Lane.

Allen disagreed and said that the violations had dwindled to a point where the police vigilance unit had to be removed for lack of business.

Ross Landlords Warned: Safety Rules Checkup Due

The Ross Town Council last night warned residents who were permitted rental units several months ago that they had until the next council meeting Nov. 14 to meet safety conditions attached to use permits and variances.

Mayor Frederick S. Allen told of "one or two persons who are kind of thumbing their noses at us." He said some of the rental dwellings were "the worst fire hazards we have."

Councilmen objected that some residents had been given up to 60 days to meet fire standards, but had failed to do so. Revocation of permission to rent would result if the conditions were not met quickly, the council said.

Allen also reported "rumor has it" that a number of residents were renting extra units on their property without use permits or variances. The council said it would investigate.

The council has been attempting for more than five years to eliminate multiple residential use and last month turned down two requests for variances to allow future multiple use of their property.

The Ross Town Council Also:

LIBRARY — Called a public hearing for the next meeting, at 8 p.m. Nov. 14, on possible withdrawal from the county library system and joining the San Anselmo system.

WIDENING — Learned of Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen's suggestion to widen parts of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Laurel Grove Avenue to three lanes. "Screwy," Councilman Roy Farrington Jones called the proposal He said it would cause huge bottlenecks.

WATSON — Passed a resolution opposing Proposition 9 (Watson Amendment) on the Nov. 5 ballot and endorsing Proposition 1A as an alternative. Allen said the Watson measure would "put the town out of business."

PHOENIX LAKE — Heard Councilman Natalie G. Lewis say that she believed the county's attention would now turn to Phoenix Lake as a result of rejection of Deer Park in Fairfax as a county park. The council vote to establish a citizens' watchdog committee to keep an eye on developments.

TRAFFIC — Voted to spend $150 for a sign and road striping at Lagunitas Road and Willow Avenue to stop speeding.

PERSONNEL — Adopted an amendment to the personnel ordinance paying firemen overtime for working holidays.

TREE — Adopted an ordinance requiring trimming of weeds, trees and vegetation between the curb and property line in areas deemed to be special nusiances.

UTILITIES — Adopted an ordinance needed to qualify for funds released under order of the state Public Utilities Commission for undergrounding of utilities.

UNDERGROUND — Introduced an ordinance requiring undergrounding of utilities in any new subdivisions and setting the minimum size of lots in new subdivisions at 7,500 square feet.

PARK — Banned parking in areas near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Winship and Bolinas avenues because of narrowness of the roadways.

CLAUSEN — Commended Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, who will no longer be the town's representative in Washington because of reapportionment.

TRUCK — Authorized Councilman W. James Dawson to investigate three bids on a new fire department pickup truck. Campbell Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera submitted low bid of $2,219. Dawson was given power to make a purchase.

Sausalito Eyes Ending Lease For Sandspit

By MARION DIETRICH

The question of the legal use of the Sandspit arose last night when Sausalito city councilmen discussed the central waterfront plan policy, previously approved by the city planning commission.

The Sandspit is owned by the city and leased until the year 2002 to Madden and Lewis, which in turn subleases the tip of it to the Spinnaker restaurant.

Hugh G. Lawrence, attorney for Madden and Lewis, said the planning commission at three different times stated the Sandspit should be used for limited commercial development.

Now, he said, the final statement says the Sandspit should be open area. He asked the council to make its own determination.

Planning Commission Chairman Robert L. Nissen elaborated: "The commission doesn't want anything out there and would like the city to buy up the lease."

"I feel the city could never swing a deal like that," remarked Mayor Earl F. Dunphy.

The council decided to look into the terms of the lease and check with the city attorney, who was not present last night, as to the legal compatibility of the lease and the waterfront plan objectives.

J. Herbert Madden of Madden and Lewis pointed out he had been very patient for quite some time awaiting a council decision.

"We are as jealous of the waterfront properties view as anyone," he said. "We would like to sit down and work with your planners to determine use of the property."

Councilmen in effect abandoned the park-plaza concept last night when they decided the area behind Vina del Mar Plaza should be kept as a parking lot.

It was once earmarked as a park.

Mayor Dunphy led the discussion, "We would lose a lot of revenue if we abandoned that parking lot," he said.

Councilman Jan Paul Dyk urged "we should leave the question open. Maybe the day will come when we could have it for open space."

Other councilmen agreed, but declared at present the area should remain a parking lot.

Councilmen George C. Hoffman and Robin Sweeny concurred, but Councilmen Alexander R. Imlay and Dyke held out for putting only the library there now.

Councilmen were unanimous in opposing the closing of Caledonia Street to traffic, but they did not preclude the possibility of one of the cross streets being used as a pedestrian mall.

Imlay proposed fill should be used only when absolutely necessary. His fellow councilmen agreed.

The council voted unanimously to direct George C. Mader of William F. Spangle Jr. and Associates to prepare a plan using the guidelines and modifications it had discussed.

In general the policy statement calls for a plan which will establish and preserve a shoreline with "great visual interest and unique aesthetic quality."

The city's objectives, it says, are to provide public access to the water to the greatest extent feasible while still allowing limited and controlled private development, to provide adequate offstreet parking and improve traffic circulation.

The statement further says, a waterfront and/or city recreation facility should be developed in the Napa-Litho streets area outboard of Bridgeway.

Parking should be provided in the central and Marinship areas. Resident service businesses should be developed in the Caledonia street area.

The plan, the statement says, should permit expansion of private uses outboard of Bridgeway on both existing filled and submerged land.

The council will not meet Tuesday because several city officials will be at the League of California Cities meeting in Los Angeles.

The next meeting will be Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

'ANARCHY' FEARS EXPLAINED

Terra Linda Teen Creativity Stifled?

By JOANNE GRANT

"The teen-agers (of Terra Linda) are potentially fantastic, but they're given very little opportunity to create — or even to feel.

"They need a chance to strike out creatively, not destructively," explained Gary Peter (Pete) Davis, who spent the summer trying to give them that chance.

It was also Davis who declared Terra Linda a "seedbed for anarchy" in a report tinged with indignation and presented to the Terra Linda Community Services District board which had made the community recreation center available for his summer of trying.

The report, presented Tuesday to the San Rafael Board of Education which contributed funds to Davis's summer program, was summarized in Wednesday's Independent-Journal.

The young San Francisco Theological Seminary student spoke with calm intensity of the teen problem, which he said is basically apathy.

He approached the challenge of reactivating their "stifled" creativity with a "lively arts" program.

Davis, 23, had conducted a lively arts program the previous summer at Riverside, Riverside County, where he graduated from the University of California with a major in history and a minor in sociology.

There the teens experimented freely in music, art, sculpture and drama in a program that is still growing.

"I ran into a completely different community (in Terra Linda)," he said.

There, the 50 to 80 teens who attended the Monday through Thursday program at the Terra Linda Recreation Center did so more out of proximity to the center than interest in the program, he reported.

The lively arts idea went into temporary hibernation and the rec center became more a popular gathering place — the most critical basic need in Terra Linda, Davis indicated.

As the summer wore on and Davis began winning the teens' trust and convinced them he was not a narcotics agent, they did suggest activities, he said.

TERRA LINDA CRITIC — Gary Peter Davis believes a vast potential for good in teen-agers is let go to waste for lack of creative outlets in a repressive society that tells them: "Wait!" The seminarian's views were formed during last summer's recreation program in Terra Linda

He is the confidence-inspiring type — perhaps because he knows where he is and where he is going.

He said he had been successful in working with people and decided to make that his career.

He chose the ministry as an outlet more in keeping with his philosophy than government would have been, he said.

He plans to make youth his profession, he said, noting he had worked extensively with them in church, recreation programs and camps.

For example, his wife, Jaynese, a senior English major at the University of California at Berkeley, went to the center with him one night and started experimenting with art supplies. The youngsters only asked what she was doing — they weren't willing to try it themselves.

The activities they did suggest were successful. There was an all-night "be-in," a board-approved happening that included a band until midnight and hours of intense talk. "The purpose was for something to do. The kids were bored," he said.

There were also speakers at the end of the summer. The teen-agers wanted people with fairly radical ideas on both sides, he said. And two rock concerts at Oleander Park drew more than 300 each.

Usually, however, they talked, listened to bands practicing and played ping pong.

Their talks prompted Davis' statement to the parks and recreation commission that "Terra Linda is a breeding ground for anarchism."

He elaborated on that report in an interview yesterday at his home at 118 Mariposa Avenue, San Anselmo.

Davis said the young people had been represented and stifled for so long it has become a status symbol to defy this authority.

He said his college history background and his experience "have taught me people will take it to a point. Then they break out," he said

"They have no reason to care for society," Davis said, explaining that so far society has told them to wait. And in the predominantly adult community of Terra Linda, the teens have been ignored, he said.

"They are on the verge of violence or nothing," he said. "I think nothing (apathy) is more prevelant."

"They have had this pushed at them so long, they need a shot in the arm. It's not going to be done by one person working with 80 kids a night," he said.

Davis noted, "It's not just Terra Linda." However, he said its location does make the problem more intense. Unlike San Anselmo or some other Marin communities, it's hard to get out of and there is nothing for teens to do there, he said.

"Teens are not welcome at the shopping center unless they're shopping," he pointed out. The only other places to go are Del Ganado and Oleander parks.

Davis has some ideas for solutions — with a place to go high on the list. He has proposed a coffee house in the vicinity of Northgate to be open on Friday and Saturday nights. The entertainment would make it "at least a little creative."

He has also suggested the adult drama and art groups work with teens in their areas.

Davis said he had almost no adult comment on the summer program and "nothing really enthusiastic. I don't think they're really aware to what extent their teens don't have anything to do."

Noting that using drugs and alcohol, vandalizing property and other problems will occurr if there is nothing for young people to do, he challenged the adults:

"Look at your own community, Terra Linda. What have you done for your teens?"

Minibus Idea Outlined By Transit Boss

By ROSS DAVIS

Seymour Kashin, general manager of the Marin County Transit District, told the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday that a mini-bus system might be a good interim transportation solution in the county.

H esaid the tentative proposal, presented to the transit district board only the night before, could relieve the inter-city problem in the county until rapid transit facilities are available.

Transit district directors, however, shelved consideration of such a system for the time being, giving precedence to solving commute problems as urged by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and other speakers.

Stressing that the system is only one of several his district hopes to present to the county board of supervisors within the next six to nine months, Kashin last night displayed a map which showed minibus routes feeding into San Rafael from Larkspur, San Anselmo, Northgate shopping center, Santa Venetia, Peacock Gap, and Kerner Boulevard at the mouth of the San Rafael Canal.

All but the Santa Venetia bus would run on the half-hour and have immediate transfer in San Rafael, he said. He said the Santa Venetia buses would have a 15-minute wait in San Rafael.

Whether the bus system would be owned by the county or subsidized would be up to the board of supervisors, said Kashin.

Details including fares and location of bus stops could be worked out, said Kashin.

Greyhound buses are not and never have been the solution," he said. He added, "we have to make a decision on how to take our (transportation) resources in Marin County and put them to the best use."

The chamber board agreed to put the matter on the agenda for its meeting at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo for a possible endorsement.

It also unanimously agreed that the city-owned parking lot behind Kaufman's department store, 540 San Anselmo Avenue, should not be considered for the eventual construction of a public safety building by the city.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro has suggested several times that the site be considered, said board president William Franchini.

Nixon Talks Of European Session

DALLAS (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, predicting he'll "win big" in November, already is thinking about a possible post-election trip to Europe to meet with allied leaders.

Before flying to Dallas last night from Akron, Ohio, the Republican presidential candidate met with former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, just back from a 20-day fact finding mission to Western Europe on Nixon's behalf.

It was Scranton who disclosed, at a news conference, that Nixon would like preinaugural meeting with leaders of Western Europe should he gain the White House.

Scranton noted that a president-elect has only a few weeks in which to form a new government. But he said Nixon would want to talk personally with as many European leaders as possible, if time permitted and assuming he is election.

Scranton said he would prefer not to have a government post in any Nixon administration—but he did not rule out such a possibility.

He said, "so-called automatic voting habits of past generations are breaking up."

"The rank and file of American labor is rightly resentful of the way some union treasuries are being emptied to support the sagging campaign of an administration that has proven to be a false friend of labor," he added.

Meanwhile Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's communications manager, said late yesterday Nixon will issue a statement in the next few days dealing with the credibility gap and how he hopes to end it.

HUMPHREY

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey said today that he and his running mate, Sen. Edmund G. Muskie, will guarantee the cost of television debates with Richard M. Nixon and Gov. George Wallace.

Humphrey made the proposal a day after Senate Republicans blocked legislation to permit free time for television debates this year—debates Humphrey has counted on to catch up with the front-running Nixon, his Republican opponent for the presidency.

"We have commenced negotiations with one of the networks this morning for an hour of prime time on Sunday night, Oct. 20, with a debate among Mr. Nixon, Gov. Wallace and myself," Humphrey said.

Following the TV debate statement, Norman Sherman Humphey's press secretary, said the candidate had called off a scheduled trip to Cincinnati today because of a mild case of influenza.

Humphrey expressed hope that Nixon and Wallace would share the debate costs. But if they do not, Humphrey added, "We are prepared to pay the entire cost with the help of those Americans who want to see and hear discussion of the vital issues of the campaign."

Nixon so far has not accepted any Humphrey invitations for debate.

Humphrey has said that Nixon feels he is ahead in the race and thus sees no reason for a face-to-face confrontation.

Humphrey proposed that Nixon and Wallace appear with him on two debates, and that Sen. Muskie appear with the opponents' running mates, Gov. Spiro Agnew and retired Gen. Curtis LeMay, in a third debate.

In a separate statement released here, Muskie said, "The decision of Senate Republicans to block debate between the major candidates in this election year is a tragic disservice to the American people."

Earlier, Humphrey said he favored an even more active presidency in the years ahead because "there is so much that needs to be done."

WALLACE

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — George C. Wallace came to the Duluth Arena, which 6,350 people filled to capacity last night, with a bouquet of roses to toss to hecklers.

But there was no heckling.

About 50 or 100 persons walked out early in his speech without fuss. The rest of the audience applauded politely, and at times enthusiastically, but were markedly more restrained than other audiences in recent days.

Consequently, when Wallace came to his customary criticism of the press and singled out his favorite target, the New York Times, an aide delivered a single rose to correspondent Martin Waldron who responded with a bow.

The incident reflected Wallace's bouyant spirits, evident since he completed a two-week swing through the industrial East and Midwest.

In more weighty portions of his speeches in both cities he stressed his pledge to end the Vietnam War militarily with conventional weapons if peace talks fail.

The Wallace campaign was to move today to Fargo, N.D., Casper, Wyo., and Denver, Colo., and in an equally full day tomorrow will go to Salt Lake City, Utah, Boise, Idaho, and Seattle, Wash. Then Wallace tentatively plans to campaign on Sunday—rare for him—with an appearance at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

AGNEW

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew said today that "no candidate within memory has a more dismal record in the field of law enforcement than Hubert Humphrey."

The Republican vice presidential nominee attacked Humphrey in a statement for the third consecutive day, hours before he was to make a speech in Baltimore, first home-state campaign appearance since his nomination.

"Mr. Humphrey's recent conversion to the church of law enforcement—three weeks before the election—is welcome, but it comes four years too late," the Maryland governor said.

Agnew again criticized a remark made by Humphrey in 1966 when the vice president said that if he had to live in slum conditions, "I could lead a pretty good revolt myself."

KENNEDY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, recalling the debate between his late brother John and Richard M. Nixon during the 1960 presidential campaign, says the American people deserve a similar confrontation between the major candidates this year.

In an interview yesterday with the Boston Globe, the Massachusetts Democrat also said he was never a "serious" candidate for the presidency during the political turmoil of the Democratic National Convention.

"It is unfortunate Nixon has failed to speak out with clarity on the issues of the time. I know how much President Kennedy felt the 1960 debates helped to illuminate the philosophies of the two parties," the 36-year-old senator said.

"The people deserve from the candidates a better explanation of the philosophies and approach to these problems by the testing of ideas in discussions and debates than Nixon has been willing to give."

On his political ambitions during the Chicago convention this summer, Kennedy said "there were a lot of reasons, primarly personal" why a race for the presidency was "never a serious question in my mind."

Of third-party candidate George Wallace, Kennedy said he "appeals to the baser and more primitive emotions of the electorate. He insults the intelligence of the voters in Massachusetts and his posture as a champion of the little man is a facade our voters are too intelligent to respect."

RAFFERTY

FRESNO (AP) — U.S. Senate candidate Max Rafferty charged his opponent last night with going up and down California "urging the boycott of California's principal industry—agriculture."

Republican Rafferty shared the stage with Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., at a $25-a-plate dinner in the center of the agriculture-rich San Joaquin Valley.

Rafferty called upon his opponent, Democrat Alan Cranston, to repudiate his "close association with left-wing groups" which Rafferty said were the California Democratic Council, the Americans for Democratic Action and the United World Federalists — "which have supported the grape boycott movement."

In Berkeley earlier yesterday, Rafferty said college campuses are a lot like a "hippie pad and a shooting gallery."

Speaking to the city's Junior Chamber of Commerce, the state superintendent of public instruction said, "We shouldn't permit an ex-convict to go onto a tax supported public campus and voice unspeakable obscenities, because to do so is evil."

Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, who is charged with attempting murder while on parole, spoke this week at the University of California.

"And we shouldn't permit college presidents to tell us that they really can't control this, because the standards of the market place aren't the standards of a university," Rafferty said.

"What we're going to have to have are boards of trustees . . . who will adopt the necessary policies to restore an atmosphere of scholarly learning into our campuses instead of this cross between a brothel, a hippie pad and a shooting gallery," Rafferty said.

Drake Seniors Earn Commendation Notes

Five seniors at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo have qualified for letters of commendation for their performance in the 1968 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, Principal Harold Allison reported.

Johnson Steps Into Ring To Help Team

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has stepped firmly into the presidential campaign, holding up the Democratic ticket as America's best hope for progress and scorning the opposition as reactionary.

In a network radio address last night, sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, Johnson said he had complete faith in the ability of the Democratic nominees to carry forward a progressive domestic program.

"Few men that I have ever known have understood our urgent national needs so well as Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie," Johnson declared.

In contrast, he said, "there is all the difference of daylight and darkness between the Nixon-Agnew Republican record of reaction and recession and the kind of forward-looking leadership that the Humphrey-Muskie ticket offers to you Americans."

As for third-party candidate George Wallace, Johnson said, "Americans are too wise to waste their votes on a false prophet of fear."

It was Johnson's first general statement to the public on the campaign and only his second advertised endorsement. He vowed in withdrawing from candidacy for renomination March 31 he did not intend to spend any time on partisan politics. Subsequent White House explication indicated this applied only to partisan politics in Johnson's own behalf.

The President said the Republican presidential ticket and candidates for Congress had promised to dismantle what had been built under Democratic administrations.

He led into his comments about Wallace by saying there were harsh political voices trying to divide the American people.

"The man who stood at the school house door, defying the law, is now pretending to be the apostle of order," Johnson said of Wallace's attempt to prevent integration at the University of Alabama.

The President devoted most of his talk to domestic issues, but touched briefly on Vietnam and the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

He said while it was regrettable peace had not been achieved in Vietnam, he was confident the Paris conference "ultimately" would produce agreement.

Turning around the Republican slogan, the President said, "Nixon is the one" who cast a tie breaking vote to kill an aid for education bill in the Senate while serving as vice president in the Eisenhower Administration.

He also said "Nixon is the one" who once said Medicare, a program enacted during Johnson's administration, would do more harm than good.

Scholarship Fund Grows For Drake

Sir Francis Drake High School Scholarship Foundation started the 1968-69 school year with funds totaling more than $10,000 invested at 5 per cent interest, reported auditor Phil Kendall of San Anselmo.

The foundation board's president, Mike Convis, reported that more than $2,000 in contributions were received during the last school year in addition to profits from events sponsored by the organization.

"The third annual car and boat show held in May was one of the largest and most diversified shows of its kind in California," Convis said. "About 2,000 people attended, and a net profit of almost $900 was realized."

Four scholarships were awarded at graduation in June, bringing the total number granted by the foundation to 14.

Developments for 1968-69 include the expansion of the board of directors with the election of Mrs. Arlene Toda, Mrs. Pat Houck, and Dr. Gary Boero; the second annual Renox Tour, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 8, and the fourth annual car show in May.

Contributions to the foundation are tax deductible and may be sent to the Drake Scholarship Foundation at the high school, Convis said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Allergic Reactions May Change Entirely As Victim Gets Older

VAN DELLEN

The term allergy is from the Greek meaning an "altered capacity to react." The victim develops an exaggerated reaction to a common substance after one or more exposures.

Those with hay fever are overly sensitive to ragweed pollen, the substance found in the air during late August and September. Allergens may be inhaled for years before the sufferer develops symptoms.

THE TISSUE that is affected is called the shock organ. This may be a part of or the entire respiratory tract, the skin, stomach, or any other portion of the body. The nasal membranes and conjunctiva of the eyes are the shock organs among hay fever sufferers. The outcome is nasal congestion, sneezing, and redness of the lids with increased tearing.

Age also plays a role in that an infant may develop an allergy of the skin (atopic dermatitis or exzema) that lasts from 6 months to 5 years. When the skin clears, the shock organ may switch to the lungs causing asthma, or to the nose, causing a condition similar to hay fever.

The reverse also may occur; the baby may begin with a transient asthma and then develop a dermatitis.

ALLERGIC manifestations may not begin for years. At puberty, another shock organ may appear and still another after the menopause.

This is mentioned as a warning to persons with an inherent allergic tendency. They may "grow out of" infantile eczema or asthma, but not the altered capacity to react.

Allergies are complex and treatment is beset with many problems. Some physicians are skeptical about allergies causing vague or indefinite symptoms. Others blame most complaints on a sensitivity to this or that.

Perhaps the most controversial of all is an allergy to food, because tests to pinpoint the culprit are questionable, except by those who believe in them.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

REPAIRING THE SEPTUM

Miss T. writes: I am considering having a deviated septum straightened. But I suffer from hay fever and my family thinks that if the obstruction is removed, more pollen than ever will enter.

REPLY

Your family is in error. Repairing the septum may ease nasal congestion, even that due to hay fever. Since this is an elective procedure, may I suggest that you postpone the operation until the hay fever season is over?

ALTITUDE, ATTITUDE, AND PULSE

K. B. writes: Generally speaking, does climate or attitude have any effect on the pulse rate? I would like to know if living in certain areas can either slow down or step up the pulse.

REPLY

Attitude has more effect than altitude, which I assume you meant. The pulse may quicken temporarily at high altitudes. In addition, the heart works harder when the temperature hits the 100s.

TABOOS FOR ARTHRITICS

A reader writes: I have been told that people who suffer from arthritis should not eat meat, eggs, fish, citrus fruits, or drink tea or coffee. What is your opinion?

REPLY

The only arthritics who need be careful of their diet are those who are obese or gouty.

LUNG HEMORRHAGE

REPLY

Bleeding usually ceases spontaneously but treatment consists of rest, blood transfusions, and the use of coagulating substances such as vitamin K. It is important to learn what is causing the symptom.

RIGHT ON SCHEDULE

Mr. C. writes: For 10 years I have taken a no-cost laxative. Immediately on arising, every morning, I take a full glass of cold water and coffee with breakfast. I remain as regular as clockwork, and I am 76.

REPLY

Bubbling Excitement On Eve Of Olmypics

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—With a record number of more than 7,500 athletes already on hand, a wave of tourists continued to pour into this now-quiet capital city today on the eve of the opening of the trouble-plagued XIX Olympic Games.

There's plenty of excitement here—but it's the bubbling, fun kind of excitement that goes with the start of a long-waited sports tournament, unlike a week ago when gunfire barked in the streets and more than 33 persons were killed.

The latest count at the Olympic Village was that 7,530 athletes were on hand from 101 nations—both record figures—and watching their every move was a corps of more than 3,000 journalists from all over the world.

ARGUMENTS FADE

Gone now are the months of argument about whether these Olympics would be "fair" because of Mexico City's 7,350-foot altitude; also in the past is the bitter dispute over the disbarment of South Africa because of its racial policies; and quited down now is the last-minute argument about the banning of certain track shoes. Just ahead is the "moment of truth" for the athletes.

Two U.S. teams, basketball and swimming, were a bit unhappy in the closing pre-Olympic hours about the "draw" for their events.

Hank Iba, coach of the U.S. basketball team which finds itself an underdog in an Olympics for the first time, was outspoken about his disappointment with the lineup for the preliminary round of the basketball competition. The Yanks were put in the same section with Yugoslavia, Puerto Rico, and Italy, all considered among the stronger teams.

U.S. PROSPECTS DIM

Yugoslavia recently defeated the U.S team twice, by margins of 12 and 15 points, on a European tour by the American team. The United States goes into this year's Olympics with the record of never having lost a single game in Olympic competition, let alone failing to win the title. But this year, with many of last year's top college stars already turned pro and this year's college stars tied up with classes, the Yanks are no better than second or third choice.

U.S. swimming coaches were disappointed in the results of the draw for their events, but weren't complaining too much because of their array of stars.

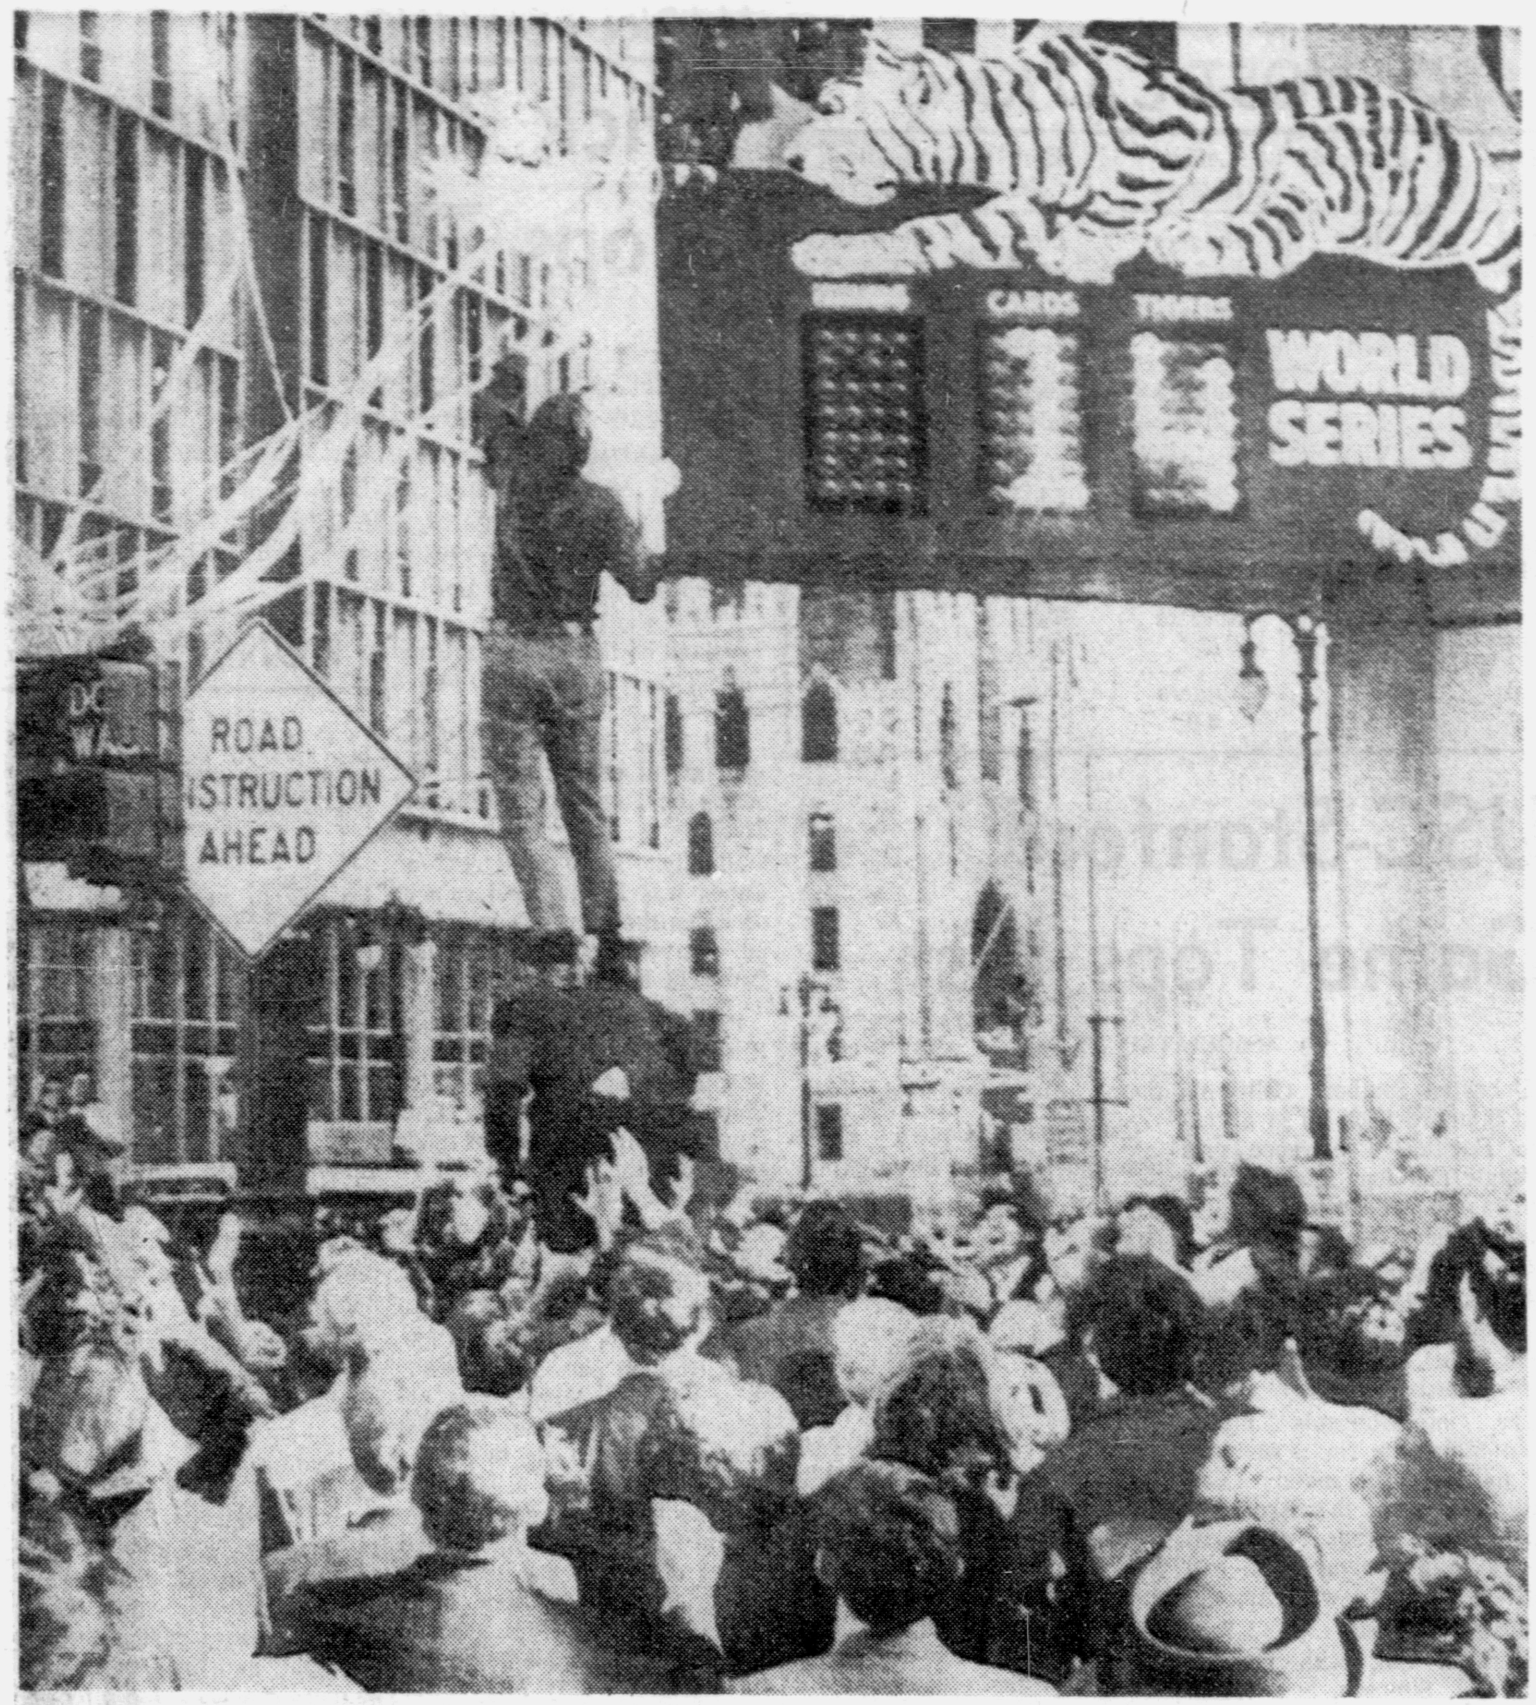
POOR POSITIONS

In swim races run on time, it is considered less advantageous to draw an outside lane, No. 1 or No. 8, because presumably a swimmer in those lanes is slowed slightly by wash from the walls. Also, it is considered less advantageous to be in an early heat—because then a swimmer doesn't know what time he or she has to beat.

Catie Ball of Jacksonville, Fla., world record holder for the 100-meter breaststroke, drew heat 1, lane 1. Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, world recort holder for the 200-meter freestyle, drew heat 1, lane 1.

For the first time, the U.S. gave the honor of carrying the American flag in the opening ceremonies—called "The greatest honor the U.S. team can bestow"—to a woman.

She is Mrs. Janice York Romary, a 40-year-old mother-of-two from Woodland Hills, Calif., who will be competing in fencing for her sixth Olympics, more than any other athlete on the U.S. squad. A U.S. official called the selection "fitting" since Mexico has named the first woman in history to carry the Olympic torch.



TIGER GETS THE BIRD — While an inverted bank message signals yesterday's final score of the seventh game of the World Series, a Detroit Tiger fan is boosted to reach a cardboard likeness of a St. Louis Cardinal being stalked by a huge Tiger. Minutes after the Tigers won, Detroit streets were crowded by happy fans. (AP Wirephoto)

DETROIT LETS OFF STEAM

End Of A Long Wait

DETROIT (AP) — "Speech, speech," chanted Detroit Tiger players to Manager Mayo Smith as the team's chartered bus headed for the St. Louis airport from Busch Stadium.

The jubilant Tigers had just become World Series champions by beating Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 in the seventh game.

"You're the greatest, that's all I know," said Smith, his face beet red from joy and indented with the wrinkles of the happiest man of the hour.

The bus pulled away. Players began yelling, "Let's hear it for Jim Northrup." All responded with a loud "Yea."

"Let's hear it for Willie Horton." Another "Yea," resounded in the bus as it passed by St. Louis' famous stainless steel Gateway Arch, which somehow seemed slightly tarnished after the Cardinal loss.

Every player's name was called out and the same response given. Then a round of cheers went to each coach, trainer Bill Behm, the bat boys, team physician Dr. Russell Wright, and even the bus driver.

Tiger's wives blew horns and joined in.

"Let's hear it for the Gater. We kept him out of there," someone yelled, referring to ace pinch hitter Gates Brown, whose services weren't needed in the 4-1 triumph.

"Everyone thank Jim Northrup for putting that Kryptonite on the mound today," another player shouted. Everyone laughed.

The Superman whose strength came to an end yesterday was Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson, who was almost invincible against Tiger bats in his first two Series outings.

Aboard the chartered DC-8 jet, clowning and jubiliation continued. But it was somewhat subdued. For a while it seemed as if to savor the thought of what they had just done.

Champagne bottles were emptied as fast as the corks were popped.

Pitcher Jon Warden, the only player on either team who didn't see any action in the Series, guzzled one bottle by himself.

Then Warden, a bachelor, got into the act by giving a stewardess a kiss. Everyone cheered. The stewardess staggered away bewildered.

An hour later, the pilot calmly announced: "We just received a report that crowds have overrun Metropolitan Airport and no planes can land. So we are reducing speed and we'll just cruise along and see what to do from here."

Then the plane touched down and the door opened, fans roared.

The police escort led the buses through a maze of streets. One bus left the group and headed toward a suburban restaurant where players planned a team party.

The other buses managed to make it to Tiger Stadium.

Barren stadium corridors and walls still seemed to echo seven months of the cheers and chants that helped push the Tigers to their first pennant and World Series championship since 1945.

Players began filing off in separate directions, somehow slipping through the crowd.

A large sign on a motel said: "Ya socked it to 'em Tigers." And they had.

Top Drivers Competing In Monterey

MONTEREY (UPI) — Bruce McLaren, accompanied by some of the world's other fastest drivers, took shots at his track record today when qualifying began for Sunday's $80,000 Monterey Grand Prix.

It marks the fourth stop in the six-race Canadian-American Challenge Cup series which finds Dennis Hulme of New Zealand holding down first place one point ahead of America's Mark Donohue. McLaren of New Zealand is third and Jim Hall of Midland, Tex., fourth.

Last year, 13 drivers cracked Hall's record during the qualifying on the nine turn, 1.9 mile track at Laguna Seca. McLaren had the fastest time of the group, roaring over the asphalt in 1:02.69 at an average speed of 109 miles per hour.

McLaren, driving a car of his own manufacture, is expected to lead the charge on his own mark. Hulme also drives a McLaren while Donohue tools one of Roger Penske's McLaren-Chevvies.

Hall, the Texas millionaire who revolutionized the sports car circuit with an automatic drive a couple of years ago, may unveil a new model at this competition.

After today's qualifying, a $12,000 formula Grand Prix national championship race will be held tomorrow. The 152 mile Canadian American race follows on Sunday.

Astros Trade Giusti, Adlesh To Cardinals

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros traded pitcher Dave Giusti and catcher Dave Adlesh today to the St. Louis Cardinals for catchers John Edwards and Tommy Smith.

In announcing the trade, Astros General Manager H.B. Richardson said "we feel Edwards is the kind of catcher we really need."

In St. Louis, the Cardinals confirmed the trade. It was expected the Cardinals also would confirm later today that outfielder- first baseman Bob Tolan and relief pitcher Wayne Granger were sent to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for veteran outfielder Vada Pinson.

Edwards, 30, has a lifetime major league batting mark of .245 during an eight-year career, seven with Cincinnati.

Edwards, a National League all-star three times, battled .239 with three home runs and 29 RBI last season with St. Louis.

Giusti, 28, has a 47-54 lifteme record in six years with Houston. He was 10-15 with a 3.19 earned run average this past season.

Smith is the brother of Cincinnati coach and former Cardinal catcher Hal Smith. He hit .221 with five home runs with three clubs in the Pacific Coast League last year.

Adlesh, 25, has been a part-time catcher with Houston since 1963 and batted .183 in 40 games this year with Houston.

Richardson said Edwards "is a great handler of pitchers, has a good arm, is a clutch hitter and a winning type player.

"We've felt all along we needed a catcher and some outfield help to challenge for our division next year. "We have the catcher. Now, we'll start trying to get the outfield help."

"We hated to lose a pitcher of Giusti's caliber. "He's not only a good pitcher, but an outstanding person."

SERIES HERO LOLICH WINS AUTOMOBILE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers was named the winner of the annual Sport Magazine World Series Award yesterday as the outstanding player of the World Series.

Lolich was selected by the magazine's editors as the player who "through his overall play in the World Series did the most for his team." He will be given a Dodge Charger at a luncheon later.

Bob Gibson, loser to Lolich in Thursday's seventh game, won the car in both 1964 and 1967.

NHL Shaken By Hull's Retirement

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Hockey League has been shaken—from President Clarence Campbell and its hierarchy, to club owners, and to fandom—by Bobby Hull's announced retirement.

The Golden Jet played 11 seasons with the Chicago Black Hawks, scoring 414 goals. Six times he topped the NHL in goals scored and three times he scored 50 or more in a single season.

The exciting 29-year-old master of the whizzing puck—one of the game's all-time greats—was the league's No. 1 showpiece and crowd attraction.

Absence of the superstar will be felt not only to the roots of the Black Hawks' organization but also could be reflected at the gate throughout the expanded circuit.

All this could be a wedge by Hull in a salary rift. He planned his announcement yesterday as a jolt to the hockey empire. And it was coming on the eve of the opening of the NHL season with three games tonight.

Chicago was at home to St. Louis, Detroit at Boston and Minnesota at Oakland.

Hull's announcement came one hour before he was to have met with Hawk General Manager Tommy Ivan and Campbell, who was to arbitrate the salary dispute.

San Rafael Gridders In 'Must' Game Against Drake Pirates In Kentfield

Here it is, only a little way into the season, and already San Rafael has a must football game on tap in the Marin County Athletic League.

The Bulldrogs opened league play with a heart-breaking 9-7 loss to co-defending champion Terra Linda and now have to all but win against the other half of the perennial champion set in a game against Drake at College of Marin tomorrow at 2 p.m.

ON RECORD

It's a situation where nobody is taking anything for granted, although the Pirates (2-1) should hold an edge simply by the record.

"They're an excellent ball club," Pirate coach Bob Franceschini said. "They did a great job against Terra Linda last week. They can run, they can throw and if past games against them are any indication, we can expect surprises . . . end arounds, tackle eligibles, you name it."

Franceschini has reason enough to be wary. Enroute to what could have been a clean-cut title, the Pirates inadvertantly stumbled across the Bulldogs and dropped an 18-0 verdict last year.

IMPRESSED

Franceschini was impressed with the work of Bulldog fullback Derek Clark ("great on short yardage situations"), Lowell Widmer ("he's tough on the option") and end Bruce D'Ambra ("hard on to cover on short passes").

The Pirates are fairly well recovered from recent injury problems although halfback Craig Corbett, who would have been a starter, is definitely out for the year after re-injuring his knee. He never did see game action this season. However, Clark Jamison, all-league defensive back last year and a fine receiver, returns to action after missing last week's hectic 19-12 win over Washington. Back also is Bob Sutherland and Jim Vollenweider.

GOOD PASSER

The Pirates' biggest weapon may be steadily improving quarterback Ed Harrington who led the Pirates past Washington with 215 yards passing.

San Rafael coach Bob Muster, still a little glum from last week, points to Drake's record as a good indicator.

"Anybody that plays Vallejo that close (12-8) has something," he said. "They have good speed, lots of depth and good passing."

The Bulldogs (1-2) are healthy and a little bigger in the line and they'll try to go with the quarterback combination of Widmer and sophomore Bruce Nave. Top rusher Tom Penales is doubtful with an ankle sprain but will probably see action.

"The boys felt extremely bad after Terra Linda," Muster said. "But I think we're coming out of it. I knew we would make mistakes early in the season, and we paid the price."

Redwood, Novato Vie In Prep Grid Biggie

Redwood's roving ambulance run and Novato's rambling road-runners roll into each other for a football rumble tomorrow at sunny Novato at 2 p.m. and the winner could very well claim a sort of heir apparent role in the Marin County Athletic League grid race.

Especially if the Hornets win.

The Hornets are the only unbeaten, untied team in the MCAL, and if they dispose of the crippled Giants handily, they can make believers out of any last remaining doubters.

The job may not be easy, even though there is a faint whiff of bandages and wailing from the Redwood camp.

The Giants, along with the Hornets, had the best on-paper squads prior to season's starts, with flocks of returning veterans to make up solid first squads.

But Redwood, after a herky-jerky win over Palo Alto, was steamrollered by Riordan, then came back for an unconvincing win over hapless Crestmoor.

"We held our practices at Marin General," Giant coach Bob Troppmann quipped painfully. "We have six first stringers in various stages of injuries."

Pete Richter, the big fullback who may be the key to Giants' hopes this year, is still doubtful, reinjuring a rib against Crestmoor. Gary Kazprazak will only be playing defense. Receiver Jeff Konopisos suffered torn ligaments while tripping over wire at College of Marin last week. Steve Dorinson has a severe charley horse and tackle Rick Simpson, fullback Reb Minutili, and center Pat Curley, have had bouts with the flu.

"They have the best offense I've seen in years up there," he said. "Dillon (Russ) is an excellent quarterback. I like the way he runs the club. And they have outstanding backs. They'll be tough to defense."

If, however, the Giants are healthy, they could put up a battle. Especially if Jim Peters is ready and raring to throw the way he did last year.

Novato has some injury problems also, most notably Pat Greene, the loop's top scorer with 38 points. He has a sore leg and has been whirlpooling it.

Defensive halfback Jim Morrow is also out and his place will be taken by Steve Stanley.

Britain Takes Team Golf Lead

MELBOURNE (AP) — Michael Bonallack shot a course record-breaking 66 as Britain swept into the lead today in the third round of the Eisenhower Trophy competition for the World Team Amateur Golf Championship.

Bonallack fired a seven-under-par round at the Royal Melbourne links to knock the United States out of the lead.

TWO STROKES

The U.S. team had a two-stroke advantage over Britain after the second round but the Britishers moved in front by seven strokes today. Britain fashioned a 207 for a 640 aggregate while the Americans carded a 216 for a 647 total.

Marvin Giles of Lynchburg, Va., had the best score among the U.S. team with a 71 while Jack Lewis of Florence, S.C., fired a 72. Bruce Fleisher of Miami and Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., shot 73s.

The fourth and last round of the tourney, in which the three best scores of four players on each day count for aggregate, will be played tomorrow.

CLICKING

Bonallack, smiling after he safely two-putted the 18th for the record 66, went two strokes better than the previous best set by Kevin Donohoe of Australia and Giles.

"Everything was clicking very well," said Bonallack. "It was the most satisfying round I have ever had and it came at the right time."

Bonallack said, "We will play Saturday as we played today—we would be dead if we tried to play safe—and we are not accepting it as being all over."

Blockhead Bowl In Terra Linda

The Drake Junior Pirates and the Redwood Junior Giants will battle it out for the symbolic "blockhead" in the Pop Warner-Marin Boys Club Blockhead Bowl at Terra Linda tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Drake is undefeated in three games this year while Redwood is 2-1. Admission is free.

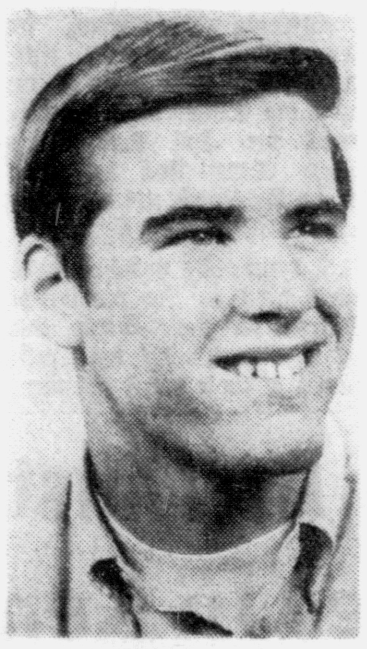
Marin Catholic Halfback Wins Prep Of Week Honor

By GARY TISCHLER



JIM O'BRIEN
Exciting runner

Just try and find Jim O'Brien at a football game.

They'll tell you he went that-a-way in a hurry. Don't ask any visiting teams; they're still looking for him.

O'Brien is a halfback at Marin Catholic High School where winning seasons are as scarce as youngsters at a Wallace rally.

But maybe not this year, and the reason just may be this young boy who at any moment may simply disappear when he's got the ball. Next stop: A considerable distance down the field, more than likely the end zone.

For the record, Mr. O'Brien has scored four touchdowns, jelled for 565 yards in 71 carries. Against Piner High of Santa Rosa last week, he had a Jim-dandy night, gaining 268 yards, scoring three times, once on a 93-yard run as Marin Catholic won, 24-13. That little job gained O'Brien the Independent-Journal's first "Prep of the Week" honor of the young season.

Time-wise, O'Brien would not seem to be overly fast (10.4 seconds in the 100). But it must seem like 9.3 to the opposition.

He is that rare kind of ballplayer that brings an extra bit of excitement to a ballgame, that feeling that any second now anything can happen.

He brought the Wildcats out of the offensive doldrums against San Rafael last month when he broke loose on an 82-yard scamper for a touchdown that turned the game into an explosive 33-25 scoring romp, won by the Bulldogs and lost by the 'Cats in honorable fashion.

O'Brien seems totally unruffled by his accomplishments. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Brien Jr. of 575 Thyme Place, San Rafael, has some simple explanations for his achievements.

"When I'm in a hurry, I just go faster," he said. "You just look for someplace to go. The pressure speeds you up, too."

"I think I'm maybe a little faster than Jim," O'Brien said. "But he has more power, is bigger and hits hard."

Either way, both are hard to bring down or catch.

As far as the future is concerned, O'Brien came up with what must be good news for Wildcat coach Joel Kiff and is also something of an understatement.

"I just hope I can keep doing what I've been doing," he said.

Tommy Davis On Injured Waiver List

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers announced yesterday that they were placing veteran placekicker Tommy Davis on the injured waiver list and activating rookie Dennis Patera to take his place.

Davis has been bothered by a sprained right knee. The club said no decision had been made about a trade or cut that would make room for running back Doug Cunningham, whom Coach Dick Nolan said he would activate for the game here against the Baltimore Colts Sunday.

USC-Stanford Game Tops List

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unbeaten Southern California and Stanford hook up in a critical Pacific-8 Conference grid struggle and four intersectional games are scheduled for their loop brothers this weekend.

Oregon is at Washington in the second conference tilt and it is something of a must for both teams, each with conference records of 0-1.

The intersectionals match Penn State, the No. 3 team in the nation, at unranked UCLA, California with the Army at West Point, Oregon State at Kentucky in a night game and Washington State with Arizona State at Tempe.

Southern Cal, with running back O.J. Simpson, is a touchdown favorite over Stanford's finest team in at least a decade. But the host Indians hope to ambush the Trojans on the throwing arm of sophomore Jim Plunkett, the second leading passer in the Pacific-8. The game, in Stanford Stadium, begins at 1:30 p.m.

Stanford's three victims, San Jose State—idle this week—Oregon and the Air Force, may not rate with Southern Cal's fallen foes, Minnesota, Northwestern and Miami of Florida.

"It's an excellent Stanford team, the best in 10 years," said USC Coach John McKay, who added the Indians' blocking line was better than Miami's and Coach John Ralston's offense may be the best his team has played.

Syracuse knocked UCLA out of the top rankings last Saturday and the Bruins appear headed for continued harassment from Penn State. The game is the sixth and last of the series and Penn State, winner of one, will be gunning for revenge.

Most of UCLA's problems can be explained in two words—Bill Bolden. The big junior quarterback was injured in the first game of the fall with Pittsburgh and has been sidelined since.

Whether Bolden is ready for action, or whether Coach Tommy Prothro wants to use him in a nonconference game, remains to be determined.

California's Golden Bears, also undefeated in three games, have yet to meet a conference rival. They are a short favorite to trim Army in their first visit to West Point.

Oregon State, which surged from behind in the second half to whip Washington last week, is generally picked to beat Kentucky. This is the first meeting between the two schools.

Coach Dee Andros' Beavers, with quarterback Steve Preece showing the way, were most impressive in downing Washington. OSU is 2-1 for the season and 1-0 in the conference.

Washington, 1-1-1, merits the role of favorite over Oregon, 0-3 and 0-1, while Washington State and Arizona State should provide a wing-dinger of a game. The Cougars' quarterback, Jerry Henderson, leads the conference in passing.

Double Tournament At Las Gallinas

The Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club put on a double tourney yesterday with Mrs. G. W. Risdon taking low gross honors and Mrs. Sam Cala winning low net in the handicap championship.

In the Cala-Smoot tourney, Mrs. Jack Goodall and Mrs. W. G. Risdon finished one-two in Class A with net totals of 56 and 59, respectively. Mrs. Smoot won Class B with a net 57 and three way tie at 62 developed in Class C with Mesdames Lewis Garat, M. E. Schutte, and John Siebler all carding the same net total.

MARIN BOWLING

Dick Treadway Tops The Field

By RALPH CHATOIAN

That guy Dick Treadway did it again.

Treadway, veteran secretary of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, led all scores for the past week of Marin County bowling.

He rolled games of 220, 236 and 236 again for a mighty fine series of 692. That was in the 910 Travel League at Country Club Bowl.

Also in the Travel league, Lou Eastland bowled a 268 game and 673 series, and Orlando Conti a 255-645.

Bill Nave III had a big night at Nave Lanes, rolling a 661 series on games of 229-222 and 210.

Highlight score at Greenbrae Lanes was Sylvia Knutson's 01 series in the Marin County Mixed Travel League. She had games of 190, 208 and 203.

PICKIN' 'EM UP — Deanne Brady was beaming about the 4-10 split she picked up in the Blue Chip League at Country Club Bowl . . . Harrison Phillips made good on the very difficult 4-6 split in the 840 Scratch at Nave Lanes. . . When Lou Liberati rolled a 603 series at Greenbrae Lanes it was his first time over the 600 mark. . . In the Merry Mixers League at Country Club, Paul Giuliani picked up the 4-7-10 and George Wigner was top man with a 235 line. . . Bill Henderson had a big 680 series in the 905 Classic at Country Club, his high game going at 250. . . Jim Fust, 151 average, rolled games of 212-219 and 192 for a 623 series in the 670 Scratch. . . In the 820 Scratch, 161 average Bill Raudio had a 224 game and 610 series. . . Ray Miller was star of the Lutheran Late League at Country Club, 256 game and 621 series.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Paul Panholzer, desk man at Nave Lanes, went way up to a 268 game. . . Terry DeYoung, another desk man at Nave's place rolled a 279 game and 673 series at Sports Center Bowl in San Francisco . . . What the little ones are doing at Country Club Bowl? Well, Tony Trowbridge and Nancy McPherson were the best in the Bantam Division with 312 series scores for two games, and Mike Piver was best of the Pee Wees, the 6-year-old youngster rolling a 116 game and then a 97. . . In the Marin Mixed Travel, Karen Williams converted the 6-7-10 and Bob Helton, 128 avg., bowled a 210. . Phyllis DeSilva (136 avg.) rolled a 526 in the Jacks and Jills and Pam Luby (128 avg.) a 501, her first 500 ever.

THIS AND THAT — Jane Cornett led the Novato Unified Bowlers League at Nave Lanes with a 231 line. . . Bill Kelly liked holding pairs in the Splinters League at Country Club, 155-166-177. . . In the Bowlerettes League at Country Club, Marcella Howard went 109 pins over her average with a 487 set, Cathy Pantages picked up the 4-7-10 split, and Liz Donnici must be due for a 188 game after rolling 122-144-166. . . Della Wallace picked up the 6-7-10 split in the Agents 1108 League at Country Club. . . Jean Twillman came close to a triplicate in the Classy Lassies at Nave Lanes, a 139 sandwiched between a pair of 144s, and Gloria Funk converted the 4-7-10. . . Sid Deibler, 138 avg., went way over with a 204 game on his way to a 510 in the Lutheran Early at Country Club.

NEW CLUB — Next meeting of the brand new Marin County 500 Club, open to women who have rolled series scores of 500 or better in Marin league play, will be Oct. 20, noon, at Country Club Bowl. Interested women can get in touch with president Sharon Safina or sec-treasurer Ruth Soldavini.

The FISHIN' FOOL

I-J Fish and Game Writer

Lack Of Restocking Due To Heat, Low Water Level

STEVENS

A postcard in the morning's mail contains the following query: "You have made no mention of where catchable trout have been planted. How come?"

The "how come" is simply that high temperatures and falling water levels during late summer have brought restocking in the central coastal region waters to an end.

ANOTHER QUERY by a dove hunter is answered: "I have been told that I must retain a fully feathered wing on each of my dressed doves. Is that true?"

The answer is no, if the bird is killed in California, but each bird killed in Arizona and Mexico requires a fully feathered wing if imported from Arizona or Mexico.

BLACK BASS and catfish are being taken in fairly large quantities at Clear Lake, according to Don's Bait House at Clear Lake Highlands. Cats generally are running a bit on the small side. The great run of spawning crappies has slackened off due to the move into deep water.

Lake Berryessa has yielded some dandy strings of crappies and anglers who know their fishing in Berryessa are scoring high.

A REPORT from Jim Rhoads of the Klamath River Guide Service is very interesting. It follows verbatim: "Happy Camp Area: Klamath lowest in 64 years. Very low and clear. Water temperatures have dropped considerably due to recent showers and cool nights that have brought snow in the higher elevations.

"My parties of two to a boat are still averaging 25 to 35 hookups per day, with one boat as high as 45. This is not counting the lost fish or the misses. We are now getting big fish (four and five pounds) each day with the majority of fish still in the half-pounder class. All are being taken on lures or flies. Best lures: one-quarter and one-third ounce silver Little Jewel. Top fly: No. 4 and 6 Silver Hilton. Night crawlers also doing well. A few fish (Steelhead, of course) going six and eight pounds taken this week, with a few still larger fish showing in the area. Weather: Warm days and much cooler nights of around 50 degrees."

THE PUZZLE of the week — What is keeping the ordinarily avid anglers away from the open water of the ocean and a trolling trip after salmon? It can't be because of lack of fish. Only two boats went out of Caruso's Sausalito headquarters. The Sea Sport boated 14 salmon to 25 pounds, and the Jennie C came back with 9 limits. Best action off Rocky Point.

Minnie Caruso reported some action with private boats live-bait fishing in the Racoon Strait and environs.

$25,000 Added Race Tomorrow

SAN MATEO (AP)—A field of 11 horses, headed by Elmendorf's Skookum and Forked Lightning Ranch's Deck Hand, will compete tomorrow in the 25th running of the $25,000-added Tanforan Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Skookum is high weight for the 1⅛-mile test at 121 pounds. Deck Hand will carry 120 pounds. Willie Harmatz will ride Skookum and Don Pierce is Deck Hand's jockey.

Skookum recently equalled the track record for 1 1-16 miles of 1:40 2-5 in winning the Leland Stanford Handicap and then lost last Saturday to Baffle, which lowered the record to 1:39 4-5.

Terra Linda, Tam Take On 'Outsiders'

While four teams engage in Marin County Athletic League warfare, Terra Londa and Tamalpais try to keep their non-league records unblemished and add some more prestige to the MCAL banners.

The Trojans, 2-0-1, take on one-man Poly of San Francisco at San Rafael High at 8 o'clock tonight while the Indian combo of Brown-Mackin travel to Burlingame for a duel with Mills (0-2) at 4:30 today.

Terra Linda, with a 33-0 win over Santa Rosa and a 21-21 tie with tough South San Francisco to show in two non-league encounters, will have to keep its eyes on one man and he's a champ.

That's Kerry Hampton, the high school hurdles champion in last year's state track and field meet, and Poly's chief offensive threat, when he gets a little blocking.

BIG PLAY

Hampton can go and the big play is a draw play to, surprise, Hampton, But Poly, nevertheless is 0-2.

The Indians, 2-0 in non-league play with 45-20 and 19-13 wins over Salesian and Skyline, respectively, will be trying to bounce back from an 26-18 defeat at the hands of Novato last week.

'New Look' Seals Open Slate Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals, revamped from front office to front lines, open their National Hockey League season tonight at 8 o'clock against the Minnesota North Stars.

The Seals are confident they can erase memories of the 1967-68 season, their first, when they finished far at the bottom of the NHL's expansion West Division with 15 victories, 42 defeats and 17 ties.

With a new management, a new general manager, a new coach and more new players than holdovers, the Seals were the terror of the exhibition season. They won six games and tied two without a loss.

"Exhibition wins are nice," General Manager Frank Selke, Jr., said yesterday "but they don't count a single point in the standings. We start collecting points tonight."

Selke, president of the club last year, moved over to the front office job as a trio that owns the Harlem Globetrotters basketball club assumed ownership of the Seals: John O'Neil, Jr., of Miami and Potter Palmer and George Gillett of Chicago.

The new manager of the club is Fred Glover, who moves in after 15 years with Cleveland of the American Hockey League, the last six as player-coach.

"Children! For heaven's sake! We'll only be five minutes!"

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct. 11, the 285th day of 1968 with 81 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1811, the world's first steam-driven ferry started a run between New York City and Hoboken, N.J.

In 1945, Chinese leader Chiang Kai-Shek and Communist Chieftain Mao Tse-Tung pledged mutual desires for peace and unity. The Communists took over China four years later under Mao.

In 1962, Pope John XXIII opened the second session of the Ecumenical Council with a plea for Christian unity.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes It Wise To Praise Fine Play Whatever The Motive

How do you feel when you see a rival do the right thing for the wrong reason? Do you expose him? Or do you praise him, hoping for the same treatment some day for as poor a reason?

Opening lead — ♠ Q

DANGER SIGN

South won the first trick with the king of spades and saw the danger of a block in the clubs. To avoid this, South planned to play his three high cards on the first three club tricks, saving the deuce to reach dummy's clubs later. South therefore led the ten of clubs, intending to win with dummy's king.

Since South was not compelled to state his reasons for leading the ten, West couldn't tell that declarer intended to play dummy's king. West should have played low to give South his chance to make a mistake. But it is hard to blame West for covering the ten of clubs with the jack.

SEES THE LIGHT

Declarer duly played dummy's king of clubs, and East's diamond discard woke him up. Suddenly South saw that the ten of clubs was a fine play, provided that he inteded to let it ride as a finesse, since it guarded him against four clubs in the West hand.

The rest was easy. Declarer returned the three of clubs from dummy and played the seven from his hand. West took the nine of clubs and led the jack of spades to the ace.

LEADS CLUB

Now South led the eight of clubs for a finesse through West's Q-5. Whether West covered or played low, declarer was sure to get three more club tricks and his contract.

When you get up from your chair and find that people follow you to victory, never admit that you got up merely because your underwear was too tight.

♣ Q J 9 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Despite fine trump support this is a very poor hand. For a jump to four spades you should have good playing thrength. Change a heart or a diamond to a club, and you would consider a jump to four spades.

Excess Sun Worship May Cause Cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A University of California Medical Center dermatologist warns that excessive exposure to the sun can lead to skin cancer.

The ravages wrought by chronic exposure to the sun—dryness, loss of elasticity, thickening and a yellowish or blotchy brown color—are often irreversible, said Dr. Howard I. Maibach.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Transamerica - Metromedia Plan To Merge Gets Board Approval

The respective boards of Transamerica Corp. and Metromedia Inc. have approved an agreement in principal to merge the two companies.

Under the agreement, Transamerica would exchange three-quarters of a share of its common stock for each outstanding share of Metromedia common. On Wednesday Transamerica proposed a two-for-one stock split. If approved by stockholders the exchange would become one and one-half shares of Transamerica stock for each share of Metromedia. The transaction would involve a stock value of approximately $300 million.

Transamerica Corp., a diversified service organization, has major interests in insurance, finance, entertainment and land-related and business services.

Metromedia, Inc., a communications and marketing complex, has interests in television and radio broadcasting, outdoor and transit advertising, publishing, entertainment, television film production and other enterprises.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC. chairman and president Edward J. Daly has agreed to exchange his 80.5 per cent of the stock of the Oakland-based charter airline for INA Corp., holding company of Insurance Co. of North America. World Airways recently acquired most of the stock of First Western Bank and Trust Co. for $63 million. The INA-World Airways transaction should come to more than $300 million.

UNION LUMBER CO. San Francisco directors and directors of Boise Cascade Corp. have approved a merger of Union into Boise Cascade. Under the agreement each share of Union's stock would be exchanged for approximately 2.3 shares of Boise Cascade's common stock. Union is a California redwood tree farming and redwood products manufacturing company. Boise Cascade is an international forest products firm.

AMERICAN BUILDING MAINTENANCE INDUSTRIES, San Francisco, has completed acquisition of all outstanding stock of General Elevator Corp. in exchange for 30,000 shares of its own common stock. Theodore Rosenberg of San Rafael, chairman of American Building Maintenance, said up to 21,000 additional shares of ABMI could be issued to the sellers contingent upon future earnings performance.

E. F. CLEMENTS CO. INC., a closely held San Francisco importer and distributor of souvenir and novelty wares, may be acquired by the specialty industries division of Amtel, Inc., Providence, R. I. Amtel formed its special industries division last month after acquiring Goldfarb Novelty Co. and its subsidiary New England Doll and Novelty Co. The company's five other divisions manufacture components for aircraft, automotive, electronics, chemical, machine tool and other industries.

SSI COMPUTER CORP., San Francisco computer leasing company, has acquired Inter Container in exchange for its common stock. SSI currently is in registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission with a primary offering of approximately 400,000 shares of its common stock. Inter Container operates throughout the Pacific where it leases containers and maintains service facilities in Japan, Taiwan and on the U. S. West Coast.

B. T. Babbitt, Inc., New York City, will purchase from Dunhill International Inc. its 54 per cent common stock interest in American Bank Note Co. The purchase is being made for investment purposes. Arrangements are also being made to purchase an additional block of shares which will bring Babbitt holdings to 63 per cent of the common stock outstanding.

SONY CORP. OF AMERICA has re-elected Akio Morita to succeed Ernest B. Schwarzenbach, who died last month. Morita was president of the American subsidiary of Sony Corp. of Tokyo until 1966, when Schwarzenbach was named to the post. Morita will continue as chairman of the board of the American corporation.

Downturn Partly Is Canceled

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today as selective improvement gradually modifed a mild downturn.

Trading was moderately active throughout the session but much less than on Thursday's busy session.

C.I.T. Financial was active and dropped a point. Xerox, less active, rose about 2½.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Utility Stocks Excellent Buys In Growing Areas

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We're in our late 30s and very conservative investors. We know we should buy growth stocks but have always settled for income instead. Have you any suggestions on investing the $10,000 we now have available? — G. D.

A. A carefully selected package of electric utility issues, representing areas of the country where population growth should prove most rapid, would be suitable for a conservative investor. The utilities have over-all an enviable record of earnings and dividend increases but, because higher yields have been available elsewhere, the group has been in disfavor. As a consequence earnings multiples peaked out in the mid-60s and many fine growth utilities are obtainable today at reasonable levels.

The five companies reviewed below have been selected primarily for their strategic geographic locations and secondly for their growth records over the past decade. Each, with a history of annual dividend increases, currently provides an adequate yield.

Delmarva Power & Light furnishes electricity and gas to commercial, residential and industrial customers in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Over the last 10 years earnings growth has been uninterrupted, averaging over 10 per cent year to year.

Gulf States Utilities, serving Texas and Louisiana where oil and chemical industries predominate, is predicting a 12 per cent long-range compound annual growth rate. Because of a greater number of common shares outstanding and increased preferred dividend requirements, a slowdown may be seen this year.

Long Island Lighting operates both in densely settled sections and also in Suffolk County where population should expand at an above-average rate.

Nevada Power, serving an area where two-thirds of the homes are all-electric, should benefit from continued government-sponsored building programs for space and nuclear projects.

Public Service of Colorado is expected to maintain its 10 per cent annual growth rate, particularly since its largest single customer — American Metal Climax — has opened a new mining operation.

Equal dollar amounts placed in these five issues should enhance your capital over the next decade while producing a moderate return.

Press Freedom Periled Within Its Own Ranks

A free press can exist only in a free country, and a country cannot remain free without a free presss.

These are provable truisms.

It is therefore particularly unfortunate — we may even say reprehensible — when a segment of the press seeks special treatment which threatens the freedom of competitors.

SUCH SPECIAL treatment is proposed in Senate Bill 1312. This measure, also called the "Newspaper Preservation Act," is now in the hands of the Senate Judiciary Committee after being reported out with a 5-to-4 favorable vote by its antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

The "Newspaper Preservation Act" would exempt from the laws against price-fixing and profit pooling a certain class of newspaper mergers. The exemption would go to papers that merge their printing, advertising and circulation under a joint company, while retaining separate editorial identities.

This is a device that has been rather widely used in metropolitan centers as the influence of the "metro" press has declined in concert with the rise of newspapers in sub-metropolitan cities. It was used in San Francisco in the creation of the Newspaper Printing Co. to produce the Examiner and Chronicle.

THE EXEMPTION from price-fixing and profit pooling is sought on the pretense that such an arrangement may be necessary to prevent newspapers from disappearing from publication (which it did not do) incidentally, in San Francisco, where the afternoon News-Call-Bulletin disappeared in the process).

Such a merger gives one company a local monopoly under which it sets advertising and subscription rates at any figures it pleases, for the advertising buyer and the public have no place to turn. The Justice Department has been looking askance at this — as well it might. And so the "Newspaper Preservation Act" is sought to make unquestionably legal what might be prosecuted as restraint of trade.

THE EFFECT is twofold: Advertising rates are pegged so high in the monopoly city that stores having suburban branches must cut back their advertising in suburban papers. This gives the suburban papers less money with which to better their product.

And in the monopoly city, the competition between the "independent" editorial offices becomes more and more artificial, so that readers there are denied some of the benefits of press freedom.

THE "NEWSPAPER Preservation Act" is given little chance for passage in its present form. But it is expected that it may be tacked on as an amendment to some unrelated bill.

Vigilance is necessary to prevent this. And the vigilance of senators is increased when they hear from their constituents.

The people thus have the opportunity to play a role in protecting the free press which in turn helps to keep them free.

Fastest Growing

Of all Marin's growing things, the bamboo undoubtedly makes the most rapid growth. Some kinds of bamboo grow more than a foot a day during the height of the growing season.

There are dozens of varieties of bamboo. Although it is usually thought of as a semi-tropical plant, many kinds do quite well here in the gardens of Marin. Seemingly, there is a bamboo for every purpose.

Those of us with ties to the Far East particularly enjoy a plant or two in the garden. In that portion of the globe bamboo plays an important part in everyday life, having a multitude of uses.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Attorney General Twists Law To Permit Secret Negotiations

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When the state Legislature adopted the Ralph M. Brown Act some years ago, and when it subsequently adopted other measures involving the public's right to know, it was with the firm intention of letting the public in on matters of government which heretofore had been kept from scrutiny by anyone other than officials.

Ever since the act was adopted, ways have been sought by public bodies to continue the pastime of conducting public business in private, thereby retaining the management of government unto themselves.

IT WAS FELT by many that with the passage of years, perhaps these government officials might learn a lesson: it being that the government belongs to the people of California, and its conduct should be a matter for the people to know.

However, lessons come hard. The pressure still is on to keep the people from knowing about some of the conduct of their own government, as evidenced in an opinion handed down by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch for Albert C. Beeson, director of the state Department of Industrial Relations.

Beeson asked, "Is there any way, without amending the Ralph M. Brown Act, that our conciliators can advise public bodies that they may discuss or negotiate in private rather than in a public hearing?"

The attorney general replied: "We assume that such negotiations or discussions are to be conducted by at least a quorum of the board and that such negotiations have reached a point where a conciliator has intervened as authorized by law.

"We conclude that under such circumstances, public bodies may discuss or negotiate in private, without an amendment to the Ralph M. Brown Act."

SPECIFICALLY, the Brown Act requires that deliberations and actions by public bodies "shall be open and public." It contains no exception for negotiations in private with a state labor conciliator.

But regardless of these specific provisions, the attorney general holds that once a state conciliator has intervened in proceedings, private discussions may be conducted "by virtue of the privilege attached to the records of the department" which are held by law not to be subject to public view.

The attorney general bases his opinion on the holding of Sacramento County Superior Court in the case of the Sacramento Newspaper Guild vs. Sacramento County supervisors. The court held that a public body should enjoy the same secrecy as private bodies in the lawyer-client relationship.

If such an exception is to be made, it would appear it is the duty of the state Legislature to write that exception into the law, rather than have law created by legalistic opinions which twist the Brown Act into a mockery of the original intent of the Legislature.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Denial Of License For Club Protested

We were dismayed to read in the Independent-Journal that the Sausalito Planning Commission denied a permit for a restaurant with entertainment to the Lion's Share.

We have found the entertainment at this small club to be on a par with that of some of the best spots in San Francisco. Nationally known folk singers, such as Jack Elliott, have been featured, and quite recently, John Stuart and Buffy Ford performed there before going to an engagement at the famous Hungry I.

We sincerely hope that the planning commission will reconsider their decision.

Realty Men Not United On Prop. 9

Your editorial of Oct. 2 on the Watson Amendment (Proposition 9) might have given your readers the impression that ALL real estate brokers are for "Yes on 9," which is certainly not so. As a realtor, I serve on the Tiburon Sanitary District Board of Governors and the record will show that at our meeting on Sept. 3, I urged the board to take "no" position on this proposition. The matter was tabled, presumably for further study.

I serve as a member of the California Real Estate Association's legislative committee's sub-committee on taxation. Our committee heard testimony in Sacramento in March . . . and again in San Diego in June . . . the subcommittee recommended a "no" or "no position" on this measure to the legislative committee. This committee adopted our recommendations which was passed on up to the executive committee who, also, adopted our report. This report was unacceptable, however, by the board of directors, whereupon a motion for CREA to support Proposition 9 passed on the floor of that meeting.

I wrote Bob Karp in Bakersfield, president of CREA, of my dissatisfaction with this stand and his response indicated many other brokers were also against 9, but CREA was obliged to reflect . . . the directors' vote, the majority rule . . .

Use Of WASP 'Communist Line'

I first read of the WASP in one of the national magazines and now I see that you have taken it up and use it frequently in your editorials. I had never thought of myself as a WASP (even the name instills fear) and I don't intend to start now. It therefore puzzles me as to why you must make this distinction between people.

Whether you know it or not, you are following the communist-socialist line by making a class distinction between people, such as you do. The differences, and not the similarities, between people such as religion, race, and station in life are always exploited by the communist-socialist and many of the misguided liberals in order to bring about the hatred, fear, and mistruct that is necessary for them to seize power. Class hatred has always been the prime component of every communist revolution.

Your editorial (Oct. 5) was certainly right on one thing: the OEO has got to go! But please, no substitutes or replacements.

Wallace Against Law And Order

If George Wallace symbolizes "law and order," then peace is war and freedom is slavery. Mr. Wallace stood on the steps of a state university and openly defied federal law. This violation was justified by claiming priority of state law. However, when he came to the end of his term as governor, Mr. Wallace was confronted by Alabama state law which prohibits a governor from succeeding himself. Wallace and his supporters evaded this law by placing Mrs. Wallace in the governor's seat.

Not content with this, Mr. Wallace now promises to reimburse every policeman fined for wearing Wallace campaign buttons. . This subsidizes a violation of most municipal ordinances regulating police activity. . . .

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

RUNNING the city of New York these days is a thankless job, as Mayor John Lindsay discovered as soon as he took office. At one stormy meeting open to the public, an indignant lady informed him, "If you stand for reelection, I wouldn't vote for you if you were St. Peter." Mayor Lindsay answered calmly, "Madam, if I were St. Peter, I doubt that you'd be in my voting district."

A determined lady phoned the city desk of an Indianapolis paper to order her husband's name inserted in the obituary column the following morning. He was shot, she explained, when discovered in a compromising situation with his seductive secretary. "When did your poor husband pass away?" asked the city editor. Replied the caller, "He starts tomorrow."

THE HARDY CACTUS

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The wheel of fortune has turned with such dramatic swiftness that the Democratic presidential candidate in 1968 finds himself in much the same situation as did the Republican presidential candidate in 1964. Barry Goldwater four years ago carried six states and by present reckoning Hubert Humphrey is shown as leading in scarcely more.

Running for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Carl Hayden, who started coming to Congress shortly after Arizona was admitted to the Union in 1912, Goldwater is elated over this state of affairs.

Supremely confident of victory this year, Goldwater is his old casual, easy-going self. One of the most clubbable men in public life, Goldwater is anticipating a return to the Senate club where he spent his happiest years. And if the present indicators are correct, the club under Republican management will be much more congenial for the senator from Arizona.

REFLECTING what is reported to be growing sentiment for George C. Wallace, Goldwater is devoting a lot of his speeches to warning of the dangers of a third-party candidate who might get enough votes to throw the election into the House of Representatives. He is careful to say he is not opposing Wallace. He adds that he can understand the frustration of those who cannot see any future in either the Democrats or the Republicans.

We may be disgusted with both national parties, he goes on to say, but for our country is it worthwhile going without a leader? He paints a gloomy picture of leaderless months while the House in unable to decide on either of the two candidates of the major parties. This is assuming that, because of the strength of the third party, neither Humphrey nor Nixon gets the required 270 electoral votes.

THE DEMOCRAT opposing Goldwater is Roy Elson, protege and long the administrative assistant to Senator Hayden. He would like to transfer to himself the magic of the Hayden name and the Hayden reputation for getting more federal largesse for Arizona than almost any other state in the Union. Hayden's final achievement is the Central Arizona Project, a mammoth water transferal development costing eventually just under a billion dollars. Political transference is, however, another matter, and particularly in a year promising to be unkind to Democrats.

Hayden observed his 91st birthday in Washington last week and, while he has been infirm, almost everyone out here feels that if he had decided to seek another term he would have been re-elected, Goldwater notwithstanding.

THE MOST VENERABLE of the lot, Hayden is one of a procession of senators retiring or defeated in the primaries largely by reason of age. Regardless of what happens on Nov. 5 the old guard is passing and the face of the Senate so long familiar will be radically changed.

Sen. Ernest Guening of Alaska, 81, was narrowly defeated by a younger man in the primary. So was Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who is in his early 70s. On the Republican side Iowa's Bourke B. Hickenlooper and Kansas' Frank Carlson, both in their 70s, are retiring. Sen. Edward V. Long of Missouri was defeated by Tom Eagleton, a younger man. Not so much for age but for personal reasons, Senators Thurston B. Morton, (R-Ky.) and George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) are retiring. Several Democrats running for re-election this year are faced with young challengers, notably Wayne Morse of Oregon and Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania.

New Left Plans Drive To Keep Down The Vote

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The New Left's "National GI Week," timed to include Election Day, Nov. 5, will trigger a series of anti-war demonstrations by Vietnam protest groups in other nations.

That is the indication in data reaching government authorities who have been charting the activities of the New Left. These government experts are convinced that leaders of the movement, emboldened by their propaganda success in Chicago, plan a coordinated drive to exploit the turmoil of an election year.

Significantly, a group of the New Leftists participated in a meeting in Budapest early in September with representatives of North Vietnam. Indications are that the anti-war, anti-draft "GI Week" was discussed in the context of anti-U.S. demonstrations in other parts of the world.

ONE OF THE U.S. participants in that meeting was Ray Dellinger, identified as a son of David Dellinger, the self-styled non-Soviet Communist. The senior Dellinger, who helped to plan the disruptive protests at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago was not present in Budapest. However, he did serve as chairman of a subsequent meeting here which made plans for the National GI Week (Nov. 1-6), Vietnam Sunday (Nov. 3) and other activities, including demonstrations on college campuses. That meeting, Sept. 14, was sponsored by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC).

Also participating in that planning session were Thomas Hayden, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and another activist leader in Chicago, and Arnold Johnson, described in government reports as a member of the Communist Party's national committee and an old-time party leader.

THE INCREASINGLY serious problem posed by the new socio-political protest movement was highlighted last week when the Federal Bureau of Investigation cited the New Left, along with Soviet and Red Chinese espionage, as growing threats to the national security.

Information available to authorities here indicates that, while efforts may be coordinated at international conferences such as the one in Budapest, the New Left movement in the United States is calling its own shots.

The NMC, which has become the most important anti-war organization in the nation, is a coalition of anti-war and pacifist groups of the left. It plans to work in cooperation with other left-wing groups in the months ahead.

AT THE NMC conference here plans were made for campaign demonstrations against political candidates — especially those who support the Vietnam war.

These activities are to be intensified during the projected "GI Week," and clergymen will be asked to support anti-Vietnam activities on "Vietnam Sunday." During the final pre-election week, political headquarters in some cities are to be picketed.

Campus demonstrations will also be intensified, and tentative plans call for a strike or boycott of classes on some campuses on Election Day. Polling places, especially those easily covered by television and the news media, will be picketed.

NMC activists on the picket line will try to persuade potential voters not to cast ballots. They will try to keep the total vote down to support their view that the nation opposes not only the war but the whole political system in the United States.

Two Tempests Tarnish Tempers In Unusually Quiet Mill Valley

The usually quiet, albeit sometimes eccentric, community of Mill Valley has two major tempests brewing in its cul-de-sac at the moment, making even the most unflappable civic observers believe somehow they have ended up on the wrong side of Alice's looking glass.

The sudden rebellion of the city council Tuesday night in refusing to deed its Project 17 land to the school district for the joint middle school-park development left the school board and many citizens who voted for the $3.5 million school bond issue last year speechless and sputtering.

The specific point at issue between the two jurisdictions is the extent to which the school district will be able to provide recreation facilities as part of the first development phase of the middle school.

When the idea that the two jurisdictions work together to develop the marshlands, thus providing school and recreation facilities without duplication and saving the taxpayers a few dollars, was suggested last year, most residents were enthused. Only a few saw the pitfalls ahead.

However, as is often the case when politicians try to mix good will and money, something happened along the way.

THE CITY COUNCIL claims the school district promised to install at least $200,000 in indoor and outdoor recreation facilities. The school board claims it agreed to cooperate in the development of recreational facilities but did not agree to a $200,000 initial investment.

In addition, the school board wants to count the art rooms, library, stage and other amenities of the middle school as part of its contribution, while the city wants a gymnasium and ballfields.

Also, the school district is discovering, as others have before it, that it costs a lot of money to build such a school. In a money bind, with a promise to the voters to spend part of the bond money for improvement of neighborhood schools, the board feels it cannot set aside $200,000 for the city's wishes.

Thus comes the misunderstanding.

As this is written, it is hoped that the council and school board will resolve their differences at a special meeting called for Friday (today) but not without a lot of bitter feeling.

THE SECOND tempest comes from a surprising quarter: Enchanted Knolls, that subdivision near the Alto Wye.

Warner R. Odenthal and Eugen Harder's proposal to increase the density for 73 acres on the Enchanted Knolls ridge has the subdivision in a twit and has even shaken the sedate Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association to threats of recall.

But an interesting sidelight is that the development proposal has unearthed a long-silent campaign by some of the community's leaders to bring low-cost housing to Mill Valley.

FIVE MEMBERS of the city planning commission have suggested that the higher density (eight units per acre instead of the approved five) be allowed if the city requires a "reasonable amount of low and moderate cost housing" in the development.

The commissioners have noted that the city's zoning ordinance calls for protecting the economic and social stability of the city but provides no way of doing this. Thus, they say, the city is in the position of having a preponderance of high-cost housing.

Odenthal has indicated he is interested in the idea if he can afford it but that the big hitch again is money. Whether such a proposal is economically feasible depends upon the density allowed, and it's right there that the idealistic planners run smack into more than 100 irate Enchanted Knolls residents.

A letter setting forth the commissioners' case has been submitted to the city council and will be considered at its Oct. 21 meeting along with the higher density request.

Previewing The 1969 Models: Watch Out For LeMay Nike III

THE HUMPHREY HUMBER: This model has been on the market for a long time, but because it has been overshadowed by the Johnson Warhawk, which was built by the same factory, nobody knows what it can do on its own. Critics say it's the same old model and offers the buyers nothing new. But the Humphrey Humber people say while it doesn't look different, customers can expect an entirely different performance. Sales have been very slow and the company is afraid it may have another Edsel on its hands.

THE NIXON MARK VII: It was thought at one time that the Nixon would be retired because of the disastrous years when it went into a complete sales decline. But the Nixon has made a comeback with new engineering and a very successful advertising campaign. The Mark VII has a much quieter engine, uses less gas and appeals to the middle-class family market by claiming it is much safer than the other '69 models, and a better buy for the money. Automobile surveys indicate that customers are showing a preference for the Nixon, although many have complained the 1969 selection of cars doesn't give them much of a choice.

THE WALLACE WILDCAT: This little sports car, built in Alabama only a few years ago, was a laughing stock car. But people aren't laughing any more.

It is not only selling in the South, but in the North as well. It comes in only one color — white. It advertises itself to people who are tired of being pushed around on the city streets and highways by other cars. The manufacturer discovered that many people have a killer instinct when it comes to picking an automobile. And it has exploited this instinct by promising customers that the Wildcat will knock down anything that gets in its way.

Anyone who buys this car gets a free bumper sticker which says, "Support Your Local Police."

THE MUSKIE: This is the sleeper model of the year. It has great popularity amongst the younger people and in many places it's outselling the Humphrey Humber, mainly because it isn't stuck with all the accessories that the Humber has. Unfortunately, it is on display in the same showroom with the Humber and does not have a strong enough chassis to support both.

THE AGNEW ACK-ACK: When it first came out on the market it wasn't a household name; but it has been getting a great deal of publicity, and not all of it good. As a matter of fact, every time the manufacturer thinks it has all the bugs worked out, it has to recall the model and make further adjustments. One of the problems is that every time the Agnew goes forward, it has to back up. This is giving the dealers fits.

THE LeMAY NIKE III: This model came out late. The manufacturer, who used to make bombers, decided to try its hand at cars, and while the Nike has just appeared on the market as a sister to the Wallace Wildcat, it is considered by safety experts as the most dangerous car on the road. Although it looks innocent enough, those who have tested it say that as soon as you put your foot on the accelerator, the whole damn car explodes.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Pass Out Postcards For Answers Already Known; You Pay Postage

Fusselman

Here is still another news story on transit. The I-J of Sept. 24 carried an item by reporter Paul Peterzell with the heading, "San Francisco Supervisors Ignore Chance To Aid Commuters."

In part this is it: "San Francisco politicians want commuters to pay a tax to work in their fair city, but the politicians themselves pay only lip service when it comes to doing something for the commuters.

"Their answer to the commute crisis seems to be, 'Ignore it long enough and it may go away'." It then cites the San Francisco Board of Supervisors' shelving of a proposal by the Marin County Transit District for a crash program by a "transit task force" to improve bus service between Marin and San Francisco Peterzell reported:

"It was to be taken before the San Francisco board by Supervisor Jack Morrison, who represents the San Francisco board on a committee composed of officials of the three jurisdictions. That was last spring." Peterzell asked Morrison about it and received a blank look with a response that he would "check on it."

MARIN SUPERVISOR Tom Storer and Morrison are co-chairmen of the committee that is handling the hiring of a consultant to make a $45,000 feasibility study of ferry boat commuting (San Francisco $30,000, Marin $15,000). Seymour Kashin the $22,580 manager of Marin Transit is the secretary of the group. (It takes a lot of brass, doesn't it?)

We also find Kashin, on Sept. 18 before the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission (state created) saying that Marin County was "planning an interim or short-range system of buses and ferries, but the long range mission is rail rapid transit." His latest, as presented to the Marin Transit District directors Wednesday night, is a proposal to make a survey of Marin Commuters "to determine their travel habits." The idea is to distribute 40,000 post cards, with return postage guaranteed, at the toll plaza of the bridge and by the bus drivers.

THAT'S A FUNNY one. Their "travel habits" are well known already. What is not known and is essential to find out is if Marin commuters who now drive or ride with a car pool would ever ride a bus, no matter how much air-conditioning and gold plating were used.

This bureaucrat is just playing the Parkinson game and no mistake. For instance how in thunder could he say that the "long-range mission is rail rapid transit?" Consider that for a bit. It's a good measure of his approach. Just how will this rail rapid transit get across the bridge — and just where and how will it get through San Francisco? The Marina way: Nope, hardly, or 19th Avenue? He must be kidding. Or is he talking about a tube under the bay for the rail rapid transit? Who will be paying for that? Shades of BART!

Panel To Study School Figures

The Reed School District's citizens committee on finances and programs has asked to review available statistics on the district's programs and evaluated results of such programs, Jack Usilton, Reed School principal, reported.

Usilton said the committee, believing it had heard too many opinions and not enough facts on what was being accomplished in the district, asked Wednesday for data to back up oral reports submitted to the committee to date.

Charles L. Jenks, the district's director of evaluation, and school psychologist Gail Cox will report to the committee later this month, he said.

The third-sixth grade program at Reed School will be reviewed by the committee at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Del Mar School.

Additional Signs Request Is Studied

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee Wednesday considered the application of Jack-in-the-Box, 830 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, for two additional signs, then referred it back to the applicant for more details.

The firm, which has one free-standing sign and another on the building under construction, is seeking permission for an outdoor menu sign and a direction sign.

'We're Having A Ball,' Trio Reports In Orbiting Apollo

COMBINED AP & UPI

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A space veteran and two rookies rode the world's largest manned spacecraft into orbit today on an 11-day adventure that could place America firmly on the path to the moon.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, dressed for the moon in the new bubble-topped lunar suits, hurtled into orbit aboard the 69,000-pound Apollo 7. If the flight goes well, it will end after 63 orbits in 11 days and 4.5 million miles of flight through space.

"We're having a ball," said Schirra, veteran astronaut on his third flight into space. "The windows appear to be almost crystal clear."

Thousands of people lined Atlantic beaches as the Saturn 1B rocket, the most powerful booster ever used for a U.S. manned flight, pressed the spacecraft into orbit, riding a tail of fire the length of a football field.

The eight first stage engines generating 1.6 million pounds of thrust—more power than 100 jet fighter planes—ignited at 8:03 a.m. PDT, roared into the crystal blue sky and curved downrange.

Schirra said shortly after ignition that the ride "was a little bumpy", but six minutes later he said it was "riding like a dream."

Mission control center said the rocket cutoffs "were nearly as perfect as they could be."

Mission Control Center said the mighty booster rocket performed flawlessly during its 10 minutes of powered flight, accelerating the spacecraft to 17,500 miles an hour.

Success of the Apollo 7 flight may open the door for another Apollo crew to orbit the moon in December, a vital step toward landing men on the moon next year.

The three Apollo 7 astronauts succeeded in a docking maneuver vital to a man-to-the-moon flight.

Although no actual link up occurred, they steered Apollo 7 to within 4 or 5 feet of a target circle painted on top of the second stage of their Saturn 1B booster rocket, the single-engine S4B.

"It's absolutely beautiful here," Schirra said as he steered Apollo 7 toward the tar-

Bridge District Vote Gives Marin $60,695 Repayment

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors today voted 9-2 to repay almost $2 million to the six counties in the district.

The repayment, authorized by the 1968 Legislature, is for property tax funds paid to the district from 1929 to 1931 before the bridge was built. Marin will get $60,695, equal to about 1.2 cents on the tax rate.

The board's vote overruled the opinion of the district's own attorney, Jerome B. White. He ruled against the repayment two weeks ago on the ground it would be an unconstitutional gift of public money.

Voting against the motion, made by Director Daniel F. Del Carlo of San Francisco, were directors L. E. Castner of Sonoma County and board chairman John E. Nelson of Mendocino County. Nelson termed the repayment "an immoral raid on our treasury" because it would not go back to the same citizens who paid the taxes.

Immediate repayment was demanded by a delegation of San Francisco officals led by Democratic Assemblyman John F. Foran. San Francisco will receive $1,752,678.

Foran was armed with an opinion from the Legislature's attorney, George H. Murphy, which directly contradicted White's opinion.

"The Legislature has absolute power over the organization, the dissolution, the extent, the powers, and the liabilities" of the bridge district, wrote Murphy.

The repayment "will not be disturbed by the courts so long as it has a reasonable basis,' said Murphy, adding that the repayment definitely would be reasonable.

White raised sudden objections to the repayment at a bridge board meeting last month after a bill authorizing the repayment had easily cleared the Legislature late last spring.

District Auditor Gordon Dahlgren said after the vote today that funds were available to cover the repayment.

However, Dahlgren said, he would consult first with White on whether he faced any liability if a taxpayers' suit were filed against the district.

White said he would have to read Murphy's opinion before he could answer Dahlgren's question.

"He may convince me," White said of Murphy's opinion.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco said such a suit would be "highly remote" because the repayment would benefit all taxpayers in the six counties.

Nine Cubans Nabbed For Terror Acts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nine Cuban exiles were charged today in connection with a nationwide wave of anti-Castro terror activities—bombings and shellings conducted in the name of "Cuban power."

A former Cuban doctor, Orlando Bosch, was among those charged. He was accused of threatening to destroy ships and planes of Great Britain, Mexico and Spain in cablegrams sent June 6 to the heads of government in those countries.

Bosch and two other exiles, Jose Diaz Morejon and Barbaro Balan Garcia, also were charged with the Sept. 16 shelling of the Polish freighter Polanica in Miami harbor. That incident led to apologies by the United States government after protests were published in Iron Curtain newspapers.

All nine are in custody. Others arrested were identified as Aimee Miranda Cruz, 40, the only woman in the group; Marco Rodriquez Ramson, 24; Jorge Luis Gutierrez Ulla, 20; Pauline Gutierrez, 45, father of Jorge; Andrew Jorge Gonzales, 37, and Jesus Dominquez Benitez, 27.

Marin City Plans For Own Future

By FRANK FARRARA

Marin City Council, advocating the right of residents to control their own destiny, last night adopted a broad general slate of immediate and long range programs for Marin City.

To gain control, they agreed that the council should be established as a nonprofit corporation "to promote the social educational, physical and economic development" of Marin City.

In a third step, the council retained Plan of Action for Challenging Times of San Francisco, a private nonprofit corporation, as its consultant on community development.

Dr. Daniel A. Collins of Mill Valley, board chairman of PACT, warned that the task "will be painstaking," but when it comes to "how to run a community . . . the only way is to do it yourself."

The plan is for funds, both governmental and private, to be funneled through the nonprofit corporation to be known as Marin City Council Inc.

Listed among the immediate programs were community controlled law enforcement, home improvement service, construction of an enclosed swimming pool, a beautification program, improved programs for the Manzanita Neighborhood Center, jitney bus service, a local industrial recruitment center, black culture courses, improved health service and improved community communication.

The council bypassed assigning priorities to immediate programs with council member Daniel Hayden Sr. commenting, "I think priorities will be determined

Council Votes To Transfer Project 17

The Mill Valley City Council met this morning and unanimously agreed to transfer its Project 17 acreage to the Mill Valley School District, thus clearing the way for the district's middle school plans.

The council attached five conditions to the transfer. All of them are agreeable to the school district, according to school board member William L. Clark.

The conditions are:

The present community center building will not be moved until next spring.

Existing uses of the six acres north of a creek on the property cannot be changed without city approval until the district needs the area for school development.

The entire area will revert to the city if the district cannot build the school for any reason, such as passage of the Watson amendment limiting property taxes.

The district will pay $1,000 toward an access road and parking lot improvements around the community center.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said the deed transfer will be drawn up today for the signature of Mayor Dean N. Meyer. The school board can formally approve it Monday night, and the document will probably be transferred Tuesday.

The city will get the district's 11-acre Enchanted Knolls site in exchange for the Project 17 acreage.

Balmer said he and School Supt. James A. Collins had agreed that priority development at the school should in-

Deputies Vote Funds To Aid Travis' Case

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos's dismissal of popular deputy Weldon C. Travis will be fought through funds allocated by the Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association.

Association members last night voted to give Travis, their president until he was fired last Friday, their entire bankroll to pay legal fees and the costs of being out of work.

The action by the deputy sheriffs last night puts at Travis' disposal $3,700. Part of that money was to be given today to David R. Baty, attorney for the deputy, as a retainer.

In a resolution unanimously approved by the 30 per cent of the association members present, the deputies told Travis they support him 100 per cent and offer as much of their money as he needs.

Former Principal Edwin Wells Dies

Edwin A. Wells Sr., retired principal of San Rafael High School, died yesterday at Marin General Hospital after apparently suffering a heart attack earlier in San Francisco. He was 79.

EDWIN A. WELLS SR.
Retired educator

Wells' wife, Mildred, said she and her husband and a group from Sunny Hills were on a visit to the Youth Guidance Center in San Francisco when he complained of chest pains.

Wells was taken to Park Emergency Hospital and later transferred to Marin General, where he died at 6:30 p.m.

Wells, an educator for 33 years, was principal at San Rafael High School from 1935 until 1956. Before coming to San Rafael, he served as vice principal and principal of schools in Elk Grove, Sacramento County, and Paso Robles, San Luis Obispo County. He was a 1914 graduate of Stanford University.

Wells was a member of the Main County Juvenile Justice Commission, past president of the San Rafael Rotary Club, ex-foreman of the Marin Grand Jury, and belonged to the Commonwealth Club, Stanford Club of Marin and Sons in Retirement, which he also served as membership chairman.

A volunteer worker with the Girl Scouts of America, he was responsible for development of the Treasure Mountain Girl Scout Camp near Sierraville, Sierra County.

Born in San Diego, Wells had lived in Marin since 1935. He and his wife lived at 60 West Seaview Avenue, San Rafael.

Also surviving are two sons, Edwin A. of Portola Valley and Donn J. of Seattle, Wash., and 10 grandchildren.

There will be no funeral.

Memorial gifts are preferred to Sunny Hills or the Fred Aubert Memorial Craft Room at Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Rainy Weekend Likely In Marin

Autumn's first rain began to fall today in Marin County and Southern Sonoma as a gentle storm moved into Northern California.

Drizzles were reported throughout the county by noon.

The weatherman said that the chances of rainfall are 80 per cent tomorrow and that winds of 15 to 30 miles per hour are expected.

The snow level was expected to drop to 5,000 feet tomorrow in the Mount Shasta-Siskiyou area and to 6,000 to 8,000 feet in the Sierra Nevadas.

Three Years Probation For Gregory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Marin County theological student today was sentenced to three years probation at work of national importance for refusing military induction.

Henry Duval Gregory IV, a 25-year-old student at San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo, could have received a maximum five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine.

Before sentence was imposed U.S. Dist. Judge Stanley A. Weigle refused to listen to any suggestion from government prosecutor Paul Sloan on the terms of Gregory's punishment.

The type of work he will be assigned will be determined by federal probation officers, but appeal procedures are expected to delay this decision for possibly a year.

Gregory, married and the father of an 8-month-old son, refused to seek deferment as a clergy student because he said such action for him would have been an act of hypocrisy.

Speaking in court before the sentencing, Gregory said: "I have sympathy for all of us who cannot immediately put in

President Gets Gun Control Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The President's commission on violence heard testimony this week that fearful Americans are stockpiling guns and ammunition at a frightening rate.

Today President Johnson had on his desk for signature legislation banning interstate mail order sales of all guns and ammunition and limiting over-the-counter sales to qualified purchasers.

It was just over six months ago Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot to death in Memphis, and just over four months ago Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was gunned down in a hotel in Los Angeles.

The public outcry for stringent gun control legislation in the wake of the shocking assassinations was enormous.

But despite pleadings by Johnson and the hundreds of sacks of mail that deluged congress from across the nation, lawmakers rejected stiffer proposals to add registration of guns and licensing of their owners.

The final bill passed 160-129 by the House yesterday, though, was still the strongest antigun legislation ever enacted.

Approved was a compromise that for the most part contained the more stringent features of a different version passed earlier by the House and Senate.

And Lyndon Johnson, though disappointed, will certainly sign it.

The measure expands limited hand gun controls enacted last summer to cover, for the first time, rifles, shotguns and ammunition. The combined package takes effect Dec. 16, representing the first new gun controls since curbs were placed on "gangster" weapons three decades ago.

Under the new bill coupled with the hand gun law, an over-the-counter gun buyer will have to be a resident of the state or —if laws of both states permit— of a neighboring state.

He also will have to be at least 21 to buy handguns, and 18 to buy long guns, and will have to have a record clear of felony convictions, drug addicition or findings of mental incompetence.

Dealers will have to keep records of all sales.

Within his state or an adjoining state, a buyer may order a gun or ammunition by mail. But he will have to file an affidavit of his eligibility and wait seven days for it to be checked.

Ammunition sales generally will be restricted to types fitting guns which the purchaser is eligible to buy.

The bill will not make it impossible for a buyer to get a firearm from an out-of-state specialty store or other source, but it will require him to obtain the weapon through his local dealer.

Pro-Czechs Get Stiff Sentences

MOSCOW (UPI)—A guarded court today convicted five Russians of defaming the Soviet Union by demonstrating in Red Square against the invasion of Czechoslovakia. They sentenced them to banishment from Moscow or terms in labor camps.

About 100 uniformed police surrounded the courthouse where Dr. Pavel Litvinov, 28-year-old grandson of the late Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov, and four others were convicted and sentenced after a three-day trial.

Litvinvov was sentenced to five years banishment from Moscow. Mrs. Larissa Daniel, wife of imprisoned dissident writer Yuli Daniel, was sent into "internal exile" for four years. Literary critic Konstantin Babitsky got three years banishment.

Laborer Vladimir Dremliuga, 27, who had joined the waving banners reading "Shame on the Invaders," was given three years in a labor camp. The court sentenced ex-student Vadim Delone, 21, to two years and 10 months in a labor camp. disturbing the peace.

CHARLES STEEN

Uranium King Faces Bankruptcy

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Charles Steen, whose uranium bonanza in a desolate Utah mountain range made him a millionaire, is now fighting creditors, taxmen and a bankruptcy ruling.

His vast mining, oil and land holdings were threatened today by debts estimated at $6 million.

Steen listed more than 130 creditors—including the Internal Revenue Service — when he asked the federal bankruptcy referee in May for time to liquidate some of his assets listed as $11,738,676 to pay the debts.

"It appeared to the court that I must adjudicate Mr. Steen bankrupt," referee Bert Goldwater said yesterday.

Goldwater said a majority of Steen's creditors had rejected the payment plan worked out by Steen including the IRS, which says Steen owes $1.8 million in individual income taxes.

Steen's assets — including oil and gas wells in Texas, Utah and Wyoming, mines in Colorado and his $1-million home and an Arabian horse ranch in Washoe Valley—were placed in the court's control. Goldwater said Steen has 10 days to appeal the ruling and ordered him to appear Oct. 17.

In 1952, just before he struck it rich, Steen was an oil geologist living on beans, tea and potatoes in a tar-paper shack with his wife and four sons south of Moab, Utah.

In 1962, as a Utah state senator, Steen told a fellow legislator: "I'm a multimillionaire."

Guards For Jackie

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to provide Mrs. John F. Kennedy with Secret Service protection until her death or she remarries.

The action, subject to House approval, would extend the same protection to her children until they reach the age of 16.

Existing law calls for Secret Service protection for the widow of a president for four years after he dies in office. The four years expired in Mrs. Kennedy's case November 1967. Protection since then has been on a year to year basis.

Korean Killings

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A suspected North Korean agent was shot and killed by crewmen of a patrol boat of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division yesterday as he tried to swim across the Imjin River into South Korea on the western front, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The man's body vanished in the water but the Americn crewmen found a waterproof bag containing a Soviet-made pistol, North Korean foodstuffs and other supplies normally carried by infiltrators, the spokesman said.

Negro Burial Barred

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A Negro baby was refused burial in the St. Croix cemetery near Windsor, N.S., because of a bylaw passed in 1907, the president of the Nova Scotia Association for the Advancement of Colored People, H. A. J. Wedderburn, said yesterday.

The NSAACP is demanding that responsible persons apologize to the parents of the child for the refusal about a month ago, that the bylaw be rescinded and that the provincial government take steps to make such discriminatory bylaws illegal.

The 1907 bylaw reads: "Not any Negro or colored person nor any Indian shall be buried in St. Croix cemetery."

French School Bill

PARIS (AP) — The French National Assembly approved today an education reform program which grew out of last spring's student disturbances.

The vote was 441-0, with 39 abstentions. Most of the abstentions were by the Communists who said parts of the reform bill were reactionary.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, basically provides for decentralization of the French higher education system, giving more control of individual schools to teachers and students. The bill also attempts to modernize instruction to adapt students to modern-day job demands.

More than 500 signatures were obtained the first day. The goal is 2,000 signatures.

Helicopter-Riding GIs Intercept 400-Man Red Unit Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Helicopter-riding U.S. infantrymen intercepted a 400-man Communist battalion yesterday northwest of Saigon and reported killing 26 guerrillas in fighting that extended into today.

American headquarters said U.S. losses were "light" while Red casualties should rise sharply in the second major battle this week near Trang Bang, 25 miles northwest of the capital.

The fighting erupted on the heels of massive U.S. B52 bomb strikes northwest of Saigon and the discovery of enough hidden Communist arms around the city to supply a 150-man Viet Cong attack.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said the alert had been cut back by 50 per cent. They did not explain exactly what it meant.

Thieu told a nationwide television audience yesterday that there had been no attempt to overthrow his government and no arrests made by antigovernment platters — cilivilians or military.

Meanwhile hundreds of American infantrymen leaped out of their helicopters into the midst of Communist soldiers on the move near Trang Bang. Many of the same U.S. soldiers killed 147 Reds on the same battlefield three days ago.

Spokesmen said the Americans were tipped to the Communists' move by "reconnaissance reports." It was the biggest action reported in the day's war communiques.

Battlefield reports said the U.S. infantrymen tried to surround the Communists but that some of the Reds had slipped through the trap. It was believed the guerrillas were from the 101st North Vietnamese Army Regiment, the same unit caught earlier near Trang Bang.

U.S. military headquarters said North Vietnamese soldiers shelled the Green Beret outpost at Thuong Duc Wednesday with 80 rounds and followed up with ground probes that were turned back. Seventeen Reds were reported killed and nine American Special Forces wounded.

The B52 raids northwest of Saigon were the second heavy strikes there in two days. Four flights of America's biggest bombers dumped 500-and 750-pound bombs onto infiltration routes 31 and 60 miles from the city, military spokesmen said.

Marin City Buys Self-Destiny Plan

The programs will be listed in an application for funds from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. The council plans to submit its application by Nov. 2.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., council chairman, said, "there should be some medical facility in the community," and "we will do the utmost to see facilities upcoming."

Recalling injuries in a recent car crash in the Marin City area, Banks also said he was concerned "about getting the ambulance, fire department and California Highway Patrol on the scene and the injured to the hospital."

One resident compained about men gambling in front of the store and using the area for a "rest room with no decency whatsoever," and urged some action to halt this.

He also said the council shouldn't overlook that people getting off the bus in Marin City at night are robbed, and he complained about drag racers in the streets. "You should give police authority," he said.

Banks said the proposed community law enforcement program would be designed to meet these problems. "We're going to develop a community to be proud of," he said.

One proposal is to give a police program which would involve residents, who could work in teams with sheriff's deputies and receive pay and training.

Another suggestion is to develop an internship and police aide program whereby high school seniors would get training in law enforcement.

The long range program would cover a wide range of conditions, physical, social, cultural and economic, according to the council.

Listed for possible development under the long range program were a shopping complex, bank, medium industry, housing, College of Marin campus, restaurant, entertainment, specialty shop building, restaurant, black arts, services and clothing shops.

Council member Ronald Foster said that Development Corporation of Marin City is planning to have a groundbreaking in December for a grocery store, medical facility and cleaners.

Banks noted that the council wants to coordinate and cooperate with any efforts within the community so there is united effort for development.

Emory C. Curtis, director of PACT's technical and planning staff, said the council will have to get the Marin County Board of Supervisors to delegate some functions to it, possibly planning.

He said as a nonprofit organization the council could help anyone in the development of Marin City and would have a wide latitude.

The corporation can act as a receiver and dispenser not only of governmental funds, but also of contributions from foundations or residents of Marin who want to help in the development of Marin City.

The council's contract with PACT to undertake studies will be at no cost to the community, but PACT's fees will be included in the grant. PACT representatives said they would have an estimate of their bill when the grant application comes before the council Oct. 24.

On planning, Banks noted that the Marin County Planning Department would be willing to offer its advice if invited. On a proposal by the Marin Council for Civic Affairs to have the Marin City Community Services District board expanded, said "I don't object to the MCCA but do object when they attempt to say what happens in Marin City with disregard to citizens of Marin City."

The council scheduled a special session at 7 p.m. Monday to complete corporation bylaws. The corporation will have 13 directors elected by residents of Marin City for one year, but the present council will serve as directors until their current terms end.

The motions to approve the immediate and long range programs and to adopt the articles of incorporation were made by Hayden.

Council member Ephorn Freeman Jr. was absent.

Although not a condition in the city's resolution, agreement apparently was reached on the multi-purpose building at the middle school. The city has been asking that the building include more extensive gymnasium facilities with a 24-foot ceiling for basketball.

Clark said at least four school board members now agree that they want "a real gymnasium," not the less expensive multipurpose building proposed in architect's plans which would have a 16-foot ceiling.

The reason the council has "dragged its feet," Robinson said, was to "make certain something was on record as to what would be done. . . Now we know what we can expect . . . rather than basing our action on some nebulous hope."

The middle school is to include extensive recreation facilities for joint city and school use.

The council and district agreed last April on the land exchange for the project, but last month the council delayed approving the swap to work out specific points of recreation development.

and future, goes along with our financial support," the association said in a letter to Travis today.

Robert F. Richmond, acting president of the association, said he informed Sheriff Mountanos this morning of the organization's actions.

Baty said Travis' formal appeal of his dismissal was to be filed with the Marin County Personnel Commission today. The deputy will request an open hearing, he said.

The attorney revealed that he and Travis were close yesterday to winning back the deputy's job without going through a formal hearing, "but the whole thing blew sky high."

Mountanos was almost ready to place the deputy back on duty, but changed his mind for some unknown reason, Baty said. The sheriff has declined to discuss the case on the advice of county counsel.

"We will continue our efforts in that direction," he said. "I don't think either side has anything to gain from a further airing of this thing."

The Sausalito Library board will not meet Monday as scheduled because of a lack of quorum, but will meet instead Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Johnson To Senate: Pass Nuclear Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today adoption of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty is important to the security of the nation and declared he will "seriously consider calling the Senate into special session" unless it ratifies the document.

Without ratification, Johnson saw stark omens ahead. He said new nuclear powers might come into being and this could force a dilemma upon the United States:

"Either withdrawing our influence and commitment from areas of the world which are vital to our interests; or

"Having other nations trigger a nuclear conflict which could involve us."

Then with a not too veiled reference to Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Johnson added:

"Those who now argue for postponing ratification of the treaty must assume the grave responsibility for its failure—and for presenting our country with that dilemma."

Under the treaty, nuclear powers would agree not to give away nuclear information and non-nuclear nations would agree not to seek to become producers of atomic weapons.

practice what we would like to see in practice.

"We must live inside a procedure in which we have lost faith and must wait for it to renew itself," he said.

Gregory, a University of Virginia graduate, was called for induction by his Roanoke, Va., draft board after he turned in his draft card during a demonstration outside the San Francisco federal building.

His attorney, Aubrey Grossman, said he would appeal the conviction.

Gregory told a news conference that he and his seminary classmates wanted to affirm their appreciation of Weigel's humanity.

Grossman said San Francisco federal courts have established a standard of three years of probation as a penalty for conscientious refusal to submit to selective service.

"In this respect, San Francisco is an island," he said.

In other areas, prison terms of three to five years are common.

Las Gallinas Creek Job Voted

Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District directors last night approved plans for widening of Las Gallinas Creek and relocating a sewer line, adjacent to Vendola Drive near Mabry Way, Santa Venetia.

The work will be done by the county. Robert Pedroncelli, engineer for the county Department of Public Works, said the cost will be about $30,000, to be paid from funds of an assessment district formed in 1965.

Lelia Sayers, district secretary, said the rest of the meeting last night was routine, such as payment of bills and report on the maintenance of the treatment plant at 300 Smith Ranch Road.

The simulated docking maneuver occurred shortly after 11 a.m. PDT after the astronauts separated Apollo 7 from the second stage, called the S4B, to which they had been attached for two orbits of the globe after their 11:03 a.m. (EDT) blastoff from Cape Kennedy.

Commander Schirra fired small jets to scoot Apollo 7 about 50 feet ahead, then turned around to face the 58-foot-long S4B. He gingerly pulsed his thrusters to jockey his ship to within 4 or 5 feet of the target as both vehicles raced along at 17,500 miles an hour more than 150 miles above the earth.

On an actual moon mission the Apollo craft will separate from the S4B, turn around as Apollo 7 did today, and dock with the Lunar Module stowed atop the stage. The module is the vehicle which two astronauts will ride to the surface of the moon.

Before the separation from the stage, the astronauts were flying a massive spaceship which measured 113 feet, 3 inches long and weighed 69,034 pounds. After separation, the Apollo 7 ship was reduced to 33,389 pounds and a height of 33 feet, 4 inches, still four times heavier than any previous U.S. manned space vehicle and about two tons heavier than Russia's largest.

After conducting the simulated docking, Schirra gave his jets a short burst of power to place Apollo 7 in a slightly different orbit calculated to move the astronauts out about 83 miles in front of the S4B by tomorrow.

Then the pilots will conduct a series of maneuvers intended to bring about a rendezvous of the two vehicles about 2 p.m. PDT tomorrow.

Among those watching the spectacular liftoff of America's first manned flight in nearly two years was Cunningham's wife, Lo Ella. She and their two children, Brian, 8, and Kimberly, 5, watched from a boat floating on a river near Cape Kennedy.

The families of Schirra and Eisele watched on television at their homes near the Manned Spacecraft in Houston, Tex.

The countdown to launch of the marathon flight was near flawless. A brief hold was called at 6:15 before liftoff to permit proper chill down of the second stage rocket engines, but the problem was quickly corrected.

Schirra was qualifying as perhaps the nation's coolest astronaut—at least in terms of heartbeat. Mission Control reported the commander's heart was beating 87 times a minute at liftoff—the lowest by several beats ever recorded at that point.

It reached its high point—100 beats per minute—when the first stage fell away.

Apollo 7 went into an orbit ranging from 140 to 174 miles high—a near perfect orbit. The planned orbit had been from 142 to 176 miles.

The rocket, burning 720 gallons of fuel a second, rose ponderously from the earth, gaining speed gradually until it shattered the sound barrier a mile high.

Schirra observed that the gravity forces thrust on the crew by the accelerating rocket were light—"just great."

Schirra, the 45-year-old veteran of the first two generations of American manned spaceflights, expects to retire from the space piloting business after the flight of Apollo 7. Eisele, 38, and Cunningham, 36, expect to fly again, hopefully to the moon.

Although Apollo 7 is to stay up for 11 days, mission director William Schneider said yesterday there was "a distinct possibility we may have to make a decision to shorten it." He said most mission objectives could be achieved in three days.

Apollo's 7's flight comes nearly 20 months after the first of the moonships to be manned—Apollo 1—was to have been launched. Its pilots, Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee, were killed Jan. 27, 1967, when fire swept their cabin during a launch pad test.

The 16-ton Apollo 7 is a much improved spacecraft. It has been extensively fireproofed, has stronger wiring and plumbing and is equipped with a quick opening hatch for launch pad escapes.

On its return from earth orbit, Apollo 7 will dive back into earth's atmosphere at about 17,500 miles per hour.

If all goes according to plan, the scorched command capsule will be lowered by three orange and white striped parachutes into the Atlantic Ocean Oct. 22. about 690 miles east of the Cape.

The aircraft carrier Essex will be on hand to pick up the crew and its spacecraft.

Suspect In Check Ring Escapes

A bad check artist, believed to be part of a ring passing stolen payroll checks in the Bay Area escaped on foot last night after failing to cash a check at a San Rafael liquor store, San Rafael police reported today.

Identification Officer David L. Vargo said the same man had successfully passed stolen checks in recent weeks in Tiburon and Novato.

The suspect, using the name Raymond Maes and a false address of 120 Linden Lane, San Rafael, passed $79 checks last week at Warden's Liquors in Novato and Sept. 21 at the Corner Market in Tiburon, Vargo said.

Last night, his mistake was in trying to cash a check at 7:40 p.m. at Original Fourth Street Liquors, 701 Fourth Street, San Rafael. The store is a member of the same chain as Warden's Liquors.

Clerk Marin C. Beebe recognized the check as identical to the one passed in Novato, refused to cash it and demanded $79 from the suspect for the Novato check.

Vargo said the checks are part of 300 checks on United Associates Fork Lift Service of San Francisco, stolen in a burglary last month.

The man passing checks here was described as Caucasian, in his late 20s, five feet, nine inches tall, with medium build, black hair and dark complexion.

Budget Copies Are Available

About 650 copies of the 462-page budget were printed by Salin Printing and Advertising Inc. of San Rafael. A separate budget for the Marin County Transit District is also available.

Anyone who wants a copy of the final budget should contact the auditor-controller's office on the second floor of the Civic Center, said Mitchell.

Colonial-Style Pole Wins Nod

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. submitted various designs to the board. The new poles will be installed in connection with undergrounding of utilities.

The board also asked for cost estimates of installing four poles on Broadway between Bank Street and Bolinas Road.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Nov. 7 in the women's club.

VERDICT PROTESTED — Antiwar protestors hold hands and burn what they say are draft cards in front of the federal court building in Baltimore, Md. There the "Catonville nine" were convicted yesterday of destroying draft board records last May 17. (UPI Telephoto)

Nine Found Guilty Of Burning Draft Files

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Seven men and two women, all Roman Catholics, have been convicted of burning draft board records with homemade napalm.

A jury deliberated one hour and 20 minutes yesterday in U.S. District Court, and after the foreman read the guilty verdict to a hushed, crowded courtroom a spectator shouted:

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ordered the courtroom cleared. Spectators moved into the halls, where they began singing, "We Shall Overcome." Outside the building they continued singing and held lighted candles as several dozen helmeted policemen looked on.

The defendants are the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 45, of Baltimore; his brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 47, formerly an instructor at Cornell University; Thomas P. Lewis, 27, a Baltimore artist, David Darst, 26, a Christian Brothers teacher in St. Louis Mo.; John Hogan, 33, a former Maryknoll brother; Thomas Melville, 38, a former Maryknoll priest, and his wife Marjorie, 38, a former nun; George Mische, 31, a peace organizer from Washington, D.C., and Mary Moylan, 32, a nurse.

They were convicted of mutilating and destroying government records, hindering administration of the Selective Service Act and causing injury to government property. The charges stemmed from an incident May 17 at nearby Catonsville, Md.

They had pleaded innocent, and throughout the four-day trial defense attorneys sought to introduce testimony to show that the actions of the defendants were intended as a public protest against the war in Vietnam.

Each defendant could receive a maximum of 18 years in jail and fines of $17,000 on the three counts of the indictment. The judge ordered the cases submitted to a federal probation department for a report before setting a sentencing date. Seven of the nine were freed on bail.

Father Philip Berrigan and Lewis, who are presently serving six-year sentences for pouring blood on draft card records a year ago in Baltimore, were returned to the federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa.

After the judge dismissed the jury the defendants asked for permission to speak. They all said they should not be judged on the acts they committed but on their motives and were trying to call to the attention of the people of the United States what they considered the government's immoral activities in Vietnam.

Judge Thomsen said these were not the issues but added:

"To me as a man, I would be a funny sort of person if I were not moved by your views. I have not attempted to cut your discussion short.

"I frankly say that I am as anxious to terminate the war as the average man, even more, maybe. But people can't take the law into their own hands."

$60,000 Suit Charges Dogbites

A Mill Valley father, who says his two sons were each bitten twice by a neighbor's dog, has asked for $60,000 from that neighbor in a suit filed in Marin Superior Court.

The action was brought yesterday by William R. Kaes of 208 Morningson Avenue on behalf of his sons, William, 14, and Stephen, 12. Named as defendant was Donald E. Scarf of 246 Morningsun Avenue, owner of the German shepherd dog.

The action claims the dog bit William on the arm and foot as he rode his bicycle in the neighborhood. Kaes claims Stephen was bitten in the back and arm as he delivered newspapers. The alleged attacks occurred over the past three years, according to the suit.

The action asks $15,000 for each incident, plus medical and court costs.

Board Clears Up Afro-American Teacher Status

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The state Board of Education has agreed to permit persons with two years of college to teach Afro-American courses in California's high schools.

But it decided, at a meeting here yesterday, that the provisional credentials will be granted only to those with special ytraining in the field and on the condition they promise to complete their education and get regular teaching credentials.

The board also voted to seek legislation that would eliminate distinction between academic and nonacademic teacher training.

This would involve amendment of the 1961 Fisher Bill which prevents persons who did not major in certain academic subjects from taking administrative posts. Under the Fisher Bill, athletic coaches cannot become principals.

In another action, the board voted to increase teacher credential fees for one year by $5 to $20 to make up a $100,000 deficit in administering the credentials system.

Coyotes normally run in family groups.

BART Sells $70 Million More Bonds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The sale of $70 million in general obligations bonds was announced yesterday by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

The bonds were purchased by a syndicate headed by the First National Bank of Chicago and including Wells Fargo Bank.

BART director of finance John Pierce said the latest sale left $142 million of bonds still unsold out of the original $792 million approved by the voters.

Pierce said the bonds sold yesterday went at a slightly higher cost because of the large number of bond offerings in California at the present time. He explained the offerings have increased in anticipation of the possible passage of proposition 9 in the November general election.

Proposition 9 would establish lower debt limitations in all levels of California government, thus restricting bond sales.

In yesterday's sale the syndicate submitted a low bid of 4.701 per cent average interest. Total accrued interest on the 30-year issue will come to $68.064.465, almost the total of the sale itself.

Women Oppose Missile Base

The Sausalito Woman's Club has passed a resolution requesting the Army not to use either Angel Island or a proposed site on Wolfback Ridge for an antimissile missile base.

The club said that Angel Island and Wolfback Ridge should be preserved as natural outdoor areas.

The Army has announced that both sites were being considered in its search for a Bay Area site for its Sentinel missile program, designed as a thin defense against small missiles.

Youth Feels Guilt, Psychiatrist Says

SAN JOSE (UPI) —Leonard Maine, one of two Washington state youths on trial for the slaying of a Ukiah teen-ager and the wounding of a girl, considers himself a dead man with no hope of recovering from his guilt feelings.

Dr. Wilson Van Dusen, chief psychologist at Mendocino State Hospital, made the statement yesterday at the trial of Maine and Thomas E. Braun, co-defendants in the slaying of Timothy Luce and the critical wounding of his girl friend, Susan Bartolomei.

Van Dusen said Maine was the victim of frequent nightmares and vivid dreams involving guilt feelings stemming from a three state crime spree that left two other persons dead.

In earlier testimony, Maine implicated himself and Braun, both 19 and from Ritzville, Wash., in the killing of a Washington housewife and a Portland, Ore., salesman. Maine, however, told the court he did not shoot any of the victims.

Both have pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

In yesterday's testimony, Van Dusen said Maine had an IQ of 84 which was on "the borderline of mental retardation." And the defendant's IQ level tends to drop even lower when he is put in a condition of "stress," he added.

Van Dusen said the defendant was the type of person who is dependent upon others, especially his mother and father, and preferred to be "a follower of people who were good talkers."

Since the shooting, Van Dusen said Maine had not slept well because of the bad dreams he had in which he "hears Braun's gun go off" and "is plagued by his inability to help the girl."

"Maine has been kicking himself for some months for not doing anything to help the girl," the psychologist said. "He feels he should have done something to stop Braun."

"In my opinion, Maine is not psychotic, nor was he at the time of the alleged offense," Van Dusen said.

Class Selection Wins Support Of Stanford Faculty

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University faculty representatives have voice support for colleagues at the University of California Berkeley campus involved in controversy over content of courses.

By a 33-10 vote yesterday the Stanford Academic Senate deplored "any kind of political coercion on faculty members which tends to stifle the expression of unpopular ideas in university curricula."

They also expressed general support for the Berkeley faculty in "efforts to pursue knowledge and to educate students in ways they deem effective."

The group specifically supported actions taken by the Berkeley Academic Senate Oct. 3 when it decided to go ahead with plans to hold a course Social Analysis 139X in which Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver would give 10 lectures.

Oak View Parents To Study Prop. 9

Oak View Parents Association will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at Oak View School in San Rafael Park to discuss Proposition 9. (The Watson Amendment.) President David Linde will preside at the meeting.

Prososition 9, on the Nov. 5 Ballot, would eliminate property taxes as a source of funds for schools, welfare and other "people-related" services, but it does not specify how schools and welfare will be supported.

Want to cash in on California's growth?

Buy a piece of it – land values can appreciate 8 to 16% a year.

This is the state that never stops growing.

We're gaining just under 10,000 people every week, on the average. Or more than the next three states (Texas, New York, Florida) combined.

You may not cheer at the news, but our present 20 million population is supposed to hit 27 million by 1980. And 40 million at century's end.

Somehow all this population will have to live, work, relax, shop and find a place to park on the same 100 million acres that make up California today.

Doubling our population is bound to increase the value of this acreage. Along with the value of anything on the land: a house, an apartment building, a store, cafe or office building.

The way real estate has been performing should be a valid preview of its future in the Golden State. Here's part of its track record:

In Southern California, urban real estate has gained 3 to 5% annually in recent years. Rural land close to the suburbs has gone up faster: 5 to 9%. And land a bit farther out has done still better: 8 to 16%.

California's land value overall increased 60% from 1960 to 1965. Hard to believe? Well, then, consider this. In the same period, the value of many carefully chosen investment land parcels positively soared – up 100 to 300%.

As for houses, you know how their prices have been escalating. Many authorities estimate it's about 5% a year. With no end in sight.

Does all this make you want to cash in on California's growth? Fine – just so you keep your cool, and look before you move.

Buying real estate is like buying stock market securities. Even when the trend is up, it's the informed, selective investor who does best.

There's no guarantee of big profits. Or of profits. You may hear about the man who makes a killing. But the investors who lose do very little talking.

A home, if well located and priced right, is a prime investment. Most families will never do better. But you should plan to live in it 5 to 10 years or more, to offset selling costs and give it a chance to grow.

Buying land as an investment takes some specialized knowledge. The same is true of apartment or store buildings, houses to rent, and other commercial property.

Factors to consider include:

Is there a local oversupply of housing and commercial buildings? Which direction is the population growth moving? Can you invest in a promising area before everybody else does? Are zoning laws about to change? Where are new highways going in? Will they help or hurt the value of available real estate?

These are just starter questions to keep in mind. But they do suggest how right you are to consult well-qualified real estate specialists before you sign on any dotted lines. They can tell you the other questions to ask. And come up with the answers.

You may know a Realtor or broker who has served you well before, and is active in the investment area. Then there are real estate syndicates and investment trusts. These make it possible to diversify your holdings, much as in a mutual stock fund.

Right in your own community, there are many property investment opportunities. California is still the Golden State – more so, perhaps, than ever before. As a Californian, shouldn't you have a real stake in its future?

A Transatlantic Call Links Kiwanis Clubs

By ALAN JONES

Chianti bottles lined the tables, mandolin music filled the air and canelloni lined the stomachs of San Rafael Kiwanis Club members yesterday as they celebrated Columbus Day ahead of time with a transatlantic telephone chat with Milan.

The occasion was the first anniversary of the Milano Centro Kiwanis Club, founded with the aid of eight local Kiwanis members who were in Milan a year ago to assist with charter ceremonies. It was the first time an American club has sponsored a European Kiwanis club, George J. Silvestri said yesterday.

Silvestri, a former president of the San Rafael club, was one of the eight Marinites in Milan and was in charge of yesterday's program.

Through an advance telephone hookup, the Milan connection came through three minutes early as club members here polished off the last of their chicken cacciatore and spumoni ice cream.

Silvestri picked up the red telephone and said "Pronto," which is Italian for hello on the phone.

Not much happened for a couple of minutes but some instersellar electronic sounds, then an operator came on with "Ready with your call to Milan."

After a few greetings in Italian, Fruh and Silvestri switched to English but the telephone circuit faded out and Silvestri had to call the operator again for a new connection.

After three minutes that seemed longer, Fruh's voice came on again. Speaking not with an Italian but with a slight German accent, he thanked the Marin Kiwanis for its help during the year and for the club newsletter sent to Milan, which he said had provided the new club several good ideas.

"We're looking forward to expanding the Milano Centro Kiwanis and doing still more," Fruh said. "We can get some good ideas from you."

Much of his message, though loud enough on the conference broadcast system set up, was muffled and difficult to understand, like an astronaut reporting from the far side of the globe.

He passed on greetings to the eight who had been in Milan, Silvestri, Clarence A. DeLong, William T. Eckhoff, John Hourihan, Joseph E. Saccone, Frank D. George, William Sweet and Mark Aiken.

Silvestri in turn greeted the Milanese Kiwanis, asked after several men the Marin group met last year, and closed with a burst of voluble Italian.

"They're picking up the ball from reading our bulletin and seeing what we do," Silvestri told the Marin club. Such international ties "could do a lot more toward world peace than some of these hippies."

The program must have been a success. Not one of the 50 men present, not even the non-Italian ones, so much as stepped outside to learn the final World Series score. That's Italian power.

Antipornography Tactics Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office has abandoned censorship as a weapon in the war against smut and is training its guns only on dealers who mail pornography to people who complain.

Main goal of this new strategy, says Chief Postal Inspector Harry B. Montague, is to keep advertisements for smut out of the hands of children and young people.

Rafferty Backers

Second Deck Commuter Poll Shelved

Meeting as the district's public relations committee at the toll plaza offices, the five directors unanimously rejected the proposal by Dan E. London of San Francisco. London made the suggestion several months ago, and the district staff today reported the poll would cost up to $15,000.

London said, "The poor public hasn't had a chance to express itself on a second deck." Opposition to a second deck last year "mostly came from organized groups," he said.

The committee agreed, however, to reconsider London's proposal after the 90-day trial of a one-way toll system, to begin Oct. 19.

Also shelved, but permanently, was a proposal by Painters' Union Local 4 that a plaque in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. be placed on the bridge. Director William D. Hadeler of San Francisco objected that approval would set a precedent "for all kinds of plaques out there."

The committee voted 4-1 to reject the proposal, Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco dissenting, "I don't see that it would hurt the bridge at all."

Synanon Buying 12-Story Building In Mid-Oakland

Synanon is buying a $750,000 12-story building in the older part of downtown Oakland and plans to close its San Diego center, according to officials of the foundation which treats drug addicts and alcoholics.

Al Adler, assistant manager of Synanon House in San Diego said yesterday that the center there which has housed as many as 250 persons, will be closed and the residents and staff moved to Oakland where the block square Athens Club is being purchased.

Earlier this year Synanon abandoned plans to buy the Uplands Apartments in Corte Madera after protests by neighbors. The Marshall facility in West Marin has also been changed this year from a large residence treatment center into a research center with fewer residents.

Adler said that Synanon will be "trying to help people with anti-social attitudes, racial problems and victims of poverty as well as those with drug problems" in Oakland.

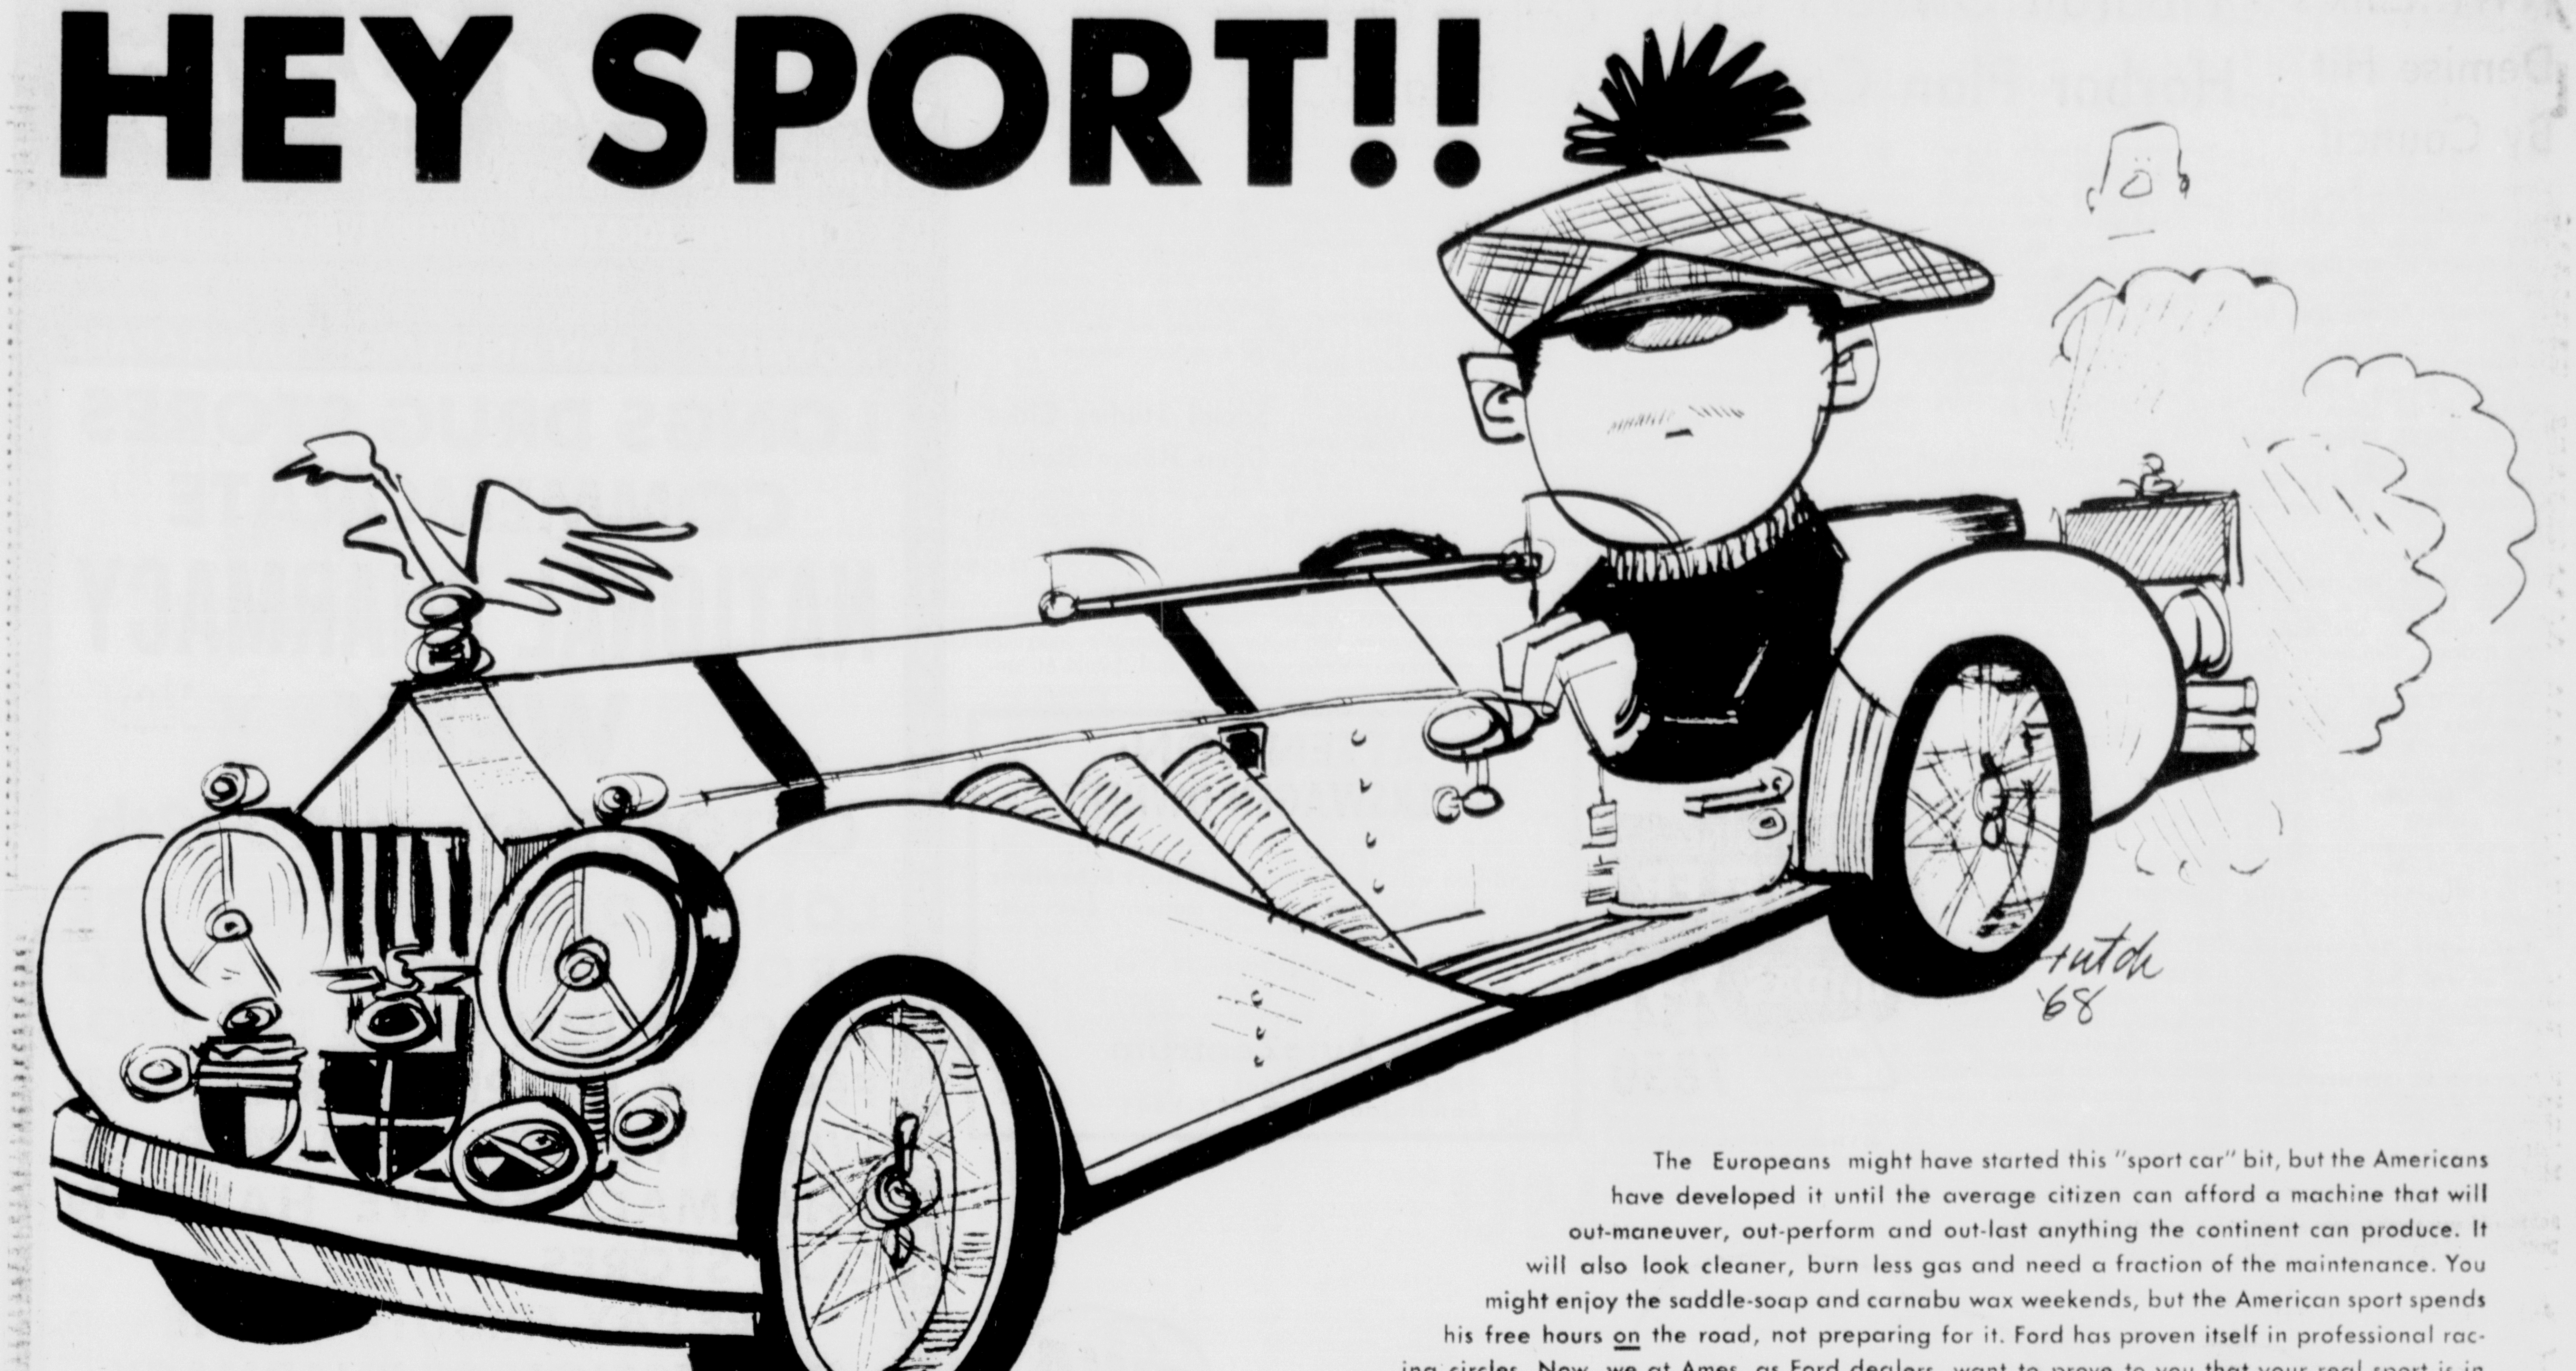
HEY SPORT!!



The Europeans might have started this "sport car" bit, but the Americans have developed it until the average citizen can afford a machine that will out-maneuver, out-perform and out-last anything the continent can produce. It will also look cleaner, burn less gas and need a fraction of the maintenance. You might enjoy the saddle-soap and carnabu wax weekends, but the American sport spends his free hours on the road, not preparing for it. Ford has proven itself in professional racing circles. Now, we at Ames, as Ford dealers, want to prove to you that your real sport is in this magnificent line-up of real machines:

NWP Link's Demise Hit By Council

The Marin City-County Planning Council last night added its voice of opposition to the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's application for abandonment of the Sausalito branch line, the 7.5-mile stretch from south of Greenbrae to Sausalito.

Seymour Kashin, general manager of the Marin County Transit District, reported that cities and shipping interests want the line retained because industries depend on the rail service.

A motion to oppose the abandonment of the line, made by Adelaide P. Wilson of Fairfax, passed with only one dissent, from Rodric L. Robinson of Mill Valley.

Both Marin County supervisors and transit district directors are already on record as opposed to the abandonment.

Hugh Dougherty of Stinson Beach presided last night in the absence of chairman Douglas M. Merrill of Novato.

The City-County Planning Council also:

BALANCED TRANSPORTATION—Approved a joint agreement with the state Division of Highways to conduct phase 1 of the balanced transportation study, with the state contributing $10,000.

TECHNICAL COMMITTEE — Authorized chairman Merrill to appoint members of the balanced transportation technical committee.

Tiburon Owners Urge Harbor Plan Caution

The Tiburon Property Owners Association board unanimously agreed last night to request all city commissions and the city council to study the Tiburon harbor and lagoon plan thoroughly before any plan for the city is adopted.

The harbor plan was prepared by Backen, Arrigoni and Ross, a San Francisco architectural firm.

According to association president Gerry E. Coles the plan calls for dredging a portion of the railroad property and creating a boat harbor, two town squares, an open water concept, underground parking lots in the commercial area, and a downtown that would be pedestrian-oriented.

The Tiburon City Council has set a public hearing on the Gatter downtown plan, approved by the planning commission, for Thursday.

The plan was prepared by designer Charles Warren Callister and modified by planning consultant George Gatter.

Architect and planner Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, candidate for Marin County supervisor from the Third District, spoke on planning and advocated the harbor plan and an open water concept, Coles said.

The board unsnimously voted to ask the city council to oppose aggressively a missile site in Southern Marin.

It also voted to request the city council to see if something can be done about the intensity of the street lights which interfere with night views.

More Than 100 Attend Meeting

A typographical error in yesterday's Independent - Journal made it appear that "more than 10 persons" attended Wednesday's meeting of the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee.

Actually, more than 100 persons attended the meeting at which state Division of Highway officials and others spoke on the future of Tiburon and particularly of the far-in-the-future expansion of Tiburon Boulevard to a four-lane highway.

Operational College Costs Are Related

An organizational meeting of a citizens' committee to review Marin Junior College District finances and planning last night heard a brief history of state junior colleges and their growing operational costs.

The 13 attending members of the 15-member group named Rex T. Silvernale of San Rafael committee chairman.

They also heard Theodore C. Wellman, district board president, note that although junior colleges have moved into the higher education field, they still must be financed 65 per cent by local property taxes.

Dr. William K. Ramstad, last year's college president who has resigned under pressure but is serving as executive secretary for the committee, discussed operation costs.

Peter Forni, a College of Marin student, has been named by the Student Executive Council to be its liaison member on the committee, Wellman said. He said the next meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Bank of Marin in San Rafael to study the district's capital outlay program including the controversial campus proposed in Novato and construction at the Kentfield campus.

Social Studies Class Open House Slated

The social studies department at Sir Francis Drake High School, San Anselmo, will have an open house at 8 p.m. Oct. 30 in Room 219 at the school.

There will be a discussion of the department's curriculum and Principal Harold Allison.

Richardson Bay High-Rise Fill Request Postponed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Bay Conservation and Development Commission's staff has postponed indefinitely Sausalito Associates' application to fill almost 17 acres in Richardson Bay for a $25 million high-rise project.

The postponement was requested this week by the developers' attorney, Albert Bianchi of San Rafael, a BCDC spokesman reported. Questions raised by commissioners Oct. 3 when they heard the application prompted the developers to seek the postponement so they can prepare answers to the questions, the spokesman said.

The commissioners wanted to know how the project related to other proposed development in Richardson Bay, how much mud will have to be disposed of when Saucelito Canal is dredged, and how objections by an adjacent property owner affect the project.

The commission was to vote on the application Oct. 18, but BCDC observers — and the developers — felt there was little chance of its getting the necessary 13 votes for approval.

The postponement also will mean that the application for a fill permit may have a chance to be heard along with a separate request due from the Marin County Board of Supervisors to dredge Saucelito Canal and dispose of the spoils.

Coordination Of Manpower Services Hit

There are 21 agencies involved in manpower services, training and job placement for unemployed, but overall coordination is unsatisfactory, Marin Human Rights commissioners decided last night.

On a motion by Rev. Francis Geddes, commissioners passed a resolution asking the Marin County Board of Supervisors to get the 21 agencies to coordinate manpower services.

Mrs. Bella Aaron presided last night in the absence of James Quiett, chairman.

The Marin County Human Rights Commission also:

BUS TRANSPORT — Decided to help in any way possible to have bus transportation between Marin City and Tamalpais High School continued beyond Dec. 6. Tamalpais Union High School District trustees have announced that funds for the project will run out Dec. 6.

GRIEVANCES — Asked Austin J. Thompson, executive director, to submit a package of all grievances, such as alleged discrimination in housing or employment, at next month's meeting on Nov. 14 so that the workload can be divided up among the various commissioners. Thompson said he has received more than 25 grievances, mostly on housing.

Cyclist, 11, Hurt In San Anselmo

An 11-year-old bicyclist, Jay Todd Sweeney, suffered abdominal bruises yesterday when struck by a car on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Spaulding Street, San Anselmo police reported.

The youth, son of Edwin P. Sweeney of 115 Oak Springs Drive, San Anselmo, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

San Anselmo police said Philip L. Stagg, 24, of 23 Forrest Terrace, Fairfax, told them he had just picked up a hitchhiker and was driving slowly, moving west on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, when the youth crossed northward on his bicycle into Stagg's path.

Officers said the youth was not crossing in an authorized zone and no citation was issued to Stagg. Stagg was uninjured.

Special Guest

Betty Furness, special assistant to President Johnson for consumer affairs, will attend a fund raising cocktail party and old-fashioned buffet for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey at the home of John L. Novak at 50 Rica Vista, Novato, at 7 p.m. Thursday, according to Mrs. William Carpenter and Mrs. James Lenhart, co-chairmen of the Marin County Women for Humphrey Committee.

Youth's Arm Is Broken In Fall

A 12-year-old San Francisco boy suffered a broken arm and injured his back when he fell down a slope at Boot Jack Camp, Mount Tamalpais, yesterday, sheriff's officers said.

Jorge Duarte, traveling by bus with a tour, was transferred from Marin General to Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco after treatment, deputies said.

Witnesses told officers the boy started walking down a slope, then ran and finally fell and rolled down the hill until he hit a tree.

50 San Anselmans Attend Save-The-Hub Conclave

More than 50 San Anselmans turned out last night for the first meeting of a committee planning to pull the city's downtown section by its bootstraps out of financial stagnation.

City Councilman James F. Reed, who is chairman of the committee forming the San Anselmo Business and Economic Redevelopment Corp., was enthusiastic about the turnout last night.

"We feel now we have sufficient interest to proceed," he said.

The corporation when formed would attempt to revitalize the downtown area by obtaining federal Small Business Administration loans for individual merchants. Also planned is acquisition of property from indifferent and absentee owners by the corporation which would refurbish it and then lease or sell it.

The corporation can serve as a catalyst to merchants, showing them it is good business to upgrade property, John F. West, chairman of the city's planning commission, said last night.

Another member of the committee, Mrs. Martin Stuart, said pride in the community and faith in the downtown area should be sufficient motives for seeking success in the venture.

Reed said the 13-member committee will meet again soon to discuss further steps necessary to form the corporation.

Call For Purchase Of Tidelands Made Again

Mary Summers, Marin conservationist and former county planning director, has issued a call for Marin conservationists to buy Richardson Bay tidelands to save the area from fill and development.

Speaking before the Mill Valley unit of the Marin Conservation League Wednesday night, Mrs. Summers told conservationists that this might be their "last chance" to save Richardson Bay and keep an open gateway to Marin County, unit member Clifford Hanssen reported.

Mrs. Summers' statement came after a presentation by Thomas Nowell on his proposed convention center and fill development for the bay tidelands just north of Kappas Yacht Harbor. The Nowell plan has been endorsed by the Marin County Board of Supervisors and submitted to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission for approval.

Mrs. Summers repeated objections she raised at the last BCDC meeting and said the tidelands are is the "wrong place for this development."

In a related discussion on Richardson Bay development, Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker said he is opposed to filling the bay but has been directed by the supervisors to see how much fill the tidelands property owners can absorb rather than how little they would be satisfied with, Hanssen said.

Zucker said the fill problem is related to the dilemma the Saucelito Canal assessment district faces in disposing of its dredging spoils. The assessment district wants to dredge a channel in Richardson Bay to open up the area for small craft boating.

Joseph Bodovitz, BCDC executive director, asked conservationists to ask themselves how much it is worth to have a boat channel into Mill Valley, Hanssen said.

If the channel is dredged it may mean much of the tidelands near Waldo Point will be filled while if it is not dredged, development of the area will be at a standstill, Bodovitz told the group of more than 50 persons.

He said the answer may be to wait until less expensive methods of barging spoils to sea have been developed and noted that the Army Corps of Engineers have barged fill material out to sea in projects in East Coast harbors.

Francis L. Newton, representing the assessment district, agreed with Bodovitz, according to Hanssen, in saying that disposal of the spoils by filling the Bay "is not the answer."

Unit members agreed to meet again at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Mill Valley Library to discuss what action conservationists can take to save Richardson Bay, Hanssen said.

'Scandals' Producer George White Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — George White, one-time theatrical producer whose "Scandals" were leading Broadway shows, died yesterday in Mount Sinai Hospital. He was 74.

A spokesman said White died of leukemia after a month in the hospital.

A niece survives.

White produced about two dozen successful Broadway musicals. His "Scandals" glorified many an up-and-coming young showgirl.

He produced, directed and appeared in the films "George White's Scandals of 1934," and "George White's Scandals of 1935" for 20th Century-Fox.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

GEORGE WHITE
'Tease a maiden aunt'

White once said he set no standards for the girls he chose for his reviews: "They're all pretty—blondes, brunettes and redheads." But his girls often had an extra something that carried them to stardom.

Helen Morgan sang in her first and last show for George White.

Alice Faye debuted in the scandals, as did Eleanor Powell, Ann Miller, Dolores Costello, Ethel Merman and Kate Smith. Rudy Vallee was one of the Scandal's early stars.

Once White was asked how he chose the name for his reviews. Wryly, he said he had done it "to tease a maiden aunt." In the 1920s, George White's Scandals, with their scantily clad girls, were considered risque.

Born in Toronto, Ont., White moved to New York a a youngster and tried to be an actor. He was also a dance director before he hit on the idea of the scandals and found success as a producer.

In the 1930s he went to Hollywood, complaining that the movies were stealing all his Broadway starlets. He transferred his Scandals into a movie hit for which he produced, directed and arranged dance ensembles.

Soviets To Withdraw All But 23,500 Prague Troops

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has agreed to withdraw all but about 23,500 of its occupation forces from Czechoslovakia by Oct. 28, diplomatic sources said today.

Oct. 28 is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Czechoslovak Republic which was invaded by armies of five Warsaw Pact powers the night of Aug. 21-22.

The diplomatic sources said the occupying forces are estimated at 235,000 men and that 90 per cent would be withdrawn before the Czechoslovak holiday, leaving about 23,500 indefinitely.

The 23,500 will have to remain until the Russians are satisfied that conditions in Czechoslovakia are "normalized" and the country has only one "guiding force"—the Communist Party.

The presence of the small force would be legalized by a treaty which Premier Oldrich Cernik is to sign shortly.

If the reports of the agreement are true in detail, both the size of the original invading forces and those to remain in Czechoslovakia appear to have been greatly exaggerated in the West where the size of the occupation force was estimated as high as 600,000.

As consideration for the withdrawal Dubcek pledged to "take every measure to ensure the fulfillment of the Moscow agreement." The document concluded Aug. 26 and reaffirmed Oct. 4 provided for measures to tighten Communist Party control of the political life in Czechoslovakia and particularly "to take the necessary measures to place all the media of mass information at the service of Socialism."

Although the basic lines of the Dubcek administration are to be continued and there is to be no return to the pre-January regime of Stalinist Antonin Novotny, many of the reformist measures werek clearly to be halted.

Novatan Fair From Collision Of Five Autos

A 52-year-old Novato man was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion and neck sprain suffered last evening in a five-car collision on Highway 101 near the Lucas Valley overpass.

The victim, Marvin Dahlquist of 1005 Calle Empinado, was the driver of the third of the five cars, the California Highway Patrol reported. The accident happened at 7:15 p.m. in the northbound lanes.

The other drivers were Lester Olsen, 49, of 31 Juanita Court, Novato; Myron Banfield, 57, of 543 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo; Giacomo Gallia, 72, of Healdsburg, and Eugene Canata, 19, of 11 Jefferson Avenue, Santa Venetia, the highway patrol said.

Air Force Pays Victim's Family

LOS ANGELE S(AP) — A $250,000 award by the Air Force to the family of a man killed when his private plane and a jet trainer collided near Phoenix, Ariz., has been approved by Superior Court Commissioner Florence M. South.

Lloyd W. Crabtree, 43, a federal aviation control officer, and his three passengers were killed May 30, 1967. The pilot and copilot of the Air Force plane landed safely.

The settlement went to Jacqulyn M. Crabtree, 42, of Manhattan Beach (Los Angeles County) and her three children Mark, 19, John 14, and Cheryl, 9.

Elected To Post On National Panel

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mrs. Donald P. Krotz of Orinda, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the National Association of State Boards of Education.

At its meeting yesterday, the association urged states to set up procedures for keeping children in school and personnel on the job during negotiations prompted by teacher disputes.

The 200 delegates also called for a cabinet level Department of Education to handle all federally funded education programs and setting of policies to recognize the first-year teachers' special problems and needs.

Students At NYU Protesting Negro Instructor's Ouster

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 100 students at New York University, protesting the dismissal of a Negro educator who called Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon "racist bastards," occupied two campus buildings from dawn to noontime today.

The students marched voluntarily out of the building shortly before noon, holding their hands high in V-for-victory signs, chanting that they had won their fight with the university.

Earlier, Dr. Lewis Hyde, provost of the 42,000-student school, had summoned New York City police to the edge of the Bronx campus, saying he would take "whatever steps necessary" to clear the buildings.

The demonstrators said that Hatchett had been named dean of black students, but a university spokesman said he had not been rehired.

Several hundred other students gathered in front of the library building.

The seizure was reminiscent of the campus disorders at Columbia University last spring, when student activists and revolutionaries crippled that Ivy League school after occupying five campus buildings.

Entrances to the two NYU buildings were barricaded. A group, was spearheading the library was described by students as mostly white, while a group in Gould Student Center was described as predominantly Negro.

Hester said the principal reason Hatchett, who is 37, was being dismissed was because he "has proved to be increasingly ineffective in performing his duties because of the incompatibility of many of his actions and public statements with the requirements of his position in the university."

Hatchett said after his dismissal that University Senate proceedings were "a sham which violated every principle of academic freedom and freedom of speech.

Councilman's Wife Convicted

SANTA ANA (AP)—The wife of a Costa Mesa city councilman was convicted yesterday of second-degree murder in the knife slaying of a neighbor.

Irene Tucker, wife of Councilman George Tucker, was found guilty by Superior Court Judge Ronald Crookshank who set Oct. 30 for sentencing.

Mrs. Tucker, 37, had been charged with the death last June 28 of Harriet Westphal, 68, outside her Costa Mesa (Orange County) home.

Three court-appointed psychiatrists testified that Mrs. Tucker was mentally ill but "not to such a degree that she is not responsible for her acts," they agreed.

Judge Crookshank said Mrs. Tucker would be sent to prison but would first undergo mental treatment.

Pool Hours Cut

The Petaluma municipal pool on Washington Street, will be open weekends only after this week, Richard W. Shollenberger, director of parks and recreation announced yesterday. Hours will be noon to 6 p.m. The pool will be closed for the winter on Nov. 3.

Differences On AntiWar March Leaves

Hamilton Air Force Base officials said today they are making no special assignments to keep airmen from participating in an antiwar march tomorrow in San Francisco.

One of the reservists who plans to join the peace march, slated to start at 11 a.m. at the Golden Gate Park panhandle and proceed to San Francisco's Civic Center, said yesterday, that this is not true.

Airman 1/C Michael Locks, 25, told a Los Angeles press conference that officers at Hamilton "are now trying to call inspections . . . to prevent the military from coming to the march."

Locks and Airman 1/C John R. Bright, 24, who have been instrumental in planning the march in which servicemen will appear in uniform to protest the Vietnam War, were in Los Angeles for news interviews at the invitation of three peace groups.

Maj. Donald Brill of the public information office for the 349th Military Airlift Wing, to which Locks and Bright belong, said, however, that "there is nothing scheduled that would keep the men on the base."

Locks and Bright and other servicemen were turned down yesterday in their request to the federal District Court of Appeals in San Francisco for orders to military commanders in the Bay Area to keep them from holding men on their bases tomorrow.

The court refused to hear the case, according to the airmen's attorney, Norman Leonard of San Francisco. He said that papers for the case have been sent to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas in Washington, D. C., asking him for an injunction.

The planned march has been the center of legal action for weeks, as Locks and Bright as well as Second Lt. Hugh F. Smith of Hamilton Air Force Base claimed they were being transferred to other areas to get them out of the Bay Area before tomorrow.

Locks and Bright, who had been scheduled to go to Utah, have since asked for dismissal from the Air Force and are to remain at Hamilton until their case is decided.

The march will culminate in a rally at 2 p.m. at the Civic Center at which Robert McAfee Brown, Stanford theologian, Lieutenant Smith, and Army Gen. Hugh Hester are scheduled to speak.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Tom Paine' Is Powerful, Electrifying Production

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — "And today red paint is splashed on his statue in a small town in a country which is getting smaller . . . and smaller . . . and smaller." The speaker is Tom Paine, the statue he refers to is his own, and ours is the country.

The line is spoken in the most electrifying piece of theater to hit San Francisco in many a moon — "Tom Paine," by Paul Foster, which had its West Coast premiere last night at the Interplayers.

David Lindeman has staged this production of the play (which is still an off-Broadway hit) with such powerful involvement that the audience leaves the theater emotionally drained.

Foster's play can be classified as "new theater," for want of a better description. It lacks formal plot structure, skips about freely in both time and locale, intermixes Paine's writings with Foster's dialogue and songs by Tom O'Horgan, who directed the New York production.

Paine is not glorified, although the fire of his "Common Sense," "The Rights of Man," and "The Age of Reason" shine throughout the script. Paine himself spends much of his time groveling under abuse, his voice pleading "Give me a drink." At one point he says piteously "Am I a revolutionary or just a refugee?"

In the Luxembourg dungeon, he cracks under fear of the guillotine, a scene done particularly well by Jack Nance, who plays Paine with almost terrifying fervor, and a wealth of variety.

He is haunted by his "reputation," played by Bruce O. Bishop, who goads him through his weak moments. And he is cast aside by the common men for whom his writings plead.

The play is an attack upon the senses, using heavy volume of chorus, direct approaches to the audience, and numerous startling visual effects in an effort to achieve total communication.

Michael Burns is the designer of the straw-cluttered set, which depends more on props than on sets. Particularly effective are the gravy ladle rocking boat, and the stormy waves manufactured by company members undulating beneath a huge blue drapery.

Lindeman weaves the choreography of Karin Maufres and O'Horgan's music under the direction of Don Weiss into patterns of infinite variety. His actors play with a driving intensity seldom seen in either professional or non-pro companies. Since many of the cast members were part of Lindeman's highly commendable "Three Penny Opera" at the beginning of this year, here is promise of a skilled repertory unit in the making.

Fine ensemble makes it difficult to single out actors, but a few deserve special mention in addition to Nance, whose performance is outstanding. Jefferson M. Bailey, seen in numerous roles, does a gem of a Louis XVI. He and Raymond Walsh as George III are show-stoppers in their "gluttony" scene, gobbling huge quantities of gourmet food as their starving subjects scream for bread. Eron Tabor is excellent as the Majordomo, a running narrator, and V. Phipps-Wilson tops the distaff side. Brantley Kearns with a huge nose-mask and an LBJ accent is hysterical in one of his many fine characterizations.

Costumes by Regan Kirby vary from beggars' rags to elaborate wigs and crowns, and are always in harmony, while Jim Dickson's lighting seems just right — even in the scene in which most of the cast is naked except for diaphonous black chiffon.

This is a team effort, and all its components tie together to make rarely exciting theatricality —but to the team captain, Lindeman, must go the kudos for a must-see production. It plays Thursdays and Fridays at 8:30 p.m. and Saturdays at 7:30 and 10:30 p.m., and is scheduled to run through November.

Poverty War Seeks Teachers

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council is seeking volunteer typing and shorthand teachers for a secretarial course to be offered in Marin City.

The EOC office said it has received gifts of typewriters, but still needs teachers for the six-month course for girls who wish to improve their skills.

Classes will be limited to 10 students and will be held twice a week at the Manzanita Center in Marin City from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Anyone interested in teaching a class can call the EOC office in Marin City.

IN EAST AFRICA

A Widescreen Animal Land

Fourth of a series on a return trip to East Africa.

By BARBARA HOSMER

Everything vibrated as the six-seater Cessna roared off the charter air strip and circled Nairobi. The English pilot grinned and his passengers squealed in relief as the small craft righted itself and headed north toward animal country.

Samburu — the very name conjures up the romantic Africa of spear-carrying warriors, giraffe and zebra roaming freely over the landscape, lions at play with their young, deadly crocodiles stretched along riverbanks waiting for prey. This beyond all else that the amazing country has to offer is the widescreen image of Kenya projected to Americans in travelogue, film and television serial. Is it true?

As we watched, the shadow of the plane move across the rich wheat and tea fields which sprawl over the green hillsides and stream-filled valleys of the Kenya Highlands. We could see large European-owned farms giving way to the patchwork fields of the African shambas, their thatched-roof rondavels clustered along the ridges. The story of the government's policy to buy out the large farmers and aportion the land to Africans in smaller parcels was graphically spelled out below.

Then the winged shadow rippled and was caught by the dry folds of a mountain range. Hot currents reached up and bobbled the little craft and lap straps. Ahead stretched the arid bush country of the Samburu tribesmen.

Dipping beyond the mountains, now north of Mt. Kenya, the plane swooped over a line of trees marking a river and made for the windsock and strip of cleared bushland. Buzzing the area once to clear it of wild game, the pilot deftly settled the craft to earth, and we waited inside for the dust to clear.

After hellos from two men in a waiting land rover, we transferred bags from plane to car, jumped in, and bounced over the few miles of dirt track to Samburu Game Lodge.

LIKE ALICE THROUGH the looking glass we suddenly found ourselves in a widescreen land quite the reverse of the lush green coast and fog-shrouded suburbs of Nairobi. The desert air held no moisture and little puffs of dust errupted from every footstep. A faultless blue sky reached across to mountains on every side, interrupted only by spectacular clouds piled above the peaks and an occasional bird.

Following the African along the riverbank, we inspected the cabin as he settled the luggage — plank walls, concrete flooring and lofty thatched roof, mosquito netting tied up to be spread at dusk, roomy bath area.

Vervet monkeys played across the lodge roof as we rejoined the others later for tea and orange drinks on the veranda. All seemed placid as the river moved by just below, then slowly on the far bank the eye picked out muted brown flanks of a waterbuck from the shadows of the trees, then two, three. And upstream gray backs of elephants could be made out as they cropped the deep grass and bushes some 200 yards off.

"The river is so high this year after later rains than usual the banks are steeper for the animals to reach the water," we were told. And the little mid-river islands where crocodiles were usually seen were mostly covered. "Where were they, then?" we wondered apprehensively, thinking of the cabins lying only a short distance from the river and restraning an impulse to lift our feet.

"There," came the reply. In the muddy water a gray log floated. As we watched the log-like object raised itself enough to reveal the crest of its reptilian head and eye-sockets and ducked below the surface again. Later we were to see other three or four foot long gray "logs" lying along the grassy tufts in the shallows and at river's edge — a deadly flotsam.

As we sat peacefully having tea, the monkeys crept down from the trees and moved closer.

"Look out, look out," the African waiters shouted — but a tiny dark paw reached for the metal sugar bowl and a vervet swooped off with it, stopping a few yards down the bank and cramming his face with handfuls of the stuff before anyone could stop it.

"They do that all the time. Don't let them come in here," we were told sternly, as the monkey sat eyeing us warily, sugar crystals spread across his furry face. Two more stolen pots later we, too, became less amused.

THEN WE ARE off landrovering through the bush in search of game, following rutted tire tracks with a firm grip on the car and a mouthful of dust. Fat guinea fowl strut along the way, unhurried before the tires. Off to the sides gerenuk spread their long necks and bound away in herds of five to 10 on dainty hooves, the sun glistening from their deep tan coats. Delicately sculptured heads top the extended necks of this rare antelope seen only in the Samburu country.

Farther along standing majestically between palm and thorn trees with a backdrop of blue-distant mountains, are the reticulated giraffe, distinguished from their cousins in zoos and the Southern plains by rich-brown patches patterned with cream-colored lines. These rare animals, too exist only in certain East African areas such as this.

Off across the river a herd of elephants crashes through the bushes and out into the open. A lone vehicle on the other side has somehow found itself separating the herd, creating a situation that elephants find threatening. Trumpeting and angry wheeling keeps the other car still and us watching breathless, to see if they will flip it over in anger. After several minutes the elephants turn and stride past it, their huge ears flopping as the tusked, multitonned beasts move on. The dust settles again, and the endangered car meekly creeps away.

"He should not get in there between a herd," the ranger with us comments. "Could turn over the car." The object lesson is clear.

THE LAND ROVER creeps on slowly along the riverbank, looking for lion on the shady banks of the late afternoon. And yes, there by the log, a lioness walks in the grass and flops down. We move closer and within about 20 feet spot three more lazing in the sun and shadows by the water. No cubs or males in sight. It's a tranquil time of day for these animals who sleep away most of the sunny hours and hunt at dusk or nighttime.

On to the sunny plains where gazelles and the rare Grevy zebras crop the grass and then skitter away as we come close. The year has been a wet one with late rains and the animals appear sleek and well fed.

The equatorial sun begins to drop, and off to the south the light plays on the mountains rising sharply from the plains one behind the other until the vague peak of Mt. Kenya stands above all the rest.

A fabulous Secretary bird beside the land rover lifts its feet and puts them down carefully in the bushland and suddenly soars aloft, displaying its fine wingspan and black and white markings. The long feathers hang behind the head like writing quills stuck in his hair — a handsome scribe indeed.

Buzzards, eagles, bee-catchers, Superb starlings, barabets, weavers of all kinds wheel and float in the dry air while mongooses burrow and flash across the bushland almost faster than the eye can follow.

THEN BACK TO the lodge to scrub away the dust and gather in the open-air dining room for a five-course meal. Elephants were working clumps of bushes into their mouths across the stream, and the bush bucks cropped short grass among the trees. The vervets came down to play across the porch and when they heard the coffee things set out, to make the grand play for the sugar bowl. The weaver birds continued their flights from ground to tree with dry grass streaming from their beaks, busy nest-building.

You wonder what the following day may bring—a swim in the rock sculptured pool and lazing in the desert sun, a glimpse of cheetahs moving off across the plain after feasting on a gazelle kill marked by circling buzzards, a look at a magnificent red-painted Samburu warrior with six-foot spear while his tribesmen and women gossip at the dukas in

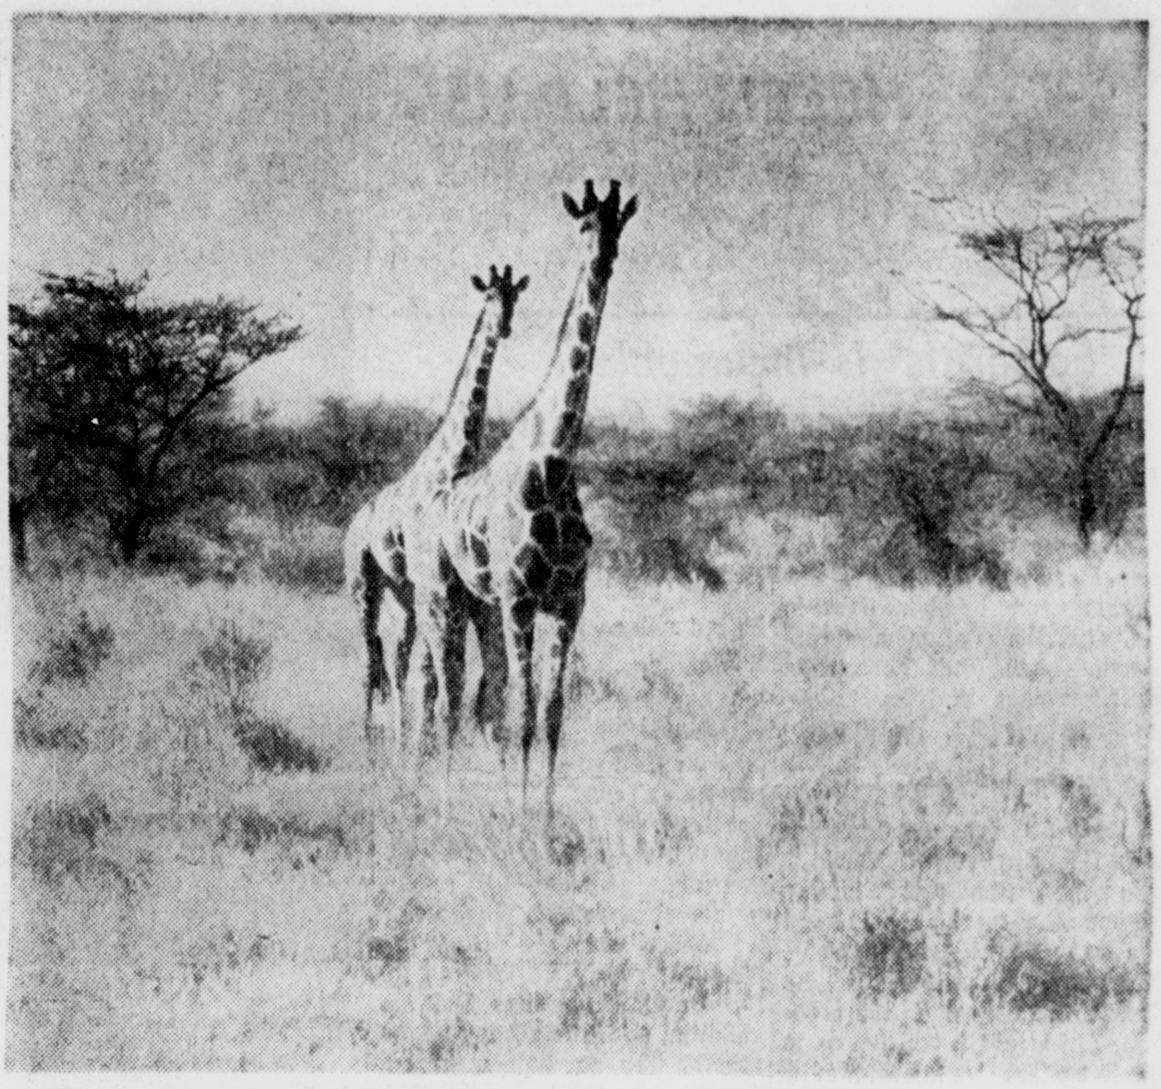
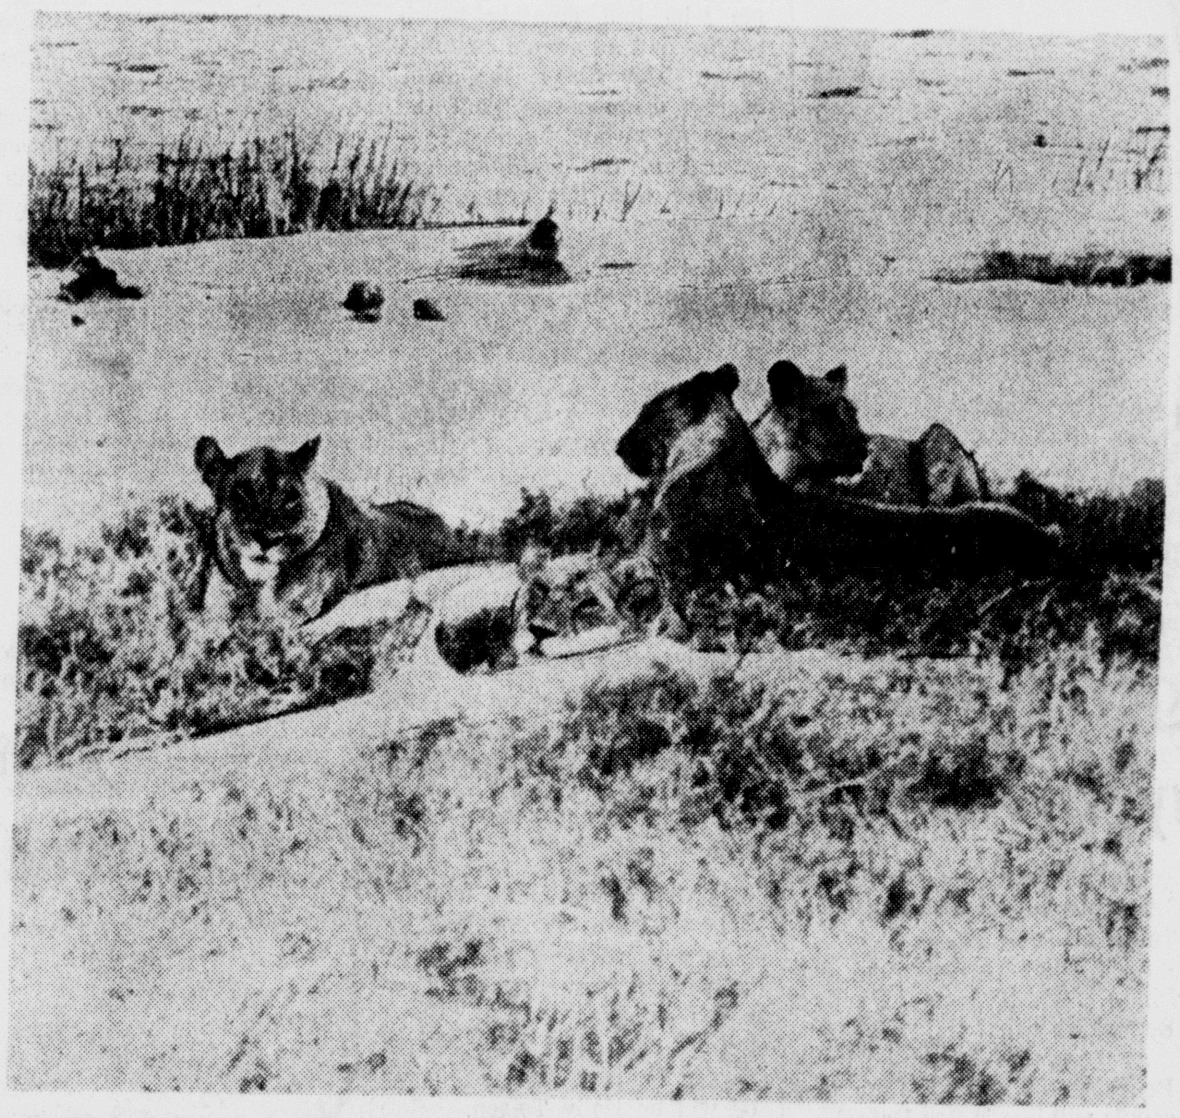
'BORN FREE' LAND—the country of the Samburu, near Archer's Post and Isiolo in north central Kenya is where Joy Adamson's adventures with the now world famous lioness Elsa took place when her husband, George, was senior game warden for the northern district. Today the vast plainsland of the game reserve is populous with animals and birds ranging from eagles to Secretary birds to tiny bee-catchers. Flocks of fat Guinea fowl often wander across the road almost under the wheels of a stopped landrover.



FRAMED BY the flat-topped thorn trees on which they feed, this pair of the rare reticulated giraffe are distinguishable from their more common cousins seen in other parts of Africa and in zoos by the wider and deeper brown patches of their markings. Shy creatures, they bound away from an approaching vehicle after taking a curious look.



LATE AFTERNOON was resting time for four lionesses, who lounged in the grass beside the river in Samburu. The dry bush country is ideal for prides of lion who thrive on the herds of gazelles and zebras supported by the grassland and streams.

HERDS OF elephants are common in East Africa wherever water is sufficient and civilization has not encroached upon their territory. Unlike Indian elephants, they are untamable for work or circuses and live free, cropping the bushes and tearing down trees in the bushland. If he stays in the landrover and is watchful the visitor can get quite close as long as the elephant feels no threat. When angered the big tuskers can flip over cars with ease.

dusty Archer's Post.

Talk moves to the "shifta" —rustlers who shift across the border north with herds of stolen cattle from the Samburu and who have caused the Kenya soldiers to erect stone lookout posts to patrol against the marauders.

Stars glitter in the inky desert skies and little pricklers stab through the socks as you walk the dark trail to the cabin, knowing that somewhere out there, quite close, are the animals.

Super Finishes For Hardwoods

CHICAGO (UPI)—Something new has been added to our drip dry, easy care world—wash and wear furniture.

At least the Fine Hardwood Association reports new super finishes for hardwoods make the furniture wash and wear. Just wash off spills from alcohol, foods and even household chemicals such as bleach, cleaning fluid, ink, glue, nail polish and remover. Such things can't mar the finish.

HELEN HELP US!

'Barthritis' Is Incureable Without Cooperation Says Helen

DEAR HELEN:

He drinks too much. That's his only fault. It doesn't interfere with his work except on a few mornings, and he slows down in the afternoons after a three-martini lunch. But he spends most evenings in bars. That's his entertainment. He likes to meet people there. And he gets smashed almost every night.

I know I'll never meet another man I love as much. Should I take a chance and marry him in the hope that marriage will keep him away from booze? He won't make any promises, as he doesn't think liquor is his problem. I'm afraid it will be, as in the five years I've known him he has been squiffed or hungover more than sober. Am I a fool? — HOOKED ON A BAR-HABITUATE

DEAR HOOKED:

"Barthritis" (stiff in the joints) can't be cured — or arrested — until the "sufferer" realizes he has a disease. When a man enjoys getting drunk there isn't much hope or chance. A wife's "reform program" might turn him into a real alcoholic.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

In the column about illegitimate births, it was mentioned that a possible explanation for this increase was, "Among poorer people, a new baby means a bigger welfare check."

This is a charge commonly leveled at ADC (Aid to Dependent Children). The uninformed accuse the program of giving an incentive for more babies in the form of increased payments.

True, the welfare check gets bigger with each child, but hardly big enough to adequately feed, clothe and support a human being according to prevailing standards of living. In our state, one of the most generous, a pregnant woman with one child receiving welfare assistance gets $148 per month for herself and child, plus $20 for the unborn. Upon the birth of the baby, she receives $172 a month. By the time she has had six children, she'll be getting $330 a month. Try to support a big family on that! — SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR HELEN:

"Kept Under Wraps" couldn't understand why people were shocked at nakedness, and accused them of having depraved thoughts. At the risk of being labeled depraved, I must take exception. He said he wanted to be "as God made us." He gets this inside information from the Bible, for it says in Genesis that God made man naked.

There are at least four conclusions to be drawn from the Biblical record: 1. Before man disobeyed God, he did not recognize he was naked; 2. When man disobeyed God, he knew, and covered himself; 3. God gave him a more permanent covering; 4. Nudity, morals, clothes, and disobedience to God have a relationship to each other. — A "DEPRAVED" MINISTER

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Frost of Belvedere will host the party. The Coopers were married at St. James the Apostle Church in Glen Ellyn, Ill., on Aug. 24. Mrs. Cooper is the former Barbara Bosart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert George Bosart of Glen Ellyn. The bridegroom, a former resident of Oak Park, Ill., is the son of Mrs. Julius P. Chernyk of Chicago, and the late Max Cooper. Jack and Barbara are both graduates of Indiana University, where Jack also studied for an M.A. degree. He is a college friend of the Frosts' son, Kenneth A. Frost Jr., of Davis, who is also a graduate of Indiana University. Cooper, a frequent visitor to Belvedere, has been retired from the Army with the rank of captain after overseas duty in Vietnam, where he was wounded. He is now employed by Birr Wilson Co., securities investment firm, in San Francisco.

THE LOCAL chapter of the Cheer for Beer Society has issued invitations for a picnic Saturday on Angel Island.

The invitations read, "Tho it's called Columbus Day, and our due respects we pay, let us celebrate, 20 years since '48 . . . bridge the gap of 20 years, come join us again in Cheers for Beer."

Twenty years ago the society was formed by a group of young married and single people who had monthly beach parties and an annual costume party. The Cheer for Beer Society disappeared from the scene for awhile, but last year several of the members got together and the group was reorganized.

Boats will begin to depart at 10 a.m. Saturday and continue every hour on the hour from The Dock at 21 Main Street in Tiburon.

THE WEDDING of Hope Alexander and Paul Willis, both cast members of the Marin Shakespeare Festival's production of "Comedy of Errors," will take place Sunday, 2 p.m., at Swedenborgian Church in San Francisco.

Hope is the daughter of Leon Alexander and the late Mara Alexander of San Francisco while Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hale Willis of Fullerton.

Serving as best man will be Robert Feero, "Antipholus" in "Comedy," while maid of honor will be Pat Boyette who played the first witch in "MacBeth," both with the Shakespeare Festival. Matron of honor will be Holly Tolson.

The couple did not meet until they appeared together in "Comedy of Errors" earlier this season.

Girl Scouts To Hold Dedication Of New Shelter In Briones Park

Marin County Girl Scouts and Girl Scouts from the other Bay Area counties have been invited to attend the dedication of a new Girl Scout camping shelter in Briones Regional Park in Contra Costa County at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The ceremony, entitled "Bless this House" will be performed by the Girl Scouts for the guests, who will include regional park officials, recreation department directors, representatives of youth organizations and directors and staff of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council.

The new building to serve the camping needs of Bay Area youth groups is the gift, in part, of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council. The Girl Scout groups will have exclusive use of it for six weeks in the summer and on every other weekend throughout the year, but at other times it will be available to any organized youth group on a reservation basis.

The shelter is a six-sided redwood and concrete structure featuring a raised fireplace in the center and a gently pitched roof with translucent plastic skylights. Open on two sides, it is situated to provide maximum protection from prevailing winds without sacrificing the feeling of camping out-of-doors.

San Marin High Students Elect

San Marin High School in Novato elected a student body president and vice president for the fall semester in voting Wednesday with the results announced yesterday.

Corte Maderans Talk Of Library Site

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association Wednesday night heard board member Howard C. Harvey report on a Sept. 28 tour of possible Corte Madera sites for a county regional library.

Harvey told the group he agreed that a parcel, located on Meadowsweet Drive and favored by the Corte Madera Town Council Monday as the site, was the best choice.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Best bets on television tonight:

KGO (7), 7:30 p.m.—Country-western star Jimmy Dean hosts "Operation: Entertainment" from Fort Sill, Okla. Abbe Lane, comedian Corbett Monica, the singing Kim Sisters, the comedy team of Colvin and Wilder and the Five Stair Steps and Cubie, a musical group, are his guests.

KQED (9), 8:30 p.m.—"NET Playhouse" presents "The Mayfly and the Frog," a romantic comedy written especially for television by BBC's Jack Russell. Sir John Gielgud stars.

KPIX (5), 9 p.m.—Troy Donahue and Suzanne Pleshette star in the movie, "A Distant Trumpet," based on the best-selling novel by Paul Horgan.

TV Quiz Shows Deny Any Prompting Of Celebrities

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A producer of two television quiz shows denies charges by the Federal Communications Commission that some guest celebrities were provided the questions and answers before they went onstage.

Merrill Heater, a partner in Heater Quigley production of Sherman Oaks, which runs "Hollywood Squares" and "PDQ" said in one case the allegations may be due to a misunderstanding.

"No contestant or guest celebrity on either show is ever given the questions or answers," Heater said. "Hollywood Squares is conducted precisely as we say on the air it is."

Celebrities on the show must give the right answer to a question or bluff a contestant into thinking he gave the right answer.

"We brief the celebrities on the general area of the questions so they will be prepared to make their bluff. We never give them the exact questions or answers," Heater said.

"Some of the celebrities may be under the impression that they were given answers, or of the hundreds of questions asked in the briefing session and on the show one or two may have been repeat."

None of the 46 guest celebrities interviewed by the FCC were available for comment.

Regarding the other show, Heater said: "I have no idea what their complaint is against PDQ. It's a word game. There are no questions or answers given to the celebrities and there is no advance briefing."

A Fourth TV Network May Emerge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Metromedia Inc. and the Transamerica Corp. have announced agreement in principle to merge, giving rise to speculation of establishment a fourth television network.

John W. Kluge, chairman and president of Metromedia, said yesterday at a news conference, "the joint resources of both organizations could provide Metromedia the capability for an alternative program service for television stations lacking network affiliations."

NO DETAILS

Kluge, as well as John R. Beckett, president and chief executive officer of Transamerica, who was also present at the news conference, declined to elaborate on the statement.

"All we will say is what is in our statement," Beckett said. Both men, however, would not deny the possibility a fourth network could be created.

Kluge told the news conference the Federal Communications Commission would have to approve the merger before it Metromedia directors and stockholders.

MANY INTERESTS

Transamerica is a diversified service organization with major interest in insurance, finance, land and business services and entertainment. Among its holdings is United Artists.

Metromedia is a communications and marketing complex with interests in television and radio, outdoor and transit advertising, direct mail marketing, publishing and entertainment.

Under the proposed merger, Kluge said, Transanerica would exchange three-quarters of a share of its common stock for media common stock. He said the transaction would be worth about $300 million.

Teens Seeking Center Room For A Coffee House

Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors named a committee Wednesday to see if a room in the Terra Linda Recreation Center could be set aside for a coffee house get-together center for youth.

David Newman, 17, a lifeguard for the district, spoke for a group of teen-agers, who asked for use of one of the rooms at the center.

Chairman John A. Colistra named Elroy S. Munson, a director; Lem Stephenson, recreation supervisor, and Jacqueline O'Dwyer, general manager-secretary, as the committee to investigate and bring in a recommendation.

Terra Linda Recreation and Park District directors also:

PARK HOURS — Set closing hours for all parks in the district as 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. Up to now, the parks were closed "from two hours after sunset until sunrise."

POOL — Announced that the swimming pool will close next Tuesday and will reopen next May.

Sausalito Seeks Ideas For Anniversary Clock

In celebration of Sausalito's 75th year, the Sausalito Foundation will award a $100 prize for the design of a town clock to be placed on the east side of Bridgeway near the Gazebo.

Foundation president Dr. Edward E. Shev made the announcement and named Dr. Joel J. Kudler, Donald J. Duncan Jr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenblum to the contest committee.

Dr. Shev said designs should be sent to Sausalito P.O. Box 567 postmarked before Nov. 15.

Drawings should be in black and white, not over 20 by 30 inches or under eight and a half by 11 inches; the scale should be shown, and no models or photographs will be accepted.

The name and address of the designer is to be placed in a sealed envelope attached to the back of the drawing.

The winning design, said Dr. Shev, will be selected with regard to appropriateness to the site, feasibility of construction, originality and general appropriateness.

The winner will be announced at an annual foundation night dance Dec. 7 in the Sausalito Woman's Club.

The dance theme will be "time on your hands" and prizes will be given for the outstanding historical, contemporary and futuristic costumes.

Mrs. Manuel Pasquinucci is ticket chairman.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from California and National PTA magazines and the "Film Report" of the Film Estimate Board

FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

"Inspector Clouseau" — Internationally renowned detective of French Surete is assigned to Scotland Yard to trap a gang of bank robbers. Bumbling Frenchman becomes victim of every trap set for him . . . amusing.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Battle Beneath the Earth" — Science fiction tale in which Chinese terrorist group has constructed a network of tunnels in the U.S. complete with strategically placed atom bombs.

"Day of the Evil Gun" — Good action-packed western. Apaches have abducted white women whose men vie for position in effecting their rescue. An unholy alliance develops through each man's requirements for survival.

"Five Card Stud" — Involved story of western vengeance is played by a name cast. Some of the dialogue is quite suggestive.

"Heart Is a Lonely Hunter" — A rather sad story about a deaf-mute who in his loneliness touches the lives of many. Compassionate tale is tenderly told and played with rare perception.

"Hot Millions" — Laugh provoking comedy of an embezzler who is aided by the computer in making his millions . . . surprise ending.

"In Like Flint" — Complicated spoof as James Coburn, as Flint, is again summoned to save the world. His leathel punch, karate and astonishing gadgets provide plenty of violence and excitement.

"No Way to Treat a Lady" — Farcical melodrama about a woman strangler, showcasing the multiple talents of Rod Steiger as an impersonator. It moves along at a tense clip and is well supplied with macabre humor.

"Salt and Pepper" — With emphasis on violence, spoofing all the spy spoofs, this farce makes ample use of escape gadgets, comic sleuthing, broad gags and casual bedroom activity.

BORDERLINE

(Some say Adults Only)

"Dark of the Sun" — Set in the Congo, this adventure tale is so filled with blood and gore that the plot is lost in violence. Repeated scenes of torture, rape and gore reach the saturation point. This picture is not for children nor youth.

"The Graduate" — This satirical comedy is subject to various interpretations. Young man from colllege becomes involved in a torrid affair . . . scenes of night club entertainer distasteful.

"Stranger Returns''' — Italian-made bloody Western satire. A violent picture. About 30 individual murders clearly depicted are so frequent, so predictable, so pointless that they often fail to shock . . . may prove a bit disturbing.

ADULTS ONLY

"The Fox" — Based on novel by D. H. Lawrence. Lesbian theme handled tastefully but scenes of passion are explicit.

"Secrets of an American Wife" — Satirical farce about sex life of 34 year old mother before and after marriage. Nudity, risque dialogue and adultery are casually presented.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Two San Rafael Restaurants Getting New Proprietors

Changes are being made at two San Rafael restaurants. One has already taken place. The other will go into effect on Monday.

COUNTRY BOY at Bermuda Palms has been taken over from Joe Satterfield by motel owner Irwin (Whitey) Litchfield. He has brought in chef Jim Davidson to run it. The "all you can eat" menu at $1.15 for lunch and $1.65 for dinner continues. On Sunday it's all day from noon at $1.65.

Early breakfast service from 2 to about 6 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday mornings starts this weekend. The dining room has been remodeled and new equipment is being brought in. There may be more changes later.

AFTER SUNDAY, the Hickory Pit at 1707 Fourth Street will change ownership and operate under the new name of Fabbri's. Angelo and Vera Camporeale have sold through Harry Abras of William Timmer Realty and are moving to Antioch where they own property. After a vacation they may go into business again.

New owners are Robert and Lucille Fabbri from Las Vegas where he was general manager for Royal Crown Cola. Previously he was Pepsi Cola manager in Reno.

Bob's family has been in the restaurant business for years, so he adjusts to it naturally. Both he and his wife will be active in the San Rafael restaurant.

Barbecued items will continue on the menu but there will be a gradual addition of Italian dishes. Contemplated schedule is to remain open from 10 a.m. to 10 or 11 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays for lunches and dinners and close on Sundays.

MAN HAS BEEN EATING since his creation, but it took the French to give it finesse.

Actually the Gallic reputation for good cooking goes back to the Middle Ages. The Greeks and Romans may have originated the lavish feast, but the French early adopted it as if were their own idea. Louis XIV laid down some ground rules in the 1600s; the French word "restaurant," denoting a place to eat out, originated in 1765; and by the early 19th Century the great gourmet Brillat-Savarin started putting everything down in writing.

The world has associated France with the preparation of fine food ever since.

A good French restaurant has all the natural advantages for becoming a successful operation. A classic example in Marin is La Petit Auberge, San Rafael. More than one restaurateur has used it as a model and yardstick for his own dinery.

The average diner-out usually has his own particular reasons for placing La Petite high on his preferred list of preferred locations — but they generally fall into a pattern. Ask one of these aficionados and he may tell you he likes the cosmopolitan atmosphere that is devoid of all "snob appeal." Or if he's a stickler for French cooking, you can bet it's chef Roger Poli's doing in the kitchen. Another has simply been made to feel welcome and comfortable by Paul Devaux or Pierre Grigaut.

Whatever the reason it's quite a remarkable place. If you are new in Marin and haven't discovered this by now, you should.

FOR THE NAVE STAFF at Nero's Room, Ignacio, Columbus Day is celebrated on the Monday closest to Oct. 12. This year makes the fete Oct. 14 instead of tomorrow.

Ordinarily closed on Mondays, the dining room will be devoted to observing the Naves' sixth annual Festivale Italiano. It will turn out more varieties of Italian food than is served in Napoli, Roma and Genoa combined — something like 35 different recipes. Headliner chef for all this will be Bill Nave Sr., who never loses an opportunity to show what he can do on this October occasion.

Attendance is large and the evening has to be scheduled in three dinner periods — 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. For all you can eat, with wine, music and singing, the tab is $3.50 per person. Make reservations.

POPULAR AT RANCHO NICASIO

Johnny Vendigni at the drums and accordionist Sam Franco, teamed as The Buddies, play for dancing and entertainment Friday and Saturday nights in Rancho Nicasio's dining room.

GUSTAV PERSSON of Mill Valley has joined chef Benny Veideland's kitchen staff at the Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo. Recently sous chef at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, Gus has long plied his profession in Marin — from opening the old Zarro's in 1946 to serving at Taberna in San Rafael. In between he was at Valhalla, Sabella's Alta Mira Hotel, the Buckeye, Hilltop and Rubini's.

POTPOURRI: Did you ever see such huge double-deck sandwiches as are served at the new Red Fox Grill, 1013 B Street, San Rafael? Reasonable, too. . . . Dori Green is now the featured entertainer at Bob's of Marin on weekends. . . . A meal in itself is the potato pancakes (there are no finer) served with applesauce and sour cream with link sausages at Eugene's Country Club Restaurant, San Rafael. . . . Penny Decota at Taberna is never quite sure until the day it's to be served what her specialite du jour will be. Most just ask for "Penny's goop-goop."

CONTINUING with last week's account of some of the Sonoma County dineries — if you travel over Mark West Road from Santa Rosa to Calistoga, you'll come to a sign indicating Mountain Home Ranch Road. Follow this for a mile and you'll discover the Triple S ranch, a resort and restaurant open from April 1 until the end of the year.

The Triple S is owned by Henry and May Schellenger. As the parked cars indicate, it's a popular place featuring a large bar and dining room. It has good steaks — and, previously recommended to me, some very excellent prawns. I concur in that judgment. It's a comfortable place to stay, with cabins, a swimming pool, trails to hike, and the deer come down at night to visit you. If you should keep your cabin door open they'll walk in.

Since it's only a few miles from Calistoga it has a Calistoga address. But it's on the Sonoma side of the Napa-Sonoma County line.

PETALUMA TIPS: Vocal and organ duo now appearing at Diamond Lil's, 208 Petaluma Boulevard North, on Friday and Saturday nights is Doddi Hansen and Skippy Johnson. There's a choice of French cuisine or broiler items here. . . . Suggested by Albert Sollini of Novato: Al Beltrametti's Octopus Fresh Fish Grotto, 7335 Red Hill, Petaluma. He recommends the fresh little Louisiana pearl oysters, not often found so tasty.

AT EL VERANO, in the Valley of the Moon, the place for any Marinite to go is Juanita's. If not for dinner, then for breakfast or lunch. We went for breakfast.

This is a time you'll probably find Juanita Musson doing her own cooking. And in the early hours of the day her temper, always unpredictable, can usually be safely predicted to be rough around the edges, and frequently in the middle.

No matter — that's always been par for this course. And there was never any question about Juanita's cooking talents and fussiness. I never realized that scrambled eggs could be such an achievement — especially accompanied by a huge ham steak, dollar hotcakes, hash fries and muffins.

Tiburon Meeting

The Tiburon City Council will meet at 8 p.m. next Thursday, not Monday as regularly scheduled, to hold a public hearing on the proposed downtown plan. The meeting wil be in city hall.

Robert Taylor's Lung Removed

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Doctors who removed actor Robert Taylor's right lung say he should be able to return home from the hospital "within two weeks."

The 57-year-old actor was reported "doing very well" in the intensive care unit of St. John's Hospital where he underwent the surgery Tuesday.

The star of the television series "The Detectives" was admitted last Sunday suffering from a fungus infection commonly known as "valley fever," but referred to medically as "coccidioidomycosis."

To Talk On Smoking

Dr. Gerald Hill, San Rafael psychiatrist and chairman of the California Interagency Council on Smoking and Health, will speak at a meeting of the California Branch of the American Cancer Society Friday at the Hilton Hotel in San Francisco. He will speak on "The Role of the Physician to his Patients in the Problem of Smoking."

During the month of October you will be served this meal at CAFE BON VIN

LA VENDANGE
Vintage Celebration Dinner
(a la Bordeaux)

Touts les vins 4.75
(a glass of each of the nine wines)

7.50 table d'hôte

THE WINES

3.49 fifth to take home — Le cocktail Bartishe
The favorite aperitif of Languedoc, in the south of France, is blended with a light wine of high alcohol content to produce a delightful cocktail.

1.59 fifth to take home — Wente Bros. Livermore Dry Semillon
Fruity and full, the small aromatic Semillon grape is used in all of Bordeaux's finest white wines, usually blended with Savuignon Blanc.

1.79 fifth to take home — Carrelasse Graves Superieur '66

1.59 fifth to take home — Mirassou Santa Clara Grenache Rosé '66

1.39 fifth to take home — Santos Portuguese Rosé
Portugal prefers light refreshing table wines to the more famous port. Low-priced exports are not often as good as this.

1.99 fifth to take home — Sebastiani Sonoma Cabernet Sauvignon, Bin 34
An award-winning example of California's greatest red. Aged 5 years in small oak cooperage, then developed in the bottle for smoothness and bouquet.

5.25 fifth to take home — Chateau Calon Segur '64
A third growth from Saint-Estephe, one of the four great communes of the Haut-Medoc, this famous Bordeaux wine has vigorous character and a distinctive aroma.

(always served in France with the salad) — L'eau minerale gaseuse

1.85 fifth to take home — Charles Krug Napa Sweet Sauvignon Blanc

1.99 fifth to take home — Chateau Bechereau Sauternes '64

THE FOOD

Hors d'oeuvres varies — à la carte .75
The assortment is the chef's own; and, since each morsel was created to enjoy with wine the sour, the sharp, the spicy is not included.

Consommé de poulet au chablis* — à la carte .75
This double chicken consommé is enlivened with "in-and-out" dumplings . . . some poached in the soup; the rest oven browned, to serve with the soup.

Vol-au-vent et quenelles Nantua* — à la carte 2.50
Flaky pastry shells are heaped with shrimp, asparagus, mushrooms, and airy dumplings made of white fish pounded in a mortar.

Pate Cote Rouge en vin de Porto* — à la carte .75
An original Bon Vin specialty, in which livers are ground seven times, then subtly seasoned with herbs and wines. A ruby port gelee completes the dish.

Suprême de volaille Véronique — à la carte 3.25
A young chicken breast is lightly roasted with a chicken veloute sauce. Rich cream and dry sherry are quickly added - and then seedless white grapes.

Croquettes de pommes de terre Benni* — à la carte 1.00
A very light mixture of pureed potatoes and beaten egg is stuffed with grapes and baked until brown.

Aloyau et filet de boeuf à la Bon Vin* — à la carte 4.75
An aged New York boneless strip is quickly roasted and served with a Bordelaise sauce and garnish of claret butter and lemon.

Salade verte et rouge Cynthia* — à la carte 1.00

Fromage oriental*, et des fruits — à la carte 1.00

Café (ou thé); et Coupe de Vendange — à la carte 1.00

Jesse James-Style Train Robbery Pulled

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Two masked bandits pulled off a Jesse James-style train robbery here early today.

Sheriff's deputies said the armed robbers hopped onto the caboose of a slow-moving freight train on the city's west side, relieved the startled conductor of $65, and hopped off the moving train.

Talks Tuesday

Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher will speak to the Belveron Association at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Del Mar School.

San Francisco Sets Zoo Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's recreation and park Commission has voted a 25-cent admission charge for Fleischhacker Zoo, for those older than 16 and younger than 65.

The action, taken yesterday, was conditioned on the board of supervisors putting the revenues into the zoo fund, rather than the general fund.

When commissioners considered a 50-cent fee for the previously free zoo, there were protests from Negro organizations that it was a slap at the black community.

Commissioners hope the fee will raise $224,700 a year to be added to the zoo's $670,000 annual budget.

Children's Center Funds Alloted By State Board

The state Allocation Board in Sacramento yesterday approved $4,500 in state funds for children's center construction in Marin County on a 50-50 matching fund basis.

Joseph Denhart, director of the children's center and preschool program for the Marin County School office, said he hoped for a greater allocation since there is $40,000 in local matching funds available.

There is a chance to get more funds if other agencies aren't prepared in 60 days to use their allocations, Denhart said.

Unused allotments are then available for redistribution, and if there are some available Marin can then request use of them, he said.

701 Program

Mill Valley Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon will outline the city's 701 planning program at a meeting of the Mill Valley Lions Club at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Joint Effort Produces Three Drug Suspects

Narcotics officers and San Anselmo police, armed with an arrest warrant yesterday, picked up two young men and a woman and confiscated several parcels containing what they believed to be marijuana, hashish and LSD.

Booked in Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs, for investigation of possession of marijuana with intent to sell, and on a warrant for selling marijuana was Jeffrey Lynn Evans, 20, of 91 Redwood Road, San Anselmo. He remained in jail today in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Carolyn Lucille Emmons, 21, of the same address, was booked for investigation of having marijuana with intent to sell and possession of dangerous drugs. She posted $1,250 bail and was released.

Mitchell Sink, 23, of 204 Resaca Street, Forest Knolls, was booked for investigation of possession of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia. He was released on $1,250 bail. All three were scheduled for appearance in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

Officers said one state narcotics officer, two Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau agents, and one San Anselmo officer went to the Redwood Road address about 4:30 p.m. They said Sink, who was visiting, admitted them, that Evans attempted to leave by a back door but halted when ordered to.

An estimated eight pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana was found in various plastic sacks in and near a living room buffet, officers said. They said a small quantity of what is believed to be LSD was also found, and Sink had what was thought to be hashish in his possession.

Officers described the trio as hippie types and said Sink had about $530 cash in is possession when arrested.

Larkspur Votes Go-Ahead For Launching Ramp

The Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission Wednesday night authorized preliminary work toward construction of a small craft launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek beneath the Greenbrae underpass of Highway 101.

Robert C. Bundy, parks and recreation director, said he will now seek approval from the state Division of Highways, since the state owns the land, and the state Small Craft Harbor Commission.

Details of the ramp have not been determined, he said.

The commission expressed concern that city-owned Eastman Hall at 200 Williams Avenue and used for recreational purposes, is delapidated and agreed to examine it and consider whether it should be repaired or demolished. The commission also elected Robert V. Golden as new chairman, replacing Joseph Picetti; James Lienkaemper, vice chairman; and David Scott, secretary.

New Notary Public

Nancy L. Wisnia of 236 Laurel Place, Apt. 1, San Rafael, has been issued a notary public commission, Secretary of State Frank J. Jordan announced today.

Policeman To Jail In Bail Dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Municipal Court's presiding judge predicts that the question of bail for a policeman charged with murder will not come up again until after his preliminary hearing.

Judge Joseph Kennedy made his prediction yesterday after Judge Walter F. Calcagno overruled Judge S. Lee Vavuris and sent Michael O'Brien, 27, to jail, saying he did so because the patrolmen is charged with a capital crime.

Calcagno took the action after the case, first assigned to Vavuris, came before him as defense attorney Edward Dullea sought a continuance. Vavuris had previously released the patrolman.

After taking his action, Calcagno turned the case over to Kennedy. The presiding judge told reporters that Judge Albert A. Axelrod will handle the next part of the case.

O'Brien, a white policeman, is charged with killing a Negro, George Baskett, 28, on Sept. 29 during a dispute that followed a minor traffic accident. O'Brien was off duty at the time.

Another policeman, Raymond D. Main, was charged yesterday with discharging a firearm within the city limits.

The complaint was signed by Mrs. Kah Fong Pastrano, a neighbor who was hit by a bullet from a pistol Main said he fired at a howling cat in his back yard Sept. 7.

Main has been suspended for 45 days because of the incident.

Discharging a pistol within the city limits is a misdemeanor, punishable by six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Novato Council Sets Later Meeting Hour

The time for the special meeting tomorrow of the Novato City Council to start screening applications for the position of city manager, has been changed from 6 to 8 p.m., according to Mrs. Peggy Lehigh, acting city clerk.

The council will start screening the 52 applications it has for the position of city manager which has been vacant since John Julien Baget resigned Sept. 15.

ART REVIEW

Weaving, Sculpture Worth A Close Look

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Two weavers and a sculptor with three very personal outlooks combine in an exhibit through Nov. 2, at the Unitarian Church, 240 Channing Way in San Rafael.

It's a small show but the kind you like to linger over, mainly because there are so many things in it that grow in beauty and importance the longer you devote to them.

Certainly this kind of increasing enjoyment comes from Carole Beadle's weaving. Although the pieces she shows here have been exhibited before, they are even better the second time. Their electric colors mixed with the shades of weathered wood, their intricate forms and their changing textures, have the sort of quiet complexity that continue to provide new discovery.

As weaving art, Barbara Showcroft's work is also absorbing, with strong tones and patterns broken by holes and dripping braids. With Miss Showcroft, however, the fascination is more with her ideas which extend from a long, tapering, multicolored "Banner," to an enormous, rug-like wall hanging of free-form shapes in purple, gold and red.

From these, she goes three-dimensional with a "Tibetan Death Mask," a doll-like Indian god and a marvelous thing she calls simply, "Lump." Schmoo-like, the latter is, dangling hair-tufted, huge and fat and trailing tangles of wirey braids.

To all this, Ralph O'Neill's sculpture is a soothing balance. Small, cool and serene, it dwells on simple bending shapes of stone and wood, cut open rarely more than once, if at all, and smoothed and polished without adornment. The clean, natural planes and curves give his work a deep sense of spiritual tranquility, and the contrast to the more complex weaving is a meaningful one. It adds dimension to this thoughtful little show that is full of things to study and appreciate.

Garages Held Not Responsible For Car Safety

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An automobile owner cannot hold a garage or service station responsible for the safe operating condition of his car, the State Supreme Court has ruled.

The court Wednesday ordered new trials of two suits in which car owners had been found free of liability for damages stemming from accidents due to brake failure. Hydraulic hoses ruptured in both cases.

A San Francisco Superior Court had denied damages against Ramona M. Rath on her claim that her brakes had been overhauled three months before the crash.

A Los Angeles Superior Court refused damages against Bobo Djiabas. He claimed his brakes were overhauled six months before his crash and inspected and adjusted just five weeks earlier.

Pope May Clarify Authority Stand

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI may soon issue an encyclical reminding Roman Catholics of the church teaching that Christ founded the papacy in St. Peter and that He meant for Popes to have final authority, Vatican informants said today.

It is believed the document would be aimed at halting disobedience and dissent over Pope Paul's continuance of a ban on contraceptives for Catholics and on other doctrinal and disciplinary issues.

But Pope Paul may also seek to assure Catholics that he will hear their problems with a symphatic ear, the sources said.

With the encyclical, said a theologian, the pontiff would try "to set the chaos in the church in order."

Since the Vatican Ecumenical Council defined the principle of collegial rule—the world's bishops conferring with the Pope on decisions for the church—there has been a growing split over the nature of ecclesiastical authority.

Pope Paul has followed the concept of supreme authority vested in the Pope, who may share it with his bishops as he chooses. But some theologians such as Revs. Hans Kung and Edward Schillebeeckx view church authority as stemming from the whole community of the faithful.

In recent weeks Pope Paul has been lamenting the lack of obedience among Catholics to his encyclical Humanae Vitae (of human life), which prohibited artificial birth control.

At his general audience Wednesday, he spoke on the exercise of authority of a Pope and his bishops, but he presented a gentle concept of authority.

"The duty to serve is inherent in authority," he said, "and the higher the authority, the greater the duty to serve."

Two recent articles by Vatican theologians in the Vatican daily newspaper L'Osservatore Romano seem to point to a papal statement on authority.

Last week, Charles Cardinal Journet, regarded as one of Pope Paul's close advisers, wrote, "Supreme authority over the universal Church rests wholly in the sovereign pontiff alone."

Judges Toss Out Tickets On Turn

Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen complained last night that Marin Municipal Court judges were dismissing many of the traffic tickets issued last month in a crackdown on errant turns.

The mayor said commuters halted for making illegal left turns at Bolinas Avenue and Shady Lane were taking pictures of a traffic sign they believed too small and ill-placed, submitting the pictures to judges and winning dismissal of the summonses.

Allen was unaware how many tickets had been thrown out, but said, "It is dispiriting to police to write tickets and then have them turned down."

Councilman W. James Dawson said, "I would like to chastise the courts for not having contacted the town, the police or the town council before throwing out these cases, which were in strict violation of the law. I believe the courts should be censured."

Councilmen said motorists had ample warning that left turns from Bolinas Avenue onto Shady Lane would be prohibited during the morning rush hour and that a sign would be erected.

Edward W. Bullard, a resident on Shady Lane, wrote to the council saying that the crackdown had done much to improve traffic safety in the area, and criticizing Councilman Jack Carney for raising concern as to whether the crackdown was being used as a money-raising scheme.

Carney said last night the issuance of tickets had not forced traffic off local streets and back onto Sir Francis Drake Boulevard because he had observed motorists proceeding past Shady Lane, turning around in driveways on Bolinas Avenue and coming back to make a right turn on Shady Lane.

Allen disagreed and said that the violations had dwindled to a point where the police vigilance unit had to be removed for lack of business.

Ross Landlords Warned: Safety Rules Checkup Due

The Ross Town Council last night warned residents who were permitted rental units several months ago that they had until the next council meeting Nov. 14 to meet safety conditions attached to use permits and variances.

Mayor Frederick S. Allen told of "one or two persons who are kind of thumbing their noses at us." He said some of the rental dwellings were "the worst fire hazards we have."

Councilmen objected that some residents had been given up to 60 days to meet fire standards, but had failed to do so. Revocation of permission to rent would result if the conditions were not met quickly, the council said.

Allen also reported "rumor has it" that a number of residents were renting extra units on their property without use permits or variances. The council said it would investigate.

The council has been attempting for more than five years to eliminate multiple residential use and last month turned down two requests for variances to allow future multiple use of their property.

The Ross Town Council Also:

LIBRARY — Called a public hearing for the next meeting, at 8 p.m. Nov. 14, on possible withdrawal from the county library system and joining the San Anselmo system.

WIDENING — Learned of Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen's suggestion to widen parts of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Laurel Grove Avenue to three lanes. "Screwy," Councilman Roy Farrington Jones called the proposal He said it would cause huge bottlenecks.

WATSON — Passed a resolution opposing Proposition 9 (Watson Amendment) on the Nov. 5 ballot and endorsing Proposition 1A as an alternative. Allen said the Watson measure would "put the town out of business."

PHOENIX LAKE — Heard Councilman Natalie G. Lewis say that she believed the county's attention would now turn to Phoenix Lake as a result of rejection of Deer Park in Fairfax as a county park. The council vote to establish a citizens' watchdog committee to keep an eye on developments.

TRAFFIC — Voted to spend $150 for a sign and road striping at Lagunitas Road and Willow Avenue to stop speeding.

PERSONNEL — Adopted an amendment to the personnel ordinance paying firemen overtime for working holidays.

TREE — Adopted an ordinance requiring trimming of weeds, trees and vegetation between the curb and property line in areas deemed to be special nusiances.

UTILITIES — Adopted an ordinance needed to qualify for funds released under order of the state Public Utilities Commission for undergrounding of utilities.

UNDERGROUND — Introduced an ordinance requiring undergrounding of utilities in any new subdivisions and setting the minimum size of lots in new subdivisions at 7,500 square feet.

PARK — Banned parking in areas near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Winship and Bolinas avenues because of narrowness of the roadways.

CLAUSEN — Commended Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, who will no longer be the town's representative in Washington because of reapportionment.

TRUCK — Authorized Councilman W. James Dawson to investigate three bids on a new fire department pickup truck. Campbell Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera submitted low bid of $2,219. Dawson was given power to make a purchase.

Sausalito Eyes Ending Lease For Sandspit

By MARION DIETRICH

The question of the legal use of the Sandspit arose last night when Sausalito city councilmen discussed the central waterfront plan policy, previously approved by the city planning commission.

The Sandspit is owned by the city and leased until the year 2002 to Madden and Lewis, which in turn subleases the tip of it to the Spinnaker restaurant.

Hugh G. Lawrence, attorney for Madden and Lewis, said the planning commission at three different times stated the Sandspit should be used for limited commercial development.

Now, he said, the final statement says the Sandspit should be open area. He asked the council to make its own determination.

Planning Commission Chairman Robert L. Nissen elaborated: "The commission doesn't want anything out there and would like the city to buy up the lease."

"I feel the city could never swing a deal like that," remarked Mayor Earl F. Dunphy.

The council decided to look into the terms of the lease and check with the city attorney, who was not present last night, as to the legal compatibility of the lease and the waterfront plan objectives.

J. Herbert Madden of Madden and Lewis pointed out he had been very patient for quite some time awaiting a council decision.

"We are as jealous of the waterfront properties view as anyone," he said. "We would like to sit down and work with your planners to determine use of the property."

Councilmen in effect abandoned the park-plaza concept last night when they decided the area behind Vina del Mar Plaza should be kept as a parking lot.

It was once earmarked as a park.

Mayor Dunphy led the discussion, "We would lose a lot of revenue if we abandoned that parking lot," he said.

Councilman Jan Paul Dyk urged "we should leave the question open. Maybe the day will come when we could have it for open space."

Other councilmen agreed, but declared at present the area should remain a parking lot.

Dunphy suggested the planners be instructed to show a city hall and library on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property.

Councilmen George C. Hoffman and Robin Sweeny concurred, but Councilmen Alexander R. Imlay and Dyke held out for putting only the library there now.

Councilmen were unanimous in opposing the closing of Caledonia Street to traffic, but they did not preclude the possibility of one of the cross streets being used as a pedestrian mall.

Imlay proposed fill should be used only when absolutely necessary. His fellow councilmen agreed.

The council voted unanimously to direct George C. Mader of William F. Spangle Jr. and Associates to prepare a plan using the guidelines and modifications it had discussed.

In general the policy statement calls for a plan which will establish and preserve a shoreline with "great visual interest and unique aesthetic quality."

The city's objectives, it says, are to provide public access to the water to the greatest extent feasible while still allowing limited and controlled private development, to provide adequate offstreet parking and improve traffic circulation.

The statement further says, a waterfront and/or city recreation facility should be developed in the Napa-Litho streets area outboard of Bridgeway.

Parking should be provided in the central and Marinship areas. Resident service businesses should be developed in the Caledonia street area.

The plan, the statement says, should permit expansion of private uses outboard of Bridgeway on both existing filled and submerged land.

The council will not meet Tuesday because several city officials will be at the League of California Cities meeting in Los Angeles.

The next meeting will be Oct. 22 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

'ANARCHY' FEARS EXPLAINED

By JOANNE GRANT

"The teen-agers (of Terra Linda) are potentially fantastic, but they're given very little opportunity to create — or even to feel.

"They need a chance to strike out creatively, not destructively," explained Gary Peter (Pete) Davis, who spent the summer trying to give them that chance.

It was also Davis who declared Terra Linda a "seedbed for anarchy" in a report tinged with indignation and presented to the Terra Linda Community Services District board which had made the community recreation center available for his summer of trying.

The report, presented Tuesday to the San Rafael Board of Education which contributed funds to Davis's summer program, was summarized in Wednesday's Independent-Journal.

The young San Francisco Theological Seminary student spoke with calm intensity of the teen problem, which he said is basically apathy.

He approached the challenge of reactivating their "stifled" creativity with a "lively arts" program.

Davis, 23, had conducted a lively arts program the previous summer at Riverside, Riverside County, where he graduated from the University of California with a major in history and a minor in sociology.

There the teens experimented freely in music, art, sculpture and drama in a program that is still growing.

"I ran into a completely different community (in Terra Linda)," he said.

There, the 50 to 80 teens who attended the Monday through Thursday program at the Terra Linda Recreation Center did so more out of proximity to the center than interest in the program, he reported.

The lively arts idea went into temporary hibernation and the rec center became more a popular gathering place — the most critical basic need in Terra Linda, Davis indicated.

As the summer wore on and Davis began winning the teens' trust and convinced them he was not a narcotics agent, they did suggest activities, he said.

He is the confidence-inspiring type — perhaps because he knows where he is and where he is going.

He said he had been successful in working with people and decided to make that his career.

He chose the ministry as an outlet more in keeping with his philosophy than government would have been, he said.

He plans to make youth his profession, he said, noting he had worked extensively with them in church, recreation programs and camps.

For example, his wife, Jaynese, a senior English major at the University of California at Berkeley, went to the center with him one night and started experimenting with art supplies. The youngsters only asked what she was doing — they weren't willing to try it themselves.

The activities they did suggest were successful. There was an all-night "be-in," a board-approved happening that included a band until midnight and hours of intense talk. "The purpose was for something to do. The kids were bored," he said.

There were also speakers at the end of the summer. The teen-agers wanted people with fairly radical ideas on both sides, he said. And two rock concerts at Oleander Park drew more than 300 each.

Usually, however, they talked, listened to bands practicing and played ping pong.

Their talks prompted Davis' statement to the parks and recreation commission that "Terra Linda is a breeding ground for anarchism."

He elaborated on that report in an interview yesterday at his home at 118 Mariposa Avenue, San Anselmo.

Davis said the young people had been represented and stifled for so long it has become a status symbol to defy this authority.

He said his college history background and his experience "have taught me people will take it to a point. Then they break out," he said.

"They have no reason to care for society," Davis said, explaining that so far society has told them to wait. And in the predominantly adult community of Terra Linda, the teens have been ignored, he said.

"They are on the verge of violence or nothing," he said. "I think nothing (apathy) is more prevelant."

"They have had this pushed at them so long, they need a shot in the arm. It's not going to be done by one person working with 80 kids a night," he said.

Davis noted, "It's not just Terra Linda." However, he said its location does make the problem more intense. Unlike San Anselmo or some other Marin communities, it's hard to get out of and there is nothing for teens to do there, he said.

"Teens are not welcome at the shopping center unless they're shopping," he pointed out. The only other places to go are Del Ganado and Oleander parks.

Davis has some ideas for solutions — with a place to go high on the list. He has proposed a coffee house in the vicinity of Northgate to be open on Friday and Saturday nights. The entertainment would make it "at least a little creative."

He has also suggested the adult drama and art groups work with teens in their areas.

Davis said he had almost no adult comment on the summer program and "nothing really enthusiastic. I don't think they're really aware to what extent their teens don't have anything to do."

Noting that using drugs and alcohol, vandalizing property and other problems will occurr if there is nothing for young people to do, he challenged the adults:

"Look at your own community, Terra Linda. What have you done for your teens?"

TERRA LINDA CRITIC — Gary Peter Davis believes a vast potential for good in teen-agers is let go to waste for lack of creative outlets in a repressive society that tells them: "Wait!" The seminarian's views were formed during last summer's recreation program in Terra Linda

Minibus Idea Outlined By Transit Boss

By ROSS DAVIS

Seymour Kashin, general manager of the Marin County Transit District, told the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board yesterday that a mini-bus system might be a good interim transportation solution in the county.

H esaid the tentative proposal, presented to the transit district board only the night before, could relieve the inter-city problem in the county until rapid transit facilities are available.

Transit district directors, however, shelved consideration of such a system for the time being, giving precedence to solving commute problems as urged by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau and other speakers.

Stressing that the system is only one of several his district hopes to present to the county board of supervisors within the next six to nine months, Kashin last night displayed a map which showed minibus routes feeding into San Rafael from Larkspur, San Anselmo, Northgate shopping center, Santa Venetia, Peacock Gap, and Kerner Boulevard at the mouth of the San Rafael Canal.

All but the Santa Venetia bus would run on the half-hour and have immediate transfer in San Rafael, he said. He said the Santa Venetia buses would have a 15-minute wait in San Rafael.

Whether the bus system would be owned by the county or subsidized would be up to the board of supervisors, said Kashin.

Details including fares and location of bus stops could be worked out, said Kashin.

Greyhound buses are not and never have been the solution," he said. He added, "we have to make a decision on how to take our (transportation) resources in Marin County and put them to the best use."

The chamber board agreed to put the matter on the agenda for its meeting at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo for a possible endorsement.

It also unanimously agreed that the city-owned parking lot behind Kaufman's department store, 540 San Anselmo Avenue, should not be considered for the eventual construction of a public safety building by the city.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro has suggested several times that the site be considered, said board president William Franchini.

THE POLITICAL SCENE

Nixon Talks Of European Session

DALLAS (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, predicting he'll "win big" in November, already is thinking about a possibie post-election trip to Europe to meet with allied leaders.

Before flying to Dallas last night from Akron, Ohio, the Republican presidential candidate met with former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, just back from a 20-day fact finding mission to Western Europe on Nixon's behalf.

It was Scranton who disclosed, at a news conference, that Nixon would like preinaugural meeting with leaders of Western Europe should he gain the White House.

Scranton noted that a president-elect has only a few weeks in which to form a new government. But he said Nixon would want to talk personally with as many European leaders as possible, if time permitted and assuming he is election.

Scranton said he would prefer not to have a government post in any Nixon administration—but he did not rule out such a possibility.

He said, "so-called automatic voting habits of past generations are breaking up."

"The rank and file of American labor is rightly resentful of the way some union treasuries are being emptied to support the sagging campaign of an administration that has proven to be a false friend of labor," he added.

Meanwhile Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's communications manager, said late yesterday Nixon will issue a statement in the next few days dealing with the credibility gap and how he hopes to end it.

HUMPHREY

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey said today that he and his running mate, Sen. Edmund G. Muskie, will guarantee the cost of television debates with Richard M. Nixon and Gov. George Wallace.

Humphrey made the proposal a day after Senate Republicans blocked legislation to permit free time for television debates this year—debates Humphrey has counted on to catch up with the front-running Nixon, his Republican opponent for the presidency.

"We have commenced negotiations with one of the networks this morning for an hour of prime time on Sunday night, Oct. 20, with a debate among Mr. Nixon, Gov. Wallace and myself," Humphrey said.

Following the TV debate statement, Norman Sherman Humphey's press secretary, said the candidate had called off a scheduled trip to Cincinnati today because of a mild case of influenza.

Humphrey expressed hope that Nixon and Wallace would share the debate costs. But if they do not, Humphrey added, "We are prepared to pay the entire cost with the help of those Americans who want to see and hear discussion of the vital issues of the campaign."

Nixon so far has not accepted any Humphrey invitations for debate.

Humphrey has said that Nixon feels he is ahead in the race and thus sees no reason for a face-to-face confrontation.

Humphrey proposed that Nixon and Wallace appear with him on two debates, and that Sen. Muskie appear with the opponents' running mates, Gov. Spiro Agnew and retired Gen. Curtis LeMay, in a third debate.

In a separate statement released here, Muskie said, "The decision of Senate Republicans to block debate between the major candidates in this election year is a tragic disservice to the American people."

Earlier, Humphrey said he favored an even more active presidency in the years ahead because "there is so much that needs to be done."

WALLACE

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — George C. Wallace came to the Duluth Arena, which 6,350 people filled to capacity last night, with a bouquet of roses to toss to hecklers.

But there was no heckling.

About 50 or 100 persons walked out early in his speech without fuss. The rest of the audience applauded politely, and at times enthusiastically, but were markedly more restrained than other audiences in recent days.

Consequently, when Wallace came to his customary criticism of the press and singled out his favorite target, the New York Times, an aide delivered a single rose to correspondent Martin Waldron who responded with a bow.

The incident reflected Wallace's bouyant spirits, evident since he completed a two-week swing through the industrial East and Midwest.

In more weighty portions of his speeches in both cities he stressed his pledge to end the Vietnam War militarily with conventional weapons if peace talks fail.

The Wallace campaign was to move today to Fargo, N.D., Casper, Wyo., and Denver, Colo., and in an equally full day tomorrow will go to Salt Lake City, Utah, Boise, Idaho, and Seattle, Wash. Then Wallace tentatively plans to campaign on Sunday—rare for him—with an appearance at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

AGNEW

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew said today that "no candidate within memory has a more dismal record in the field of law enforcement than Hubert Humphrey."

The Republican vice presidential nominee attacked Humphrey in a statement for the third consecutive day, hours before he was to make a speech in Baltimore, first home-state campaign appearance since his nomination.

"Mr. Humphrey's recent conversion to the church of law enforcement—three weeks before the election—is welcome, but it comes four years too late," the Maryland governor said.

Agnew again criticized a remark made by Humphrey in 1966 when the vice president said that if he had to live in slum conditions, "I could lead a pretty good revolt myself."

KENNEDY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, recalling the debate between his late brother John and Richard M. Nixon during the 1960 presidential campaign, says the American people deserve a similar confrontation between the major candidates this year.

In an interview yesterday with the Boston Globe, the Massachusetts Democrat also said he was never a "serious" candidate for the presidency during the political turmoil of the Democratic National Convention.

"It is unfortunate Nixon has failed to speak out with clarity on the issues of the time. I know how much President Kennedy felt the 1960 debates helped to illuminate the philosophies of the two parties," the 36-year-old senator said.

"The people deserve from the candidates a better explanation of the philosophies and approach to these problems by the testing of ideas in discussions and debates than Nixon has been willing to give."

On his political ambitions during the Chicago convention this summer, Kennedy said "there were a lot of reasons, primarly personal" why a race for the presidency was "never a serious question in my mind."

Of third-party candidate George Wallace, Kennedy said he "appeals to the baser and more primitive emotions of the electorate. He insults the intelligence of the voters in Massachusetts and his posture as a champion of the little man is a facade our voters are too intelligent to respect."

RAFFERTY

FRESNO (AP) — U.S. Senate candidate Max Rafferty charged his opponent last night with going up and down California "urging the boycott of California's principal industry—agriculture."

Republican Rafferty shared the stage with Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., at a $25-a-plate dinner in the center of the agriculture-rich San Joaquin Valley.

Rafferty called upon his opponent, Democrat Alan Cranston, to repudiate his "close association with left-wing groups" which Rafferty said were the California Democratic Council, the Americans for Democratic Action and the United World Federalists — "which have supported the grape boycott movement."

In Berkeley earlier yesterday, Rafferty said college campuses are a lot like a "hippie pad and a shooting gallery."

Speaking to the city's Junior Chamber of Commerce, the state superintendent of public instruction said, "We shouldn't permit an ex-convict to go onto a tax supported public campus and voice unspeakable obscenities, because to do so is evil."

Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, who is charged with attempting murder while on parole, spoke this week at the University of California.

"And we shouldn't permit college presidents to tell us that they really can't control this, because the standards of the market place aren't the standards of a university," Rafferty said.

"What we're going to have to have are boards of trustees . . . who will adopt the necessary policies to restore an atmosphere of scholarly learning into our campuses instead of this cross between a brothel, a hippie pad and a shooting gallery," Rafferty said.

Drake Seniors Earn Commendation Notes

Five seniors at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo have qualified for letters of commendation for their performance in the 1968 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, Principal Harold Allison reported.

Johnson Steps Into Ring To Help Team

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has stepped firmly into the presidential campaign, holding up the Democratic ticket as America's best hope for progress and scorning the opposition as reactionary.

In a network radio address last night, sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, Johnson said he had complete faith in the ability of the Democratic nominees to carry forward a progressive domestic program.

"Few men that I have ever known have understood our urgent national needs so well as Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie," Johnson declared.

In contrast, he said, "there is all the difference of daylight and darkness between the Nixon-Agnew Republican record of reaction and recession and the kind of forward-looking leadership that the Humphrey-Muskie ticket offers to you Americans."

As for third-party candidate George Wallace, Johnson said, "Americans are too wise to waste their votes on a false prophet of fear."

It was Johnson's first general statement to the public on the campaign and only his second advertised endorsement. He vowed in withdrawing from candidacy for renomination March 31 he did not intend to spend any time on partisan politics. Subsequent White House explication indicated this applied only to partisan politics in Johnson's own behalf.

The President said the Republican presidential ticket and candidates for Congress had promised to dismantle what had been built under Democratic administrations.

He led into his comments about Wallace by saying there were harsh political voices trying to divide the American people.

"The man who stood at the school house door, defying the law, is now pretending to be the apostle of order," Johnson said of Wallace's attempt to prevent integration at the University of Alabama.

The President devoted most of his talk to domestic issues, but touched briefly on Vietnam and the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

He said while it was regrettable peace had not been achieved in Vietnam, he was confident the Paris conference "ultimately" would produce agreement.

Turning around the Republican slogan, the President said, "Nixon is the one" who cast a tie breaking vote to kill an aid for education bill in the Senate while serving as vice president in the Eisenhower Administration.

He also said "Nixon is the one" who once said Medicare, a program enacted during Johnson's administration, would do more harm than good.

Scholarship Fund Grows For Drake

Sir Francis Drake High School Scholarship Foundation started the 1968-69 school year with funds totaling more than $10,000 invested at 5 per cent interest, reported auditor Phil Kendall of San Anselmo.

The foundation board's president, Mike Convis, reported that more than $2,000 in contributions were received during the last school year in addition to profits from events sponsored by the organization.

"The third annual car and boat show held in May was one of the largest and most diversified shows of its kind in California," Convis said. "About 2,000 people attended, and a net profit of almost $900 was realized."

Four scholarships were awarded at graduation in June, bringing the total number granted by the foundation to 14.

Developments for 1968-69 include the expansion of the board of directors with the election of Mrs. Arlene Toda, Mrs. Pat Houck, and Dr. Gary Boero; the second annual Renox Tour, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 8, and the fourth annual car show in May.

Contributions to the foundation are tax deductible and may be sent to the Drake Scholarship Foundation at the high school, Convis said.

GOP Women Due Miami Report

Mrs. Fairchild of San Rafael, is also chairman of the Marin Republican Central Committee's party-to-people dinner scheduled for 6:30 p.m., Oct. 22, at Corte Madera Recreation Center.

James Marsico, owner of Jim's Gun Shop in Novato and co-chairman of the Novato City Gun Legislation Advisory Committee, will talk about gun legislation.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Allergic Reactions May Change Entirely As Victim Gets Older

VAN DELLEN

The term allergy is from the Greek meaning an "altered capacity to react." The victim develops an exaggerated reaction to a common substance after one or more exposures.

Those with hay fever are overly sensitive to ragweed pollen, the substance found in the air during late August and September. Allergens may be inhaled for years before the sufferer develops symptoms.

THE TISSUE that is affected is called the shock organ. This may be a part of or the entire respiratory tract, the skin, stomach, or any other portion of the body. The nasal membranes and conjunctiva of the eyes are the shock organs among hay fever sufferers. The outcome is nasal congestion, sneezing, and redness of the lids with increased tearing.

Age also plays a role in that an infant may develop an allergy of the skin (atopic dermatitis or exzema) that lasts from 6 months to 5 years. When the skin clears, the shock organ may switch to the lungs causing asthma, or to the nose, causing a condition similar to hay fever.

The reverse also may occur; the baby may begin with a transient asthma and then develop a dermatitis.

ALLERGIC manifestations may not begin for years. At puberty, another shock organ may appear and still another after the menopause.

This is mentioned as a warning to persons with an inherent allergic tendency. They may "grow out of" infantile eczema or asthma, but not the altered capacity to react.

Allergies are complex and treatment is beset with many problems. Some physicians are skeptical about allergies causing vague or indefinite symptoms. Others blame most complaints on a sensitivity to this or that.

Perhaps the most controversial of all is an allergy to food, because tests to pinpoint the culprit are questionable, except by those who believe in them.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

REPAIRING THE SEPTUM

Miss T. writes: I am considering having a deviated septum straightened. But I suffer from hay fever and my family thinks that if the obstruction is removed, more pollen than ever will enter.

REPLY

Your family is in error. Repairing the septum may ease nasal congestion, even that due to hay fever. Since this is an elective procedure, may I suggest that you postpone the operation until the hay fever season is over?

ALTITUDE, ATTITUDE, AND PULSE

K. B. writes: Generally speaking, does climate or attitude have any effect on the pulse rate? I would like to know if living in certain areas can either slow down or step up the pulse.

REPLY

Attitude has more effect than altitude, which I assume you meant. The pulse may quicken temporarily at high altitudes. In addition, the heart works harder when the temperature hits the 100s.

TABOOS FOR ARTHRITICS

A reader writes: I have been told that people who suffer from arthritis should not eat meat, eggs, fish, citrus fruits, or drink tea or coffee. What is your opinion?

REPLY

The only arthritics who need be careful of their diet are those who are obese or gouty.

LUNG HEMORRHAGE

A reader writes: How is a lung hemorrhage stopped?

REPLY

Bleeding usually ceases spontaneously but treatment consists of rest, blood transfusions, and the use of coagulating substances such as vitamin K. It is important to learn what is causing the symptom.

RIGHT ON SCHEDULE

Mr. C. writes: For 10 years I have taken a no-cost laxative. Immediately on arising, every morning, I take a full glass of cold water and coffee with breakfast. I remain as regular as clockwork, and I am 76.

REPLY

Bubbling Excitement On Eve Of Olmypics

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—With a record number of more than 7,500 athletes already on hand, a wave of tourists continued to pour into this now-quiet capital city today on the eve of the opening of the trouble-plagued XIX Olympic Games.

There's plenty of excitement here—but it's the bubbling, fun kind of excitement that goes with the start of a long-waited sports tournament, unlike a week ago when gunfire barked in the streets and more than 33 persons were killed.

The latest count at the Olympic Village was that 7,530 athletes were on hand from 101 nations—both record figures—and watching their every move was a corps of more than 3,000 journalists from all over the world.

ARGUMENTS FADE

Gone now are the months of argument about whether these Olympics would be "fair" because of Mexico City's 7,350-foot altitude; also in the past is the bitter dispute over the disbarment of South Africa because of its racial policies; and quited down now is the last-minute argument about the banning of certain track shoes. Just ahead is the "moment of truth" for the athletes.

Two U.S. teams, basketball and swimming, were a bit unhappy in the closing pre-Olympic hours about the "draw" for their events.

Hank Iba, coach of the U.S. basketball team which finds itself an underdog in an Olympics for the first time, was outspoken about his disappointment with the lineup for the preliminary round of the basketball competition. The Yanks were put in the same section with Yugoslavia, Puerto Rico, and Italy, all considered among the stronger teams.

U.S. PROSPECTS DIM

Yugoslavia recently defeated the U.S. team twice, by margins of 12 and 15 points, on a European tour by the American team. The United States goes into this year's Olympics with the record of never having lost a single game in Olympic competition, let alone failing to win the title. But this year, with many of last year's top college stars already turned pro and this year's college stars tied up with classes, the Yanks are no better than second or third choice.

U.S. swimming coaches were disappointed in the results of the draw for their events, but weren't complaining too much because of their array of stars.

POOR POSITIONS

In swim races run on time, it is considered less advantageous to draw an outside lane, No. 1 or No. 8, because presumably a swimmer in those lanes is slowed slightly by wash from the walls. Also, it is considered less advantageous to be in an early heat—because then a swimmer doesn't know what time he or she has to beat.

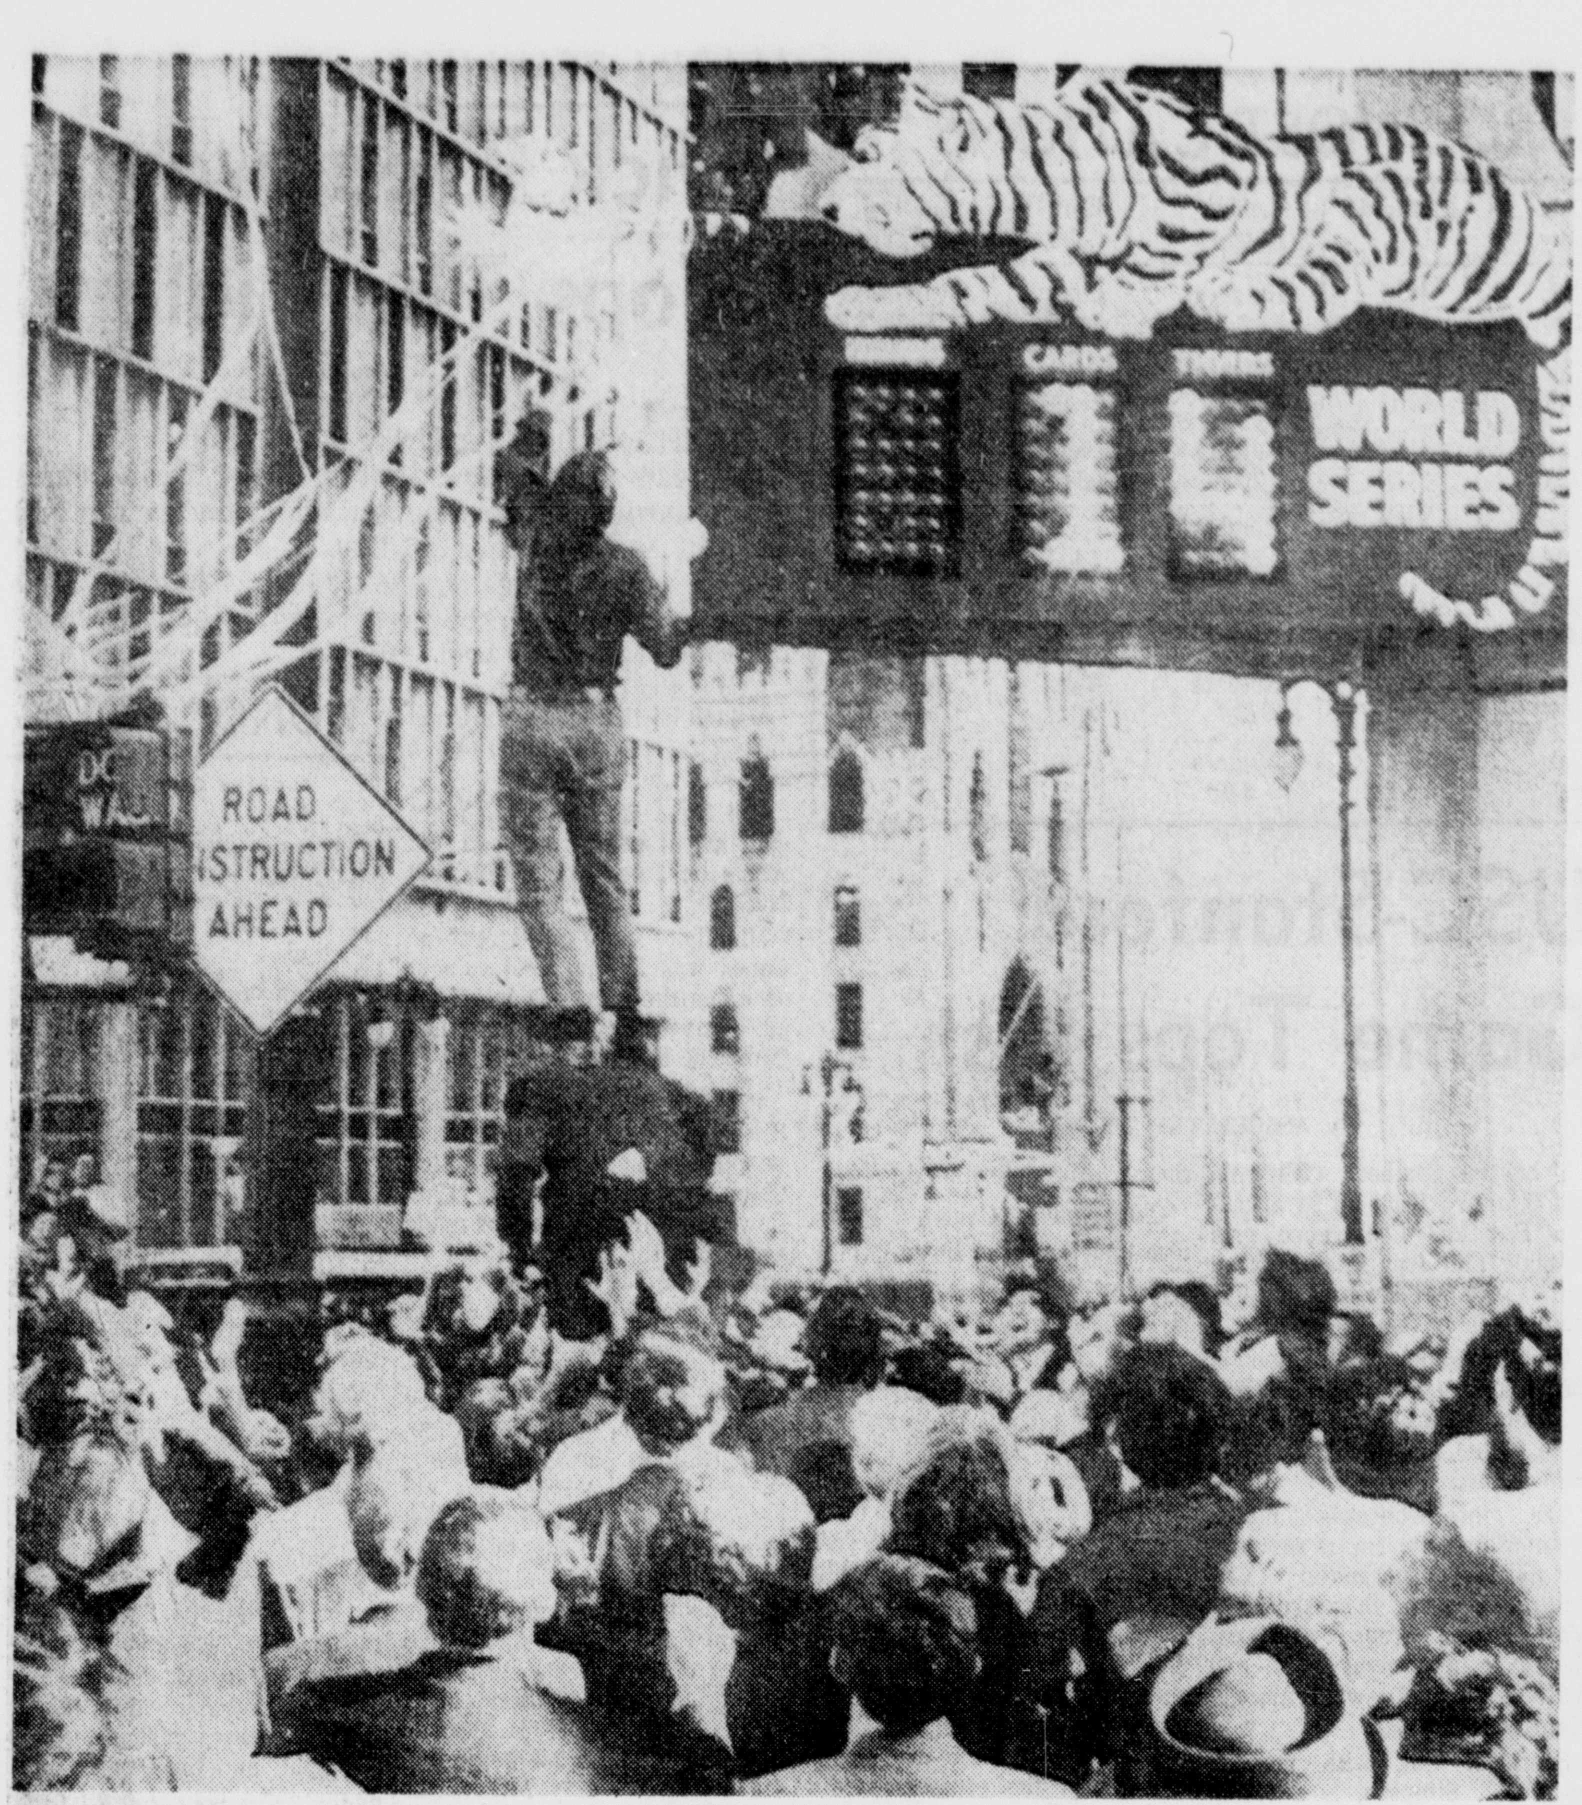
For the first time, the U.S. gave the honor of carrying the American flag in the opening ceremonies—called "The greatest honor the U.S. team can bestow"—to a woman.

She is Mrs. Janice York Romary, a 40-year-old mother-of-two from Woodland Hills, Calif., who will be competing in fencing for her sixth Olympics, more than any other athlete on the U.S. squad. A U.S. official called the selection "fitting" since Mexico has named the first woman in history to carry the Olympic torch.



TIGER GETS THE BIRD — While an inverted bank message signals yesterday's final score of the seventh game of the World Series, a Detroit Tiger fan is boosted to reach a cardboard likeness of a St. Louis Cardinal being stalked by a huge Tiger. DETROIT LETS OFF STEAM

End Of A Long Wait

DETROIT (AP) — "Speech, speech," chanted Detroit Tiger players to Manager Mayo Smith as the team's chartered bus headed for the St. Louis airport from Busch Stadium.

The jubilant Tigers had just become World Series champions by beating Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 in the seventh game.

"You're the greatest, that's all I know," said Smith, his face beet red from joy and indented with the wrinkles of the happiest man of the hour.

The bus pulled away. Players began yelling, "Let's hear it for Jim Northrup." All responded with a loud "Yea."

"Let's hear it for Willie Horton." Another "Yea," resounded in the bus as it passed by St. Louis' famous stainless steel Gateway Arch, which somehow seemed slightly tarnished after the Cardinal loss.

Every player's name was called out and the same response given. Then a round of cheers went to each coach, trainer Bill Behm, the bat boys, team physician Dr. Russell Wright, and even the bus driver.

"Let's hear it for the Gater. We kept him out of there," someone yelled, referring to ace pinch hitter Gates Brown, whose services weren't needed in the 4-1 triumph.

"Everyone thank Jim Northrup for putting that Kryptonite on the mound today," another player shouted. Everyone laughed.

The Superman whose strength came to an end yesterday was Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson, who was almost invincible against Tiger bats in his first two Series outings.

Aboard the chartered DC-8 jet, clowning and jubiliation continued. But it was somewhat subdued. For a while it seemed as if to savor the thought of what they had just done.

Champagne bottles were emptied as fast as the corks were popped.

Pitcher Jon Warden, the only player on either team who didn't see any action in the Series, guzzled one bottle by himself.

Then Warden, a bachelor, got into the act by giving a stewardess a kiss. Everyone cheered. The stewardess staggered away bewildered.

An hour later, the pilot calmly announced: "We just received a report that crowds have overrun Metropolitan Airport and no planes can land. So we are reducing speed and we'll just cruise along and see what to do from here."

Then the plane touched down and the door opened, fans roared.

The other buses managed to make it to Tiger Stadium.

Barren stadium corridors and walls still seemed to echo seven months of the cheers and chants that helped push the Tigers to their first pennant and World Series championship since 1945.

Players began filing off in separate directions, somehow slipping through the crowd.

A large sign on a motel said: "Ya socked it to 'em Tigers." And they had.

San Rafael Gridders In 'Must' Game Against Drake Pirates In Kentfield

Here it is, only a little way into the season, and already San Rafael has a must football game on tap in the Marin County Athletic League.

The Bulldrogs opened league play with a heart-breaking 9-7 loss to co-defending champion Terra Linda and now have to all but win against the other half of the perennial champion set in a game against Drake at College of Marin tomorrow at 2 p.m.

ON RECORD

It's a situation where nobody is taking anything for granted, although the Pirates (2-1) should hold an edge simply by the record.

"They're an excellent ball club," Pirate coach Bob Franceschini said. "They did a great job against Terra Linda last week. They can run, they can throw and if past games against them are any indication, we can expect surprises . . . end arounds, tackle eligibles, you name it."

Franceschini has reason enough to be wary. Enroute to what could have been a clean-cut title, the Pirates inadvertantly stumbled across the Bulldogs and dropped an 18-0 verdict last year.

IMPRESSED

Franceschini was impressed with the work of Bulldog fullback Derek Clark ("great on short yardage situations"), Lowell Widmer ("he's tough on the option") and end Bruce D'Ambra ("hard on to cover on short passes").

The Pirates are fairly well recovered from recent injury problems although halfback Craig Corbett, who would have been a starter, is definitely out for the year after re-injuring his knee. He never did see game action this season. However, Clark Jamison, all-league defensive back last year and a fine receiver, returns to action after missing last week's hectic 19-12 win over Washington. Back also is Bob Sutherland and Jim Vollenweider.

GOOD PASSER

The Pirates' biggest weapon may be steadily improving quarterback Ed Harrington who led the Pirates past Washington with 215 yards passing.

San Rafael coach Bob Muster, still a little glum from last week, points to Drake's record as a good indicator.

"Anybody that plays Vallejo that close (12-8) has something," he said. "They have good speed, lots of depth and good passing."

The Bulldogs (1-2) are healthy and a little bigger in the line and they'll try to go with the quarterback combination of Widmer and sophomore Bruce Nave. Top rusher Tom Penales is doubtful with an ankle sprain but will probably see action.

"The boys felt extremely bad after Terra Linda," Muster said. "But I think we're coming out of it. I knew we would make mistakes early in the season, and we paid the price."

Redwood, Novato Vie In Prep Grid Biggie

Redwood's roving ambulance run and Novato's rambling road-runners roll into each other for a football rumble tomorrow at sunny Novato at 2 p.m. and the winner could very well claim a sort of heir apparent role in the Marin County Athletic League grid race.

Especially if the Hornets win.

The Hornets are the only unbeaten, untied team in the MCAL, and if they dispose of the crippled Giants handily, they can make believers out of any last remaining doubters.

The job may not be easy, even though there is a faint whiff of bandages and wailing from the Redwood camp.

The Giants, along with the Hornets, had the best on-paper squads prior to season's starts, with flocks of returning veterans to make up solid first squads.

But Redwood, after a herky-jerky win over Palo Alto, was steamrollered by Riordan, then came back for an unconvincing win over hapless Crestmoor.

"We held our practices at Marin General," Giant coach Bob Troppmann quipped painfully. "We have six first stringers in various stages of injuries."

Pete Richter, the big fullback who may be the key to Giants' hopes this year, is still doubtful, reinjuring a rib against Crestmoor. Gary Kazprazak will only be playing defense. Receiver Jeff Konopisos suffered torn ligaments while tripping over wire at College of Marin last week. Steve Dorinson has a severe charley horse and tackle Rick Simpson, fullback Reb Minutili, and center Pat Curley, have had bouts with the flu.

"They have the best offense I've seen in years up there," he said. "Dillon (Russ) is an excellent quarterback. I like the way he runs the club. And they have outstanding backs. They'll be tough to defense."

If, however, the Giants are healthy, they could put up a battle. Especially if Jim Peters is ready and raring to throw the way he did last year.

Novato has some injury problems also, most notably Pat Greene, the loop's top scorer with 38 points. He has a sore leg and has been whirlpooling it.

Defensive halfback Jim Morrow is also out and his place will be taken by Steve Stanley.

Britain Takes Team Golf Lead

MELBOURNE (AP) — Michael Bonallack shot a course record-breaking 66 as Britain swept into the lead today in the third round of the Eisenhower Trophy competition for the World Team Amateur Golf Championship.

Bonallack fired a seven-under-par round at the Royal Melbourne links to knock the United States out of the lead.

TWO STROKES

The U.S. team had a two-stroke advantage over Britain after the second round but the Britishers moved in front by seven strokes today. Britain fashioned a 207 for a 640 aggregate while the Americans carded a 216 for a 647 total.

Marvin Giles of Lynchburg, Va., had the best score among the U.S. team with a 71 while Jack Lewis of Florence, S.C., fired a 72. Bruce Fleisher of Miami and Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., shot 73s.

The fourth and last round of the tourney, in which the three best scores of four players on each day count for aggregate, will be played tomorrow.

CLICKING

Bonallack, smiling after he safely two-putted the 18th for the record 66, went two strokes better than the previous best set by Kevin Donohoe of Australia and Giles.

"Everything was clicking very well," said Bonallack. "It was the most satisfying round I have ever had and it came at the right time."

Bonallack said, "We will play Saturday as we played today-we would be dead if we tried to play safe—and we are not accepting it as being all over."

Top Drivers Competing In Monterey

MONTEREY (UPI) — Bruce McLaren, accompanied by some of the world's other fastest drivers, took shots at his track record today when qualifying began for Sunday's $80,000 Monterey Grand Prix.

It marks the fourth stop in the six-race Canadian-American Challenge Cup series which finds Dennis Hulme of New Zealand holding down first place one point ahead of America's Mark Donohue. McLaren of New Zealand is third and Jim Hall of Midland, Tex., fourth.

Last year, 13 drivers cracked Hall's record during the qualifying on the nine turn, 1.9 mile track at Laguna Seca. McLaren had the fastest time of the group, roaring over the asphalt in 1:02.69 at an average speed of 109 miles per hour.

McLaren, driving a car of his own manufacture, is expected to lead the charge on his own mark. Hulme also drives a McLaren while Donohue tools one of Roger Penske's McLaren-Chevvies.

Hall, the Texas millionaire who revolutionized the sports car circuit with an automatic drive a couple of years ago, may unveil a new model at this competition.

After today's qualifying, a $12,000 formula Grand Prix national championship race will be held tomorrow. The 152 mile Canadian American race follows on Sunday.

Astros Trade Giusti, Adlesh To Cardinals

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros traded pitcher Dave Giusti and catcher Dave Adlesh today to the St. Louis Cardinals for catchers John Edwards and Tommy Smith.

In announcing the trade, Astros General Manager H.B. Richardson said "we feel Edwards is the kind of catcher we really need."

In St. Louis, the Cardinals confirmed the trade. It was expected the Cardinals also would confirm later today that outfielder- first baseman Bob Tolan and relief pitcher Wayne Granger were sent to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for veteran outfielder Vada Pinson.

Edwards, 30, has a lifetime major league batting mark of .245 during an eight-year career, seven with Cincinnati.

Edwards, a National League all-star three times, battled .239 with three home runs and 29 RBI last season with St. Louis.

Giusti, 28, has a 47-54 lifteme record in six years with Houston. He was 10-15 with a 3.19 earned run average this past season.

Smith is the brother of Cincinnati coach and former Cardinal catcher Hal Smith. He hit .221 with five home runs with three clubs in the Pacific Coast League last year.

Adlesh, 25, has been a part-time catcher with Houston since 1963 and batted .183 in 40 games this year with Houston.

Richardson said Edwards "is a great handler of pitchers, has a good arm, is a clutch hitter and a winning type player.

"We've felt all along we needed a catcher and some outfield help to challenge for our division next year. "We have the catcher. Now, we'll start trying to get the outfield help."

"We hated to lose a pitcher of Giusti's caliber. "He's not only a good pitcher, but an outstanding person."

SERIES HERO LOLICH WINS AUTOMOBILE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers was named the winner of the annual Sport Magazine World Series Award yesterday as the outstanding player of the World Series.

Lolich was selected by the magazine's editors as the player who "through his overall play in the World Series did the most for his team." He will be given a Dodge Charger at a luncheon later.

Bob Gibson, loser to Lolich in Thursday's seventh game, won the car in both 1964 and 1967.

NHL Shaken By Hull's Retirement

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Hockey League has been shaken—from President Clarence Campbell and its hierarchy, to club owners, and to fandom—by Bobby Hull's announced retirement.

The Golden Jet played 11 seasons with the Chicago Black Hawks, scoring 414 goals. Six times he topped the NHL in goals scored and three times he scored 50 or more in a single season.

The exciting 29-year-old master of the whizzing puck—one of the game's all-time greats—was the league's No. 1 showpiece and crowd attraction.

Absence of the superstar will be felt not only to the roots of the Black Hawks' organization but also could be reflected at the gate throughout the expanded circuit.

All this could be a wedge by Hull in a salary rift. He planned his announcement yesterday as a jolt to the hockey empire. And it was coming on the eve of the opening of the NHL season with three games tonight.

Chicago was at home to St. Louis, Detroit at Boston and Minnesota at Oakland.

Hull's announcement came one hour before he was to have met with Hawk General Manager Tommy Ivan and Campbell, who was to arbitrate the salary dispute.

Blockhead Bowl In Terra Linda

The Drake Junior Pirates and the Redwood Junior Giants will battle it out for the symbolic "blockhead" in the Pop Warner-Marin Boys Club Blockhead Bowl at Terra Linda tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Drake is undefeated in three games this year while Redwood is 2-1. Admission is free.

SEDAN WAGON

The Renault 16 Sedan-Wagon can go to bat for you as a sedan or a station wagon. Depending on which one you need.

When you need a station wagon, it's a station wagon with practically enough room in the back to be a small moving van. When you don't, it's a sedan with a trunk behind the back seat.

It can get 28 miles to the gallon. Has front wheel drive. Independent suspension. Seats so comfortable they've been compared to those in the Mercedes-Benz 600 (they even recline for sleeping). And it costs only $2495.00

Marin Catholic Halfback Wins Prep Of Week Honor

By GARY TISCHLER

Just try and find Jim O'Brien at a football game.

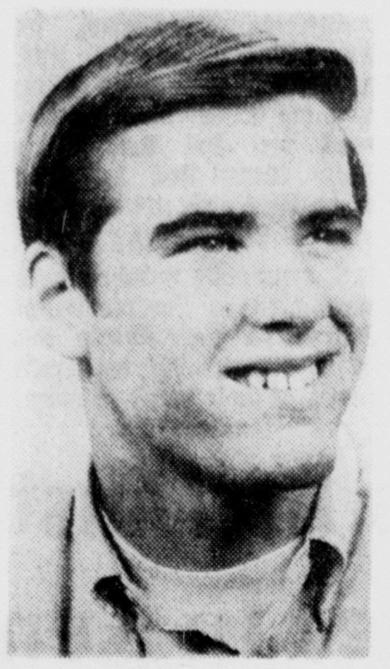
They'll tell you he went that-a-way in a hurry. Don't ask any visiting teams; they're still looking for him.

O'Brien is a halfback at Marin Catholic High School where winning seasons are as scarce as youngsters at a Wallace rally.

But maybe not this year, and the reason just may be this young boy who at any moment may simply disappear when he's got the ball. Next stop: A considerable distance down the field, more than likely the end zone.

For the record, Mr. O'Brien has scored four touchdowns, jelled for 565 yards in 71 carries. Against Piner High of Santa Rosa last week, he had a Jim-dandy night, gaining 268 yards, scoring three times, once on a 93-yard run as Marin Catholic won, 24-13. That little job gained O'Brien the Independent-Journal's first "Prep of the Week" honor of the young season.

Time-wise, O'Brien would not seem to be overly fast (10.4 seconds in the 100). But it must seem like 9.3 to the opposition.



JIM O'BRIEN
Exciting runner

He is that rare kind of ballplayer that brings an extra bit of excitement to a ballgame, that feeling that any second now anything can happen.

He brought the Wildcats out of the offensive doldrums against San Rafael last month when he broke loose on an 82-yard scamper for a touchdown that turned the game into an explosive 33-25 scoring romp, won by the Bulldogs and lost by the 'Cats in honorable fashion.

O'Brien seems totally unruffled by his accomplishments. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Brien Jr. of 575 Thyme Place, San Rafael, has some simple explanations for his achievements.

"When I'm in a hurry, I just go faster," he said. "You just look for someplace to go. The pressure speeds you up, too."

"I think I'm maybe a little faster than Jim," O'Brien said. "But he has more power, is bigger and hits hard."

Either way, both are hard to bring down or catch.

As far as the future is concerned, O'Brien came up with what must be good news for Wildcat coach Joel Kiff and is also something of an understatement.

"I just hope I can keep doing what I've been doing," he said.

Tommy Davis On Injured Waiver List

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers announced yesterday that they were placing veteran placekicker Tommy Davis on the injured waiver list and activating rookie Dennis Patera to take his place.

Davis has been bothered by a sprained right knee. The club said no decision had been made about a trade or cut that would make room for running back Doug Cunningham, whom Coach Dick Nolan said he would activate for the game here against the Baltimore Colts Sunday.

USC-Stanford Game Tops List

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unbeaten Southern California and Stanford hook up in a critical Pacific-8 Conference grid struggle and four intersectional games are scheduled for their loop brothers this weekend.

Oregon is at Washington in the second conference tilt and it is something of a must for both teams, each with conference records of 0-1.

The intersectionals match Penn State, the No. 3 team in the nation, at unranked UCLA, California with the Army at West Point, Oregon State at Kentucky in a night game and Washington State with Arizona State at Tempe.

Southern Cal, with running back O.J. Simpson, is a touchdown favorite over Stanford's finest team in at least a decade. But the host Indians hope to ambush the Trojans on the throwing arm of sophomore Jim Plunkett, the second leading passer in the Pacific-8. The game, in Stanford Stadium, begins at 1:30 p.m.

Stanford's three victims, San Jose State—idle this week—Oregon and the Air Force, may not rate with Southern Cal's fallen foes, Minnesota, Northwestern and Miami of Florida.

"It's an excellent Stanford team, the best in 10 years," said USC Coach John McKay, who added the Indians' blocking line was better than Miami's and Coach John Ralston's offense may be the best his team has played.

Syracuse knocked UCLA out of the top rankings last Saturday and the Bruins appear headed for continued harassment from Penn State. The game is the sixth and last of the series and Penn State, winner of one, will be gunning for revenge.

Most of UCLA's problems can be explained in two words—Bill Bolden. The big junior quarterback was injured in the first game of the fall with Pittsburgh and has been sidelined since.

Whether Bolden is ready for action, or whether Coach Tommy Prothro wants to use him in a nonconference game, remains to be determined.

California's Golden Bears, also undefeated in three games, have yet to meet a conference rival. They are a short favorite to trim Army in their first visit to West Point.

Oregon State, which surged from behind in the second half to whip Washington last week, is generally picked to beat Kentucky. This is the first meeting between the two schools.

Coach Dee Andros' Beavers, with quarterback Steve Preece showing the way, were most impressive in downing Washington. OSU is 2-1 for the season and 1-0 in the conference.

Washington, 1-1-1, merits the role of favorite over Oregon, 0-3 and 0-1, while Washington State and Arizona State should provide a wing-dinger of a game. The Cougars' quarterback, Jerry Henderson, leads the conference in passing.

Double Tournament At Las Gallinas

The Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club put on a double tourney yesterday with Mrs. G. W. Risdon taking low gross honors and Mrs. Sam Cala winning low net in the handicap championship.

In the Cala-Smoot tourney, Mrs. Jack Goodall and Mrs. W. G. Risdon finished one-two in Class A with net totals of 56 and 59, respectively. Mrs. Smoot won Class B with a net 57 and three way tie at 62 developed in Class C with Mesdames Lewis Garat, M. E. Schutte, and John Siebler all carding the same net total.

MARIN BOWLING

By RALPH CHATOIAN

That guy Dick Treadway did it again.

Treadway, veteran secretary of the Marin County Men's Bowling Association, led all scores for the past week of Marin County bowling.

He rolled games of 220, 236 and 236 again for a mighty fine series of 692. That was in the 910 Travel League at Country Club Bowl.

Also in the Travel league, Lou Eastland bowled a 268 game and 673 series, and Orlando Conti a 255-645.

Bill Nave III had a big night at Nave Lanes, rolling a 661 series on games of 229-222 and 210.

Highlight score at Greenbrae Lanes was Sylvia Knutson's 01 series in the Marin County Mixed Travel League. She had games of 190, 208 and 203.

PICKIN' 'EM UP — Deanne Brady was beaming about the 4-10 split she picked up in the Blue Chip League at Country Club Bowl . . . Harrison Phillips made good on the very difficult 4-6 split in the 840 Scratch at Nave Lanes. . . When Lou Liberati rolled a 603 series at Greenbrae Lanes it was his first time over the 600 mark. . . In the Merry Mixers League at Country Club, Paul Giuliani picked up the 4-7-10 and George Wigner was top man with a 235 line. . . Bill Henderson had a big 680 series in the 905 Classic at Country Club, his high game going at 250. . . Jim Fust, 151 average, rolled games of 212-219 and 192 for a 623 series in the 670 Scratch. . . In the 820 Scratch, 161 average Bill Raudio had a 224 game and 610 series. . . Ray Miller was star of the Lutheran Late League at Country Club, 256 game and 621 series.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Paul Panholzer, desk man at Nave Lanes, went way up to a 268 game. . . Terry DeYoung, another desk man at Nave's place rolled a 279 game and 673 series at Sports Center Bowl in San Francisco . . . What the little ones are doing at Country Club Bowl? Well, Tony Trowbridge and Nancy McPherson were the best in the Bantam Division with 312 series scores for two games, and Mike Piver was best of the Pee Wees, the 6-year-old youngster rolling a 116 game and then a 97. . . In the Marin Mixed Travel, Karen Williams converted the 6-7-10 and Bob Helton, 128 avg., bowled a 210. . . Phyllis DeSilva (136 avg.) rolled a 526 in the Jacks and Jills and Pam Luby (128 avg.) a 501, her first 500 ever.

Lack Of Restocking Due To Heat, Low Water Level

STEVENS

A postcard in the morning's mail contains the following query: "You have made no mention of where catchable trout have been planted. How come?"

The "how come" is simply that high temperatures and falling water levels during late summer have brought restocking in the central coastal region waters to an end.

ANOTHER QUERY by a dove hunter is answered: "I have been told that I must retain a fully feathered wing on each of my dressed doves. Is that true?"

The answer is no, if the bird is killed in California, but each bird killed in Arizona and Mexico requires a fully feathered wing if imported from Arizona or Mexico.

BLACK BASS and catfish are being taken in fairly large quantities at Clear Lake, according to Don's Bait House at Clear Lake Highlands. Cats generally are running a bit on the small side. The great run of spawning crappies has slackened off due to the move into deep water.

Lake Berryessa has yielded some dandy strings of crappies and anglers who know their fishing in Berryessa are scoring high.

A REPORT from Jim Rhoads of the Klamath River Guide Service is very interesting. It follows verbatim: "Happy Camp Area: Klamath lowest in 64 years. Very low and clear. Water temperatures have dropped considerably due to recent showers and cool nights that have brought snow in the higher elevations.

"My parties of two to a boat are still averaging 25 to 35 hookups per day, with one boat as high as 45. This is not counting the lost fish or the misses. We are now getting big fish (four and five pounds) each day with the majority of fish still in the half-pounder class. All are being taken on lures or flies. Best lures: one-quarter and one-third ounce silver Little Jewel. Top fly: No. 4 and 6 Silver Hilton. Night crawlers also doing well. A few fish (Steelhead, of course) going six and eight pounds taken this week, with a few still larger fish showing in the area. Weather: Warm days and much cooler nights of around 50 degrees."

THE PUZZLE of the week — What is keeping the ordinarily avid anglers away from the open water of the ocean and a trolling trip after salmon? It can't be because of lack of fish. Only two boats went out of Caruso's Sausalito headquarters. The Sea Sport boated 14 salmon to 25 pounds, and the Jennie C came back with 9 limits. Best action off Rocky Point.

Minnie Caruso reported some action with private boats live-bait fishing in the Racoon Strait and environs.

$25,000 Added Race Tomorrow

SAN MATEO (AP)—A field of 11 horses, headed by Elmendorf's Skookum and Forked Lightning Ranch's Deck Hand, will compete tomorrow in the 25th running of the $25,000-added Tanforan Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Skookum is high weight for the 1⅛-mile test at 121 pounds. Deck Hand will carry 120 pounds. Willie Harmatz will ride Skookum and Don Pierce is Deck Hand's jockey.

Skookum recently equalled the track record for 1 1-16 miles of 1:40 2-5 in winning the Leland Stanford Handicap and then lost last Saturday to Baffle, which lowered the record to 1:39 4-5.

Terra Linda, Tam Take On 'Outsiders'

While four teams engage in Marin County Athletic League warfare, Terra Londa and Tamalpais try to keep their non-league records unblemished and add some more prestige to the MCAL banners.

The Trojans, 2-0-1, take on one-man Poly of San Francisco at San Rafael High at 8 o'clock tonight while the Indian combo of Brown-Mackin travel to Burlingame for a duel with Mills (0-2) at 4:30 today.

Terra Linda, with a 33-0 win over Santa Rosa and a 21-21 tie with tough South San Francisco to show in two non-league encounters, will have to keep its eyes on one man and he's a champ.

That's Kerry Hampton, the high school hurdles champion in last year's state track and field meet, and Poly's chief offensive threat, when he gets a little blocking.

BIG PLAY

Hampton can go and the big play is a draw play to, surprise, Hampton, But Poly, nevertheless is 0-2.

The Indians, 2-0 in non-league play with 45-20 and 19-13 wins over Salesian and Skyline, respectively, will be trying to bounce back from an 26-18 defeat at the hands of Novato last week.

'New Look' Seals Open Slate Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals, revamped from front office to front lines, open their National Hockey League season tonight at 8 o'clock against the Minnesota North Stars.

The Seals are confident they can erase memories of the 1967-68 season, their first, when they finished far at the bottom of the NHL's expansion West Division with 15 victories, 42 defeats and 17 ties.

With a new management, a new general manager, a new coach and more new players than holdovers, the Seals were the terror of the exhibition season. They won six games and tied two without a loss.

"Exhibition wins are nice," General Manager Frank Selke, Jr., said yesterday "but they don't count a single point in the standings. We start collecting points tonight."

Selke, president of the club last year, moved over to the front office job as a trio that owns the Harlem Globetrotters basketball club assumed ownership of the Seals: John O'Neil, Jr., of Miami and Potter Palmer and George Gillett of Chicago.

The new manager of the club is Fred Glover, who moves in after 15 years with Cleveland of the American Hockey League, the last six as player-coach.

Sometimes It Wise To Praise Fine Play Whatever The Motive

How do you feel when you see a rival do the right thing for the wrong reason? Do you expose him? Or do you praise him, hoping for the same treatment some day for as poor a reason?

Opening lead — ♠ Q

DANGER SIGN

South won the first trick with the king of spades and saw the danger of a block in the clubs. To avoid this, South planned to play his three high cards on the first three club tricks, saving the deuce to reach dummy's clubs later. South therefore led the ten of clubs, intending to win with dummy's king.

Since South was not compelled to state his reasons for leading the ten, West couldn't tell that declarer intended to play dummy's king. West should have played low to give South his chance to make a mistake. But it is hard to blame West for covering the ten of clubs with the jack.

SEES THE LIGHT

Declarer duly played dummy's king of clubs, and East's diamond discard woke him up. Suddenly South saw that the ten of clubs was a fine play, provided that he inteded to let it ride as a finesse, since it guarded him against four clubs in the West hand.

The rest was easy. Declarer returned the three of clubs from dummy and played the seven from his hand. West took the nine of clubs and led the jack of spades to the ace.

LEADS CLUB

Now South led the eight of clubs for a finesse through West's Q-5. Whether West covered or played low, declarer was sure to get three more club tricks and his contract.

When you get up from your chair and find that people follow you to victory, never admit that you got up merely because your underwear was too tight.

♠ Q J 10 9 6
♦ 5 4
♣ Q J 9 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Despite fine trump support this is a very poor hand. For a jump to four spades you should have good playing thrength. Change a heart or a diamond to a club, and you would consider a jump to four spades.

Excess Sun Worship May Cause Cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A University of California Medical Center dermatologist warns that excessive exposure to the sun can lead to skin cancer.

The ravages wrought by chronic exposure to the sun—dryness, loss of elasticity, thickening and a yellowish or blotchy brown color—are often irreversible, said Dr. Howard I. Maibach.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct. 11, the 285th day of 1968 with 81 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1811, the world's first steam-driven ferry started a run between New York City and Hoboken, N.J.

In 1868, Thomas Edison filed papers for his first invention, an electoral vote recorder.

In 1945, Chinese leader Chiang Kai-Shek and Communist Chieftain Mao Tse-Tung pledged mutual desires for peace and unity. The Communists took over China four years later under Mao.

In 1962, Pope John XXIII opened the second session of the Ecumenical Council with a plea for Christian unity.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Transamerica - Metromedia Plan To Merge Gets Board Approval

The respective boards of Transamerica Corp. and Metromedia Inc. have approved an agreement in principal to merge the two companies.

Under the agreement, Transamerica would exchange three-quarters of a share of its common stock for each outstanding share of Metromedia common. On Wednesday Transamerica proposed a two-for-one stock split. If approved by stockholders the exchange would become one and one-half shares of Transamerica stock for each share of Metromedia. The transaction would involve a stock value of approximately $300 million.

Transamerica Corp., a diversified service organization, has major interests in insurance, finance, entertainment and land-related and business services.

Metromedia, Inc., a communications and marketing complex, has interests in television and radio broadcasting, outdoor and transit advertising, publishing, entertainment, television film production and other enterprises.

WORLD AIRWAYS, INC. chairman and president Edward J. Daly has agreed to exchange his 80.5 per cent of the stock of the Oakland-based charter airline for INA Corp., holding company of Insurance Co. of North America. World Airways recently acquired most of the stock of First Western Bank and Trust Co. for $63 million. The INA-World Airways transaction should come to more than $300 million.

UNION LUMBER CO. San Francisco directors and directors of Boise Cascade Corp. have approved a merger of Union into Boise Cascade. Under the agreement each share of Union's stock would be exchanged for approximately 2.3 shares of Boise Cascade's common stock. Union is a California redwood tree farming and redwood products manufacturing company. Boise Cascade is an international forest products firm.

AMERICAN BUILDING MAINTENANCE INDUSTRIES, San Francisco, has completed acquisition of all outstanding stock of General Elevator Corp. in exchange for 30,000 shares of its own common stock. Theodore Rosenberg of San Rafael, chairman of American Building Maintenance, said up to 21,000 additional shares of ABMI could be issued to the sellers contingent upon future earnings performance.

E. F. CLEMENTS CO. INC., a closely held San Francisco importer and distributor of souvenir and novelty wares, may be acquired by the specialty industries division of Amtel, Inc., Providence, R. I. Amtel formed its special industries division last month after acquiring Goldfarb Novelty Co. and its subsidiary New England Doll and Novelty Co. The company's five other divisions manufacture components for aircraft, automotive, electronics, chemical, machine tool and other industries.

SSI COMPUTER CORP., San Francisco computer leasing company, has acquired Inter Container in exchange for its common stock. SSI currently is in registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission with a primary offering of approximately 400,000 shares of its common stock. Inter Container operates throughout the Pacific where it leases containers and maintains service facilities in Japan, Taiwan and on the U. S. West Coast.

B. T. Babbitt, Inc., New York City, will purchase from Dunhill International Inc. its 54 per cent common stock interest in American Bank Note Co. The purchase is being made for investment purposes. Arrangements are also being made to purchase an additional block of shares which will bring Babbitt holdings to 63 per cent of the common stock outstanding.

SONY CORP. OF AMERICA has re-elected Akio Morita to succeed Ernest B. Schwarzenbach, who died last month. Morita was president of the American subsidiary of Sony Corp. of Tokyo until 1966, when Schwarzenbach was named to the post. Morita will continue as chairman of the board of the American corporation.

Downturn Partly Is Canceled

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today as selective improvement gradually modifed a mild downturn.

Trading was moderately active throughout the session but much less than on Thursday's busy session.

Prices near the close included:

Lionel, up ⅞ at 9⅞; St. Regis Paper, up 5¼ at 43½; RCA, off 1¾ at 49; Northwest Industries preferred, off 6 at 108; Roan Selection Trust, up ⅝ at 10⅝; Great Western Financial, up 1 at 25⅛; Madison Square Garden, off ½ at 11¾; IBM, off 5 at 32½; and Studenbaker-Worthington, up 2 at 59¼.

C.I.T. Financial was active and dropped a point. Xerox, less active, rose about 2½.

Utility Stocks Excellent Buys In Growing Areas

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We're in our late 30s and very conservative investors. We know we should buy growth stocks but have always settled for income instead. Have you any suggestions on investing the $10,000 we now have available? — G. D.

A. A carefully selected package of electric utility issues, representing areas of the country where population growth should prove most rapid, would be suitable for a conservative investor. The utilities have over-all an enviable record of earnings and dividend increases but, because higher yields have been available elsewhere, the group has been in disfavor. As a consequence earnings multiples peaked out in the mid-60s and many fine growth utilities are obtainable today at reasonable levels.

The five companies reviewed below have been selected primarily for their strategic geographic locations and secondly for their growth records over the past decade. Each, with a history of annual dividend increases, currently provides an adequate yield.

Delmarva Power & Light furnishes electricity and gas to commercial, residential and industrial customers in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Over the last 10 years earnings growth has been uninterrupted, averaging over 10 per cent year to year.

Gulf States Utilities, serving Texas and Louisiana where oil and chemical industries predominate, is predicting a 12 per cent long-range compound annual growth rate. Because of a greater number of common shares outstanding and increased preferred dividend requirements, a slowdown may be seen this year.

Long Island Lighting operates both in densely settled sections and also in Suffolk County where population should expand at an above-average rate.

Nevada Power, serving an area where two-thirds of the homes are all-electric, should benefit from continued government-sponsored building programs for space and nuclear projects.

Public Service of Colorado is expected to maintain its 10 per cent annual growth rate, particularly since its largest single customer — American Metal Climax — has opened a new mining operation.

Equal dollar amounts placed in these five issues should enhance your capital over the next decade while producing a moderate return.

Press Freedom Periled Within Its Own Ranks

A free press can exist only in a free country, and a country cannot remain free without a free presss.

These are provable truisms.

It is therefore particularly unfortunate — we may even say reprehensible — when a segment of the press seeks special treatment which threatens the freedom of competitors.

SUCH SPECIAL treatment is proposed in Senate Bill 1312. This measure, also called the "Newspaper Preservation Act," is now in the hands of the Senate Judiciary Committee after being reported out with a 5-to-4 favorable vote by its antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

The "Newspaper Preservation Act" would exempt from the laws against price-fixing and profit pooling a certain class of newspaper mergers. The exemption would go to papers that merge their printing, advertising and circulation under a joint company, while retaining separate editorial identities.

This is a device that has been rather widely used in metropolitan centers as the influence of the "metro" press has declined in concert with the rise of newspapers in sub-metropolitan cities. It was used in San Francisco in the creation of the Newspaper Printing Co. to produce the Examiner and Chronicle.

THE EXEMPTION from price-fixing and profit pooling is sought on the pretense that such an arrangement may be necessary to prevent newspapers from disappearing from publication (which it did not do) incidentally, in San Francisco, where the afternoon News-Call-Bulletin disappeared in the process).

Such a merger gives one company a local monopoly under which it sets advertising and subscription rates at any figures it pleases, for the advertising buyer and the public have no place to turn. The Justice Department has been looking askance at this — as well it might. And so the "Newspaper Preservation Act" is sought to make unquestionably legal what might be prosecuted as restraint of trade.

THE EFFECT is twofold: Advertising rates are pegged so high in the monopoly city that stores having suburban branches must cut back their advertising in suburban papers. This gives the suburban papers less money with which to better their product.

And in the monopoly city, the competition between the "independent" editorial offices becomes more and more artificial, so that readers there are denied some of the benefits of press freedom.

THE "NEWSPAPER Preservation Act" is given little chance for passage in its present form. But it is expected that it may be tacked on as an amendment to some unrelated bill.

Vigilance is necessary to prevent this. And the vigilance of senators is increased when they hear from their constituents.

The people thus have the opportunity to play a role in protecting the free press which in turn helps to keep them free.

Fastest Growing

Of all Marin's growing things, the bamboo undoubtedly makes the most rapid growth. Some kinds of bamboo grow more than a foot a day during the height of the growing season.

There are dozens of varieties of bamboo. Although it is usually thought of as a semi-tropical plant, many kinds do quite well here in the gardens of Marin. Seemingly, there is a bamboo for every purpose.

Those of us with ties to the Far East particularly enjoy a plant or two in the garden. In that portion of the globe bamboo plays an important part in everyday life, having a multitude of uses.

Attorney General Twists Law To Permit Secret Negotiations

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When the state Legislature adopted the Ralph M. Brown Act some years ago, and when it subsequently adopted other measures involving the public's right to know, it was with the firm intention of letting the public in on matters of government which heretofore had been kept from scrutiny by anyone other than officials.

Ever since the act was adopted, ways have been sought by public bodies to continue the pastime of conducting public business in private, thereby retaining the management of government unto themselves.

IT WAS FELT by many that with the passage of years, perhaps these government officials might learn a lesson: it being that the government belongs to the people of California, and its conduct should be a matter for the people to know.

However, lessons come hard. The pressure still is on to keep the people from knowing about some of the conduct of their own government, as evidenced in an opinion handed down by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch for Albert C. Beeson, director of the state Department of Industrial Relations.

Beeson asked, "Is there any way, without amending the Ralph M. Brown Act, that our conciliators can advise public bodies that they may discuss or negotiate in private rather than in a public hearing?"

The attorney general replied: "We assume that such negotiations or discussions are to be conducted by at least a quorum of the board and that such negotiations have reached a point where a conciliator has intervened as authorized by law.

"We conclude that under such circumstances, public bodies may discuss or negotiate in private, without an amendment to the Ralph M. Brown Act."

SPECIFICALLY, the Brown Act requires that deliberations and actions by public bodies "shall be open and public." It contains no exception for negotiations in private with a state labor conciliator.

But regardless of these specific provisions, the attorney general holds that once a state conciliator has intervened in proceedings, private discussions may be conducted "by virtue of the privilege attached to the records of the department" which are held by law not to be subject to public view.

The attorney general bases his opinion on the holding of Sacramento County Superior Court in the case of the Sacramento Newspaper Guild vs. Sacramento County supervisors. The court held that a public body should enjoy the same secrecy as private bodies in the lawyer-client relationship.

If such an exception is to be made, it would appear it is the duty of the state Legislature to write that exception into the law, rather than have law created by legalistic opinions which twist the Brown Act into a mockery of the original intent of the Legislature.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Denial Of License For Club Protested

We were dismayed to read in the Independent-Journal that the Sausalito Planning Commission denied a permit for a restaurant with entertainment to the Lion's Share.

We have found the entertainment at this small club to be on a par with that of some of the best spots in San Francisco. Nationally known folk singers, such as Jack Elliott, have been featured, and quite recently, John Stuart and Buffy Ford performed there before going to an engagement at the famous Hungry I.

We sincerely hope that the planning commission will reconsider their decision.

Realty Men Not United On Prop. 9

Your editorial of Oct. 2 on the Watson Amendment (Proposition 9) might have given your readers the impression that ALL real estate brokers are for "Yes on 9," which is certainly not so. As a realtor, I serve on the Tiburon Sanitary District Board of Governors and the record will show that at our meeting on Sept. 3, I urged the board to take "no" position on this proposition. The matter was tabled, presumably for further study.

I serve as a member of the California Real Estate Association's legislative committee's sub-committee on taxation. Our committee heard testimony in Sacramento in March . . . and again in San Diego in June . . . the subcommittee recommended a "no" or "no position" on this measure to the legislative committee. This committee adopted our recommendations which was passed on up to the executive committee who, also, adopted our report. This report was unacceptable, however, by the board of directors, whereupon a motion for CREA to support Proposition 9 passed on the floor of that meeting.

I wrote Bob Karp in Bakersfield, president of CREA, of my dissatisfaction with this stand and his response indicated many other brokers were also against 9, but CREA was obliged to reflect . . . the directors' vote, the majority rule . . .

Use Of WASP 'Communist Line'

I first read of the WASP in one of the national magazines and now I see that you have taken it up and use it frequently in your editorials. I had never thought of myself as a WASP (even the name instills fear) and I don't intend to start now. It therefore puzzles me as to why you must make this distinction between people.

Whether you know it or not, you are following the communist-socialist line by making a class distinction between people, such as you do. The differences, and not the similarities, between people such as religion, race, and station in life are always exploited by the communist-socialist and many of the misguided liberals in order to bring about the hatred, fear, and mistruct that is necessary for them to seize power. Class hatred has always been the prime component of every communist revolution.

Your editorial (Oct. 5; was certainly right on one thing: the OEO has got to go! But please, no substitutes or replacements.

Wallace Against Law And Order

If George Wallace symbolizes "law and order," then peace is war and freedom is slavery. Mr. Wallace stood on the steps of a state university and openly defied federal law. This violation was justified by claiming priority of state law. However, when he came to the end of his term as governor, Mr. Wallace was confronted by Alabama state law which prohibits a governor from succeeding himself. Wallace and his supporters evaded this law by placing Mrs. Wallace in the governor's seat.

Not content with this, Mr. Wallace now promises to reimburse every policeman fined for wearing Wallace campaign buttons. . This subsidizes a violation of most municipal ordinances regulating police activity. . . .

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

RUNNING the city of New York these days is a thankless job, as Mayor John Lindsay discovered as soon as he took office. At one stormy meeting open to the public, an indignant lady informed him, "If you stand for reelection, I wouldn't vote for you if you were St. Peter." Mayor Lindsay answered calmly, "Madam, if I were St. Peter, I doubt that you'd be in my voting district."

A determined lady phoned the city desk of an Indianapolis paper to order her husband's name inserted in the obituary column the following morning. He was shot, she explained, when discovered in a compromising situation with his seductive secretary. "When did your poor husband pass away?" asked the city editor. Replied the caller, "He starts tomorrow."

Sun Shines Bright On Barry In Arizona Senatorial Race

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The wheel of fortune has turned with such dramatic swiftness that the Democratic presidential candidate in 1968 finds himself in much the same situation as did the Republican presidential candidate in 1964. Barry Goldwater four years ago carried six states and by present reckoning Hubert Humphrey is shown as leading in scarcely more.

Running for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Carl Hayden, who started coming to Congress shortly after Arizona was admitted to the Union in 1912, Goldwater is elated over this state of affairs.

Supremely confident of victory this year, Goldwater is his old casual, easy-going self. One of the most clubbable men in public life, Goldwater is anticipating a return to the Senate club where he spent his happiest years. And if the present indicators are correct, the club under Republican management will be much more congenial for the senator from Arizona.

REFLECTING what is reported to be growing sentiment for George C. Wallace, Goldwater is devoting a lot of his speeches to warning of the dangers of a third-party candidate who might get enough votes to throw the election into the House of Representatives. He is careful to say he is not opposing Wallace. He adds that he can understand the frustration of those who cannot see any future in either the Democrats or the Republicans.

We may be disgusted with both national parties, he goes on to say, but for our country is it worthwhile going without a leader? He paints a gloomy picture of leaderless months while the House in unable to decide on either of the two candidates of the major parties. This is assuming that, because of the strength of the third party, neither Humphrey nor Nixon gets the required 270 electoral votes.

THE DEMOCRAT opposing Goldwater is Roy Elson, protege and long the administrative assistant to Senator Hayden. He would like to transfer to himself the magic of the Hayden name and the Hayden reputation for getting more federal largesse for Arizona than almost any other state in the Union. Hayden's final achievement is the Central Arizona Project, a mammoth water transferal development costing eventually just under a billion dollars. Political transference is, however, another matter, and particularly in a year promising to be unkind to Democrats.

Hayden observed his 91st birthday in Washington last week and, while he has been infirm, almost everyone out here feels that if he had decided to seek another term he would have been re-elected, Goldwater notwithstanding.

THE MOST VENERABLE of the lot, Hayden is one of a procession of senators retiring or defeated in the primaries largely by reason of age. Regardless of what happens on Nov. 5 the old guard is passing and the face of the Senate so long familiar will be radically changed.

Sen. Ernest Guening of Alaska, 81, was narrowly defeated by a younger man in the primary. So was Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, who is in his early 70s. On the Republican side Iowa's Bourke B. Hickenlooper and Kansas' Frank Carlson, both in their 70s, are retiring. Sen. Edward V. Long of Missouri was defeated by Tom Eagleton, a younger man. Not so much for age but for personal reasons, Senators Thurston B. Morton, (R-Ky.) and George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) are retiring. Several Democrats running for re-election this year are faced with young challengers, notably Wayne Morse of Oregon and Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania.

New Left Plans Drive To Keep Down The Vote

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The New Left's "National GI Week," timed to include Election Day, Nov. 5, will trigger a series of anti-war demonstrations by Vietnam protest groups in other nations.

That is the indication in data reaching government authorities who have been charting the activities of the New Left. These government experts are convinced that leaders of the movement, emboldened by their propaganda success in Chicago, plan a coordinated drive to exploit the turmoil of an election year.

Significantly, a group of the New Leftists participated in a meeting in Budapest early in September with representatives of North Vietnam. Indications are that the anti-war, anti-draft "GI Week" was discussed in the context of anti-U.S. demonstrations in other parts of the world.

ONE OF THE U.S. participants in that meeting was Ray Dellinger, identified as a son of David Dellinger, the self-styled non-Soviet Communist. The senior Dellinger, who helped to plan the disruptive protests at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago was not present in Budapest. However, he did serve as chairman of a subsequent meeting here which made plans for the National GI Week (Nov. 1-6), Vietnam Sunday (Nov. 3) and other activities, including demonstrations on college campuses. That meeting, Sept. 14, was sponsored by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC).

Also participating in that planning session were Thomas Hayden, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and another activist leader in Chicago, and Arnold Johnson, described in government reports as a member of the Communist Party's national committee and an old-time party leader.

THE INCREASINGLY serious problem posed by the new socio-political protest movement was highlighted last week when the Federal Bureau of Investigation cited the New Left, along with Soviet and Red Chinese espionage, as growing threats to the national security.

Information available to authorities here indicates that, while efforts may be coordinated at international conferences such as the one in Budapest, the New Left movement in the United States is calling its own shots.

The NMC, which has become the most important anti-war organization in the nation, is a coalition of anti-war and pacifist groups of the left. It plans to work in cooperation with other left-wing groups in the months ahead.

AT THE NMC conference here plans were made for campaign demonstrations against political candidates — especially those who support the Vietnam war.

These activities are to be intensified during the projected "GI Week," and clergymen will be asked to support anti-Vietnam activities on "Vietnam Sunday." During the final pre-election week, political headquarters in some cities are to be picketed.

Campus demonstrations will also be intensified, and tentative plans call for a strike or boycott of classes on some campuses on Election Day. Polling places, especially those easily covered by television and the news media, will be picketed.

NMC activists on the picket line will try to persuade potential voters not to cast ballots. They will try to keep the total vote down to support their view that the nation opposes not only the war but the whole political system in the United States.

Two Tempests Tarnish Tempers In Unusually Quiet Mill Valley

The usually quiet, albeit sometimes eccentric, community of Mill Valley has two major tempests brewing in its cul-de-sac at the moment, making even the most unflappable civic observers believe somehow they have ended up on the wrong side of Alice's looking glass.

The sudden rebellion of the city council Tuesday night in refusing to deed its Project 17 land to the school district for the joint middle school-park development left the school board and many citizens who voted for the $3.5 million school bond issue last year speechless and sputtering.

The specific point at issue between the two jurisdictions is the extent to which the school district will be able to provide recreation facilities as part of the first development phase of the middle school.

When the idea that the two jurisdictions work together to develop the marshlands, thus providing school and recreation facilities without duplication and saving the taxpayers a few dollars, was suggested last year, most residents were enthused. Only a few saw the pitfalls ahead.

However, as is often the case when politicians try to mix good will and money, something happened along the way.

THE CITY COUNCIL claims the school district promised to install at least $200,000 in indoor and outdoor recreation facilities. The school board claims it agreed to cooperate in the development of recreational facilities but did not agree to a $200,000 initial investment.

In addition, the school board wants to count the art rooms, library, stage and other amenities of the middle school as part of its contribution, while the city wants a gymnasium and ballfields.

Also, the school district is discovering, as others have before it, that it costs a lot of money to build such a school. In a money bind, with a promise to the voters to spend part of the bond money for improvement of neighborhood schools, the board feels it cannot set aside $200,000 for the city's wishes.

Thus comes the misunderstanding.

As this is written, it is hoped that the council and school board will resolve their differences at a special meeting called for Friday (today) but not without a lot of bitter feeling.

THE SECOND tempest comes from a surprising quarter: Enchanted Knolls, that subdivision near the Alto Wye.

Warner R. Odenthal and Eugen Harder's proposal to increase the density for 73 acres on the Enchanted Knolls ridge has the subdivision in a twit and has even shaken the sedate Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association to threats of recall.

But an interesting sidelight is that the development proposal has unearthed a long-silent campaign by some of the community's leaders to bring low-cost housing to Mill Valley.

FIVE MEMBERS of the city planning commission have suggested that the higher density (eight units per acre instead of the approved five) be allowed if the city requires a "reasonable amount of low and moderate cost housing" in the development.

The commissioners have noted that the city's zoning ordinance calls for protecting the economic and social stability of the city but provides no way of doing this. Thus, they say, the city is in the position of having a preponderance of high-cost housing.

Odenthal has indicated he is interested in the idea if he can afford it but that the big hitch again is money. Whether such a proposal is economically feasible depends upon the density allowed, and it's right there that the idealistic planners run smack into more than 100 irate Enchanted Knolls residents.

A letter setting forth the commissioners' case has been submitted to the city council and will be considered at its Oct. 21 meeting along with the higher density request.

Previewing The 1969 Models: Watch Out For LeMay Nike III

THE HUMPHREY HUMBER: This model has been on the market for a long time, but because it has been overshadowed by the Johnson Warhawk, which was built by the same factory, nobody knows what it can do on its own. Critics say it's the same old model and offers the buyers nothing new. But the Humphrey Humber people say while it doesn't look different, customers can expect an entirely different performance. Sales have been very slow and the company is afraid it may have another Edsel on its hands.

THE NIXON MARK VII: It was thought at one time that the Nixon would be retired because of the disastrous years when it went into a complete sales decline. But the Nixon has made a comeback with new engineering and a very successful advertising campaign. The Mark VII has a much quieter engine, uses less gas and appeals to the middle-class family market by claiming it is much safer than the other '69 models, and a better buy for the money. Automobile surveys indicate that customers are showing a preference for the Nixon, although many have complained the 1969 selection of cars doesn't give them much of a choice.

THE WALLACE WILDCAT: This little sports car, built in Alabama only a few years ago, was a laughing stock car. But people aren't laughing any more.

It is not only selling in the South, but in the North as well. It comes in only one color — white. It advertises itself to people who are tired of being pushed around on the city streets and highways by other cars. The manufacturer discovered that many people have a killer instinct when it comes to picking an automobile. And it has exploited this instinct by promising customers that the Wildcat will knock down anything that gets in its way.

Anyone who buys this car gets a free bumper sticker which says, "Support Your Local Police."

THE MUSKIE: This is the sleeper model of the year. It has great popularity amongst the younger people and in many places it's outselling the Humphrey Humber, mainly because it isn't stuck with all the accessories that the Humber has. Unfortunately, it is on display in the same showroom with the Humber and does not have a strong enough chassis to support both.

THE AGNEW ACK-ACK: When it first came out on the market it wasn't a household name; but it has been getting a great deal of publicity, and not all of it good. As a matter of fact, every time the manufacturer thinks it has all the bugs worked out, it has to recall the model and make further adjustments. One of the problems is that every time the Agnew goes forward, it has to back up. This is giving the dealers fits.

THE LeMAY NIKE III: This model came out late. The manufacturer, who used to make bombers, decided to try its hand at cars, and while the Nike has just appeared on the market as a sister to the Wallace Wildcat, it is considered by safety experts as the most dangerous car on the road. Although it looks innocent enough, those who have tested it say that as soon as you put your foot on the accelerator, the whole damn car explodes.

COUNTY COMMENT

Pass Out Postcards For Answers Already Known; You Pay Postage

Fusselman

Here is still another news story on transit. The I-J of Sept. 24 carried an item by reporter Paul Peterzell with the heading, "San Francisco Supervisors Ignore Chance To Aid Commuters."

In part this is it: "San Francisco politicians want commuters to pay a tax to work in their fair city, but the politicians themselves pay only lip service when it comes to doing something for the commuters.

"Their answer to the commute crisis seems to be, 'Ignore it long enough and it may go away'." It then cites the San Francisco Board of Supervisors' shelving of a proposal by the Marin County Transit District for a crash program by a "transit task force" to improve bus service between Marin and San Francisco Peterzell reported:

"It was to be taken before the San Francisco board by Supervisor Jack Morrison, who represents the San Francisco board on a committee composed of officials of the three jurisdictions. That was last spring." Peterzell asked Morrison about it and received a blank look with a response that he would "check on it."

MARIN SUPERVISOR Tom Storer and Morrison are co-chairmen of the committee that is handling the hiring of a consultant to make a $45,000 feasibility study of ferry boat commuting (San Francisco $30,000, Marin $15,000). Seymour Kashin the $22,580 manager of Marin Transit is the secretary of the group. (It takes a lot of brass, doesn't it?)

We also find Kashin, on Sept. 18 before the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission (state created) saying that Marin County was "planning an interim or short-range system of buses and ferries, but the long range mission is rail rapid transit." His latest, as presented to the Marin Transit District directors Wednesday night, is a proposal to make a survey of Marin Commuters "to determine their travel habits." The idea is to distribute 40,000 post cards, with return postage guaranteed, at the toll plaza of the bridge and by the bus drivers.

THAT'S A FUNNY one. Their "travel habits" are well known already. What is not known and is essential to find out is if Marin commuters who now drive or ride with a car pool would ever ride a bu s, no matter how much air-conditioning and gold plating were used.

This bureaucrat is just playing the Parkinson game and no mistake. For instance how in thunder could he say that the "long-range mission is rail rapid transit?" Consider that for a bit. It's a good measure of his approach. Just how will this rail rapid transit get across the bridge — and just where and how will it get through San Francisco? The Marina way: Nope, hardly, or 19th Avenue? He must be kidding. Or is he talking about a tube under the bay for the rail rapid transit? Who will be paying for that? Shades of BART!

Panel To Study School Figures

The Reed School District's citizens committee on finances and programs has asked to review available statistics on the district's programs and evaluated results of such programs, Jack Usilton, Reed School principal, reported.

Usilton said the committee, believing it had heard too many opinions and not enough facts on what was being accomplished in the district, asked Wednesday for data to back up oral reports submitted to the committee to date.

Charles L. Jenks, the district's director of evaluation, and school psychologist Gail Cox will report to the committee later this month, he said.

The third-sixth grade program at Reed School will be reviewed by the committee at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Del Mar School.

Additional Signs Request Is Studied

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee Wednesday considered the application of Jack-in-the-Box, 830 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, for two additional signs, then referred it back to the applicant for more details.

The firm, which has one free-standing sign and another on the building under construction, is seeking permission for an outdoor menu sign and a direction sign.
